WILLKIE WARNS FOES: OBEY LAW IN CAMPAIGNING

Hatch Act Violations to Be Prosecuted.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 11.—Wendell L. Willkie today issued a vigorous warning to managers of the Democratic national campaign, particularly the new national chairman, Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx, against extracting contributions from corporations in the guise of advertisments in the Democratic campaign book now in preparation.

The Republican nominee warned that if he is elected President, he not only will prosecute the solicitors of such campaign contributions, but the purchasers of such illegal advertisments, and that no assurances of protection from present federal officials will stop such prosecution. He recalled that assurances of protection which Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes had given oil producers early in the depression had proved of no avail against federal prosecution of these men at Madison, Wis.

Pleads for New Morality.

Willkie declared the time has come to establish a new moral tone in national campaigns—that it should not be postponed to another campaign, as some apologists for the Democratic campaign book procedure have attempted to do. Contributions to this book, he said, are a direct violation of the new Hatch act and also of the corrupt practices act.

"The second Hatch act, which specifically forbids such practices, was signed by the President on Aug. 2," said Willkie. "Are we going to have the spectacle of a great political party violating the law? The defense is that the book was gotten together before the act was passed. This is an immoral defense. I speak as a lawyer now. That kind of a defense never will be made in my campaign. The time has come to clean up this kind of thing."

Issues Sharp Statement.

Willkie has been hammering away for clean elections, for small contributions, since the day of his nomination. He issued the following statement:

"Press reports state that Boss Flynn of the Bronx, newly appointed chairman of the Democratic National committee, proposes to continue the pernicious and illegal practice of extracting political contributions from corporations thru the purchase by them of advertisments in the Democratic campaign book and the purchase of such campaign books.

"American corporate enterprises are subject to manifold federal regulatory commissions which exercise, under laws passed in the last few years, almost the power of life and death over their businesses. It is understandable, therefore, why some corporations, thru their officials, have yielded unwisely to this illegal solicitation and have made other illegal political contributions to Democratic machines thruout the country.

Warns Possible Violators.

"I wish to warn all corporations and their officials that such contributions are a direct violation of the federal corrupt practices act and the second Hatch act, enacted recently by congress.

"If I am elected President of the United States, all violations will be relentlessly prosecuted. I hope that no corporate official will be misled into the commission of this crime by assurances of the Democratic national chairman or any of his representatives or by any legal opinions rendered by any official of the federal government.

"The courts have held specifically that assurances or agreements of federal officials are no protection against punishment for violation of law. Likewise, all who participate, including solicitors, purchasers of advertisments and of campaign books, will be prosecuted.

"This is a simple and straightforward issue of political morals and public law enforcement regardless of partisanship and favoritism. Any one representing any political party engaged in any such practices will be prosecuted."

THE REAL ISSUE

U. S. to Resell Land It Bought as Sugar Co-Op

BY HARWOOD HULL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 11.—A New Deal dream to remake Puerto Rico's economy has come to an awakening with an admitted failure. It was announced today that approximately 6,000 acres of sugar cane land tilled for the past three years by 12 land cooperatives composed of several hundred field workers will be resold.

Workers wielded their machetes in a vain hope the land some day would be their own. They could not make the first payment on the purchase price due June 30 altho they met the 3 per cent interest charges on $2,000,000 advanced them for the purchase by the Puerto Rico Reconstruction administration.

Real Farmers to Try It.

If any of the cooperatives' former members can raise 10 per cent of the purchase price they will be given preferential treatment in a new plan for resale of the land on long terms to practical farmers and agricultural college graduates. The land will be parceled in 10 to 100 acre tracts valued at $200 to $600 per acre, according to Miles H. Fairbank, regional administrator.

The land cooperatives were part of the federally financed purchase of Lafayette Central, [sugar mill and land] bought in 1936 from French owners who had been successful for three generations. Details of the cooperative scheme were worked out by Dr. Ernest H. Gruening when, by appointment of President Roosevelt, he was head of the Puerto Rico Reconstruction administration. He now is governor of Alaska.

Mill Shows a Profit.

Fairbank, in announcing the coöp's liquidation, said the scheme was unsound from the start, altho the Lafayette sugar mill, also cooperatively owned and operated, has proved profitable. The Lafayette project, federally financed from relief funds at a cost of approximately $5,000,000, will pay out, Fairbank asserted, with the entire purchase price ultimately repaid to the United States.

He said the laborers should not be blamed for failure, as they lacked experience in management. He admitted they were temperamental.

Fairbank recently denied before congressional committees that the project was communistic.

REDS WHO QUIT JOBS TO FACE JAIL TERMS IN JURYLESS TRIALS

MOSCOW, Russia, Aug. 11 (AP).—Trial without jury for workers who quit their jobs or are absent without permission was specified in a decree issued today to speed soviet production. Idleness is punishable by imprisonment. Heretofore all court cases have been heard by two jurymen as well as a judge.

Another decree issued today made petty thievery on the job a crime punishable with a minimum of one year in prison. Special courts in session up to midnight have been set up to try such cases.

The two new decrees form part of a labor code which has already lengthened the work week, substituting the six day working week with one day off for the former five day week with every sixth day off.

DELIVERANCE IS NEAR, POLES TOLD BY BRITISH RADIO

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Hugh Dalton, minister of economic welfare, tonight told German conquered Poles that Britain would call "at a chosen moment" on all whom Adolf Hitler has vanquished to rise and "greet the armies which will land from England upon the shores of Europe." He told the Poles, "your hour of deliverance is near."

In a British broadcast of a Polish news service, Dalton said the moment would come "when we have drowned and destroyed any Germans who attempt to invade our island, when we have conquered the air over Germany."

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lenker and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lenker. The men were brothers and their wives were sisters.

Fraulein Uses Lipstick Nazis Forbid to Fifi

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—Paris girls who date with German soldiers may sport less lipstick than they used to in the old days because of orders from the Nazi authorities, but Berlin girls are suddenly blossoming forth in increasing numbers adorned with big splashes of undeniably high grade lipstick.

The soldiers who were in France and brought presents back to their sisters and sweethearts seem to blame, to judge by the half dozen girls whom I asked about the sudden increase in their display of lipstick.

They all said it had been a present brought along from France by brothers or sweethearts and that they were enjoying it in place of the very discreet home produced variety they used before the war.

An Old Wartime Custom.

But at times when young manhood must go to war and the chances of acquiring a husband are somewhat reduced, war psychologists declare women always need to dress up and "brighten the atmosphere." They say the new lipstick devotees are following the age old urge.

The girls in Berlin and many other big German cities are also going in for the fancy hairdo in which you pile as many curls as possible on top of your head—a fashion they were slow to adopt when the "up" effect was first adopted in France and America.

The German Labor front has organized special courses in cosmetics for working women.

Increase in Redheads.

Many of them have made good use of the beauty courses of the labor front, and perform their duties with enameled fingernails and carefully rouged and powdered faces.

In restaurants and theaters one can note a striking increase of redheads of the henna variety, which used to be quite rare in Germany.

LONDON SAYS 60 OF NAZIS SHOT DOWN; BERLIN CLAIMS 89 BRITONS ARE BAGGED

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Aug. 12, Monday (AP).—Germans declared today massed aerial assaults on England, such as that executed yesterday, would be continued with "the greatest energy," and said the Nazi air force now is ready to deliver a knockout blow.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—The biggest air battle in history raged over the English channel today when German Stuka and bomber formations launched a large scale attack on the British naval base at Portland.

Fierce air combats ensued between German planes and British fighters which rose to battle. Hundreds of planes participated in the fights, which extended for more than 300 miles from Portland in the west to Dover and the Thames mouth in the east.

The Germans reported 89 British planes were shot down and admitted 17 German planes failed to return.

Claim Three Successes.

The Germans claimed three major successes:

1. Crippling damage was done the fortified naval base at Portland. Fifty-seven British planes were reported felled there.

2. German raiders attacked a convoy of 70 merchantmen escorted by 14 warships east of Harwich and Margate. Three merchantmen totaling 17,000 tons were reported sunk, and one destroyer and three merchant ships heavily damaged by direct bomb hits. Seventeen British planes were reported shot down.

3. At Dover, Nazi pursuit planes were stated to have attacked 18 protective barrage balloons and destroyed eight. Seven British pursuit planes were reported downed at Dover. Eight British planes were reported downed at other points.

Almost Every Ship Hit.

The severest and apparently longest of the air fights was over the precipitous shoreline at Portland. Quoting eyewitnesses, DNB, the official German news agency, described Portland as heavily shattered by bombers. They were said to have destroyed almost every ship in the harbor.

Walls of wharves were said to have caved in, some warehouses to have collapsed and others to have burned under the German bombardment.

Reconnaissance flyers who scouted the scene, the agency said, reported oil stores and harbor works in flames, huge bomb craters scooped out by explosive bombs, loading piers smashed, ships burning in the harbor, and other vessels sunk.

Nazi bombs ignited "great fires among oil storage tanks and on the levee connecting the port with the mainland, it was stated.

Silence Antiaircraft.

British antiaircraft batteries were declared put out of action at Portland early in the battle, then British fighter planes gave battle.

At one time the German wireless broadcast that British planes were falling "like birds shot out of the sky."

The convoy was reported intercepted about 12 miles off Margate and attacked as it was steaming in a southwesterly direction off the Thames mouth.

The convoy was accompanied by two squadrons of Hurricane fighters, and Spitfire fighters were sent out from the shore. In the battles that developed 17 British planes were reported downed.

Try to Rescue Downed Pilots.

DNB reported the water was dotted with small vessels trying to rescue crews of downed British planes, and charged that one German craft downed by two British planes was a German Red Cross seaplane.

The German high command announced that bombers crippled an armed merchant ship Saturday, attacked an airplane plant at Norwich, a powder works near St. Ives and the ports of Newport, Swansea, and Pembroke [the latter two in Wales]. It also listed the 9,130 ton British merchantman Upwey Grange as sunk by a U-boat.

DEFENSE IN SKY WAR? IT'S DEADLY GAME OF GUESSING

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE FIGHTER COMMAND, Aug. 11 (AP).—Today's mass air fight over England's south coast was a "good engagement," but the "same old pattern," to the men who map Britain's sky defense and play a deadly game of guess with raiding squadrons.

I saw the defense system in operation as the fighter command headquarters received the terse report:

"Upwards of 150 German aircraft approaching . . . . Three British squadrons reënforcing those already in the air. One fighter squadron refueling."

The air vice marshal nodded. "Same thing as Thursday," he observed. "Simultaneous attacks which get hotter until finally, far from the original point of attack, they throw in a couple of hundred planes. We're doing all right. We shoot down four of theirs for every British loss. The people winning the war are those kids out there [the royal air force pilots]."

It's All Cold Strategy.

Outside, fast Hurricanes could be heard roaring to the sky fight.

"When Jerry gets an idea," the vice air marshal said, "he sticks to it until we knock it out of his head. Here's what he does—or tries to do:

"First blow comes here." The officer's finger pointed to a northeastern port of England on his huge map. "Then a bigger attack here. Finally attacks on convoys here and here."

He went on with his terse description of Britain's countertactics as calmly as a professor expounding a problem in mathematics, while 75 miles away coastal towns were being pounded by heavy bombs and his reenforcement squadrons were diving into the fray to beat the raiders back.

A Matter of Guessing.

"Seven more Germans destroyed."

The vice air marshal said it is a game of guess—to figure out where the Nazis will strike next and head them off.

"Sometimes they seem headed for one place, then switch to another," he related. "It's our job to have enough aircraft to intercept them wherever they strike. We just see that they [the British flyers] have the right number in the air at the right moment."

Coastal reconnaissance planes and convoy guards relay information on location and direction of air raiders.

Like a Chess Game.

Markers showing positions of the attackers, and available forces of defense planes are moved about the map of England like pieces in a chess game.

"The Germans in opening the attack often use 10 or 15 bombers and 50 or 60 fighters in order to engage as many British fighters as possible," the officer pointed out. "We send one section against their fighters, another against the bombers.

"Often German fighters lie poised above the clouds at 25,000 feet. If we are too many for them—say two to three—they turn and dive back to France before we can climb to them."

Of the large forces of planes sent over by the Nazis, he commented:

180,000 RECRUITS JOIN IRISH DEFENSE FORCE IN 71 DAYS

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 11 (AP).—One hundred and eighty thousand men have joined Ireland's defense force in the 71 days since June 1, Frank Aiken, minister of defense coördination, announced today. He said that "any enemy who attempts to attack Irish territory will pay dearly for it." Patrick Little, minister of posts and telegraphs, said "every mile of Irish coast now is patroled and guarded."

Germans Strike All Day from Dover to Weymouth.

LONDON, Aug. 12, Monday (AP).—Losing little time in the Nazi aerial warfare upon Great Britain, successive waves of German warplanes attempted to break thru defense lines on the northeast coast early today several hours after more than 400 swastika-marked planes lashed 300 miles of England's coasts in a gigantic air fight.

The British reported the fresh German attack was repulsed by heavy fire from ground batteries.

After the firing in Sunday's great air battle had died down along England's gun-girdled coasts last night, the British air ministry claimed an official total of 60 German warplanes shot down. However, the air ministry's news service in a story of the day long fighting detailed 69 German planes shot down. The British said they lost 26 planes.

Blast in Northern Ireland.

As the raids continued today, a loud explosion was heard over a large area of Northern Ireland. The cause was not learned but aircraft were known to have been in the vicinity.

Other early morning raiders over England reconnoitered widely and dropped a large number of bombs on an unidentified west coast town. Enemy planes were reported over southwest and southeast England, the Midlands and Wales.

The air ministry announced that the fight was the second in four days over the English channel battlefront in which 400 planes have been hurled against Britain's defenses. The other 400 plane raid was aimed at southeastern England last Thursday, and 60 German planes were reported downed then.

The 60 German planes reported shot down in Sunday's fighting brought to 387 the total Nazi air losses tallied by Britain since the start of mass air attacks last June 18.

Admit Two Ships Damaged.

The swarming Germans yesterday battered hardest against the British naval base of Portland, with 200 German planes striking in that attack.

But other large flights of raiders smashed at shipping along miles of the channel and pierced inland, bombing towns with an undisclosed toll.

A British communique said "minor damage was caused to two of his majesty's ships by splinters" during the Portland fight and that bombs falling on the shore caused some damage to naval buildings including a hospital.

The communique said "there were a number of civilian casualties but few of these were serious."

Amplifying the air ministry's communique, the ministry's news service said the attacks began at 7:30 a. m., continued at a furious pace until the afternoon, and broke out again mildly in the early evening when two bombers were destroyed off the east coast.

Three Points of Attack.

"There were three distinct points of attack: on Portland, on Dover, and on a convoy off the East Anglian coast," the news service reported.

After hitting first at Dover, the Germans hurled a terrific attack against Portland shortly after 10 a. m.

"In this action, which lasted until noon, the enemy suffered their heaviest losses," the news service said. "Nearly 40 of them crashed on sea or land, when Spitfire and Hurricane squadrons roared in and out, breaking up their formations, zooming and diving and picking them off in a long series of dogfights."

Weymouth and Portland were attacked inland as well as along the waterfront. In one place 40 houses were reported demolished and 150 others damaged in a 15 minute attack.

In the convoy action, British Spitfires surprised 40 Nazi bombers about to attack the convoy and dispersed them, it was stated.

One southeastern coast town had at least four separate raids starting at dawn. There, alone, observers counted at least 10 German planes downed in almost ceaseless dog fights.

The raiders' cannon carrying Messerschmitts blasted down at least three barrage balloons guarding the vital harbors, tons of bombs shook at least two coastal towns, dive bombers attacked shipping, and streets were splattered with machine gun fire.

Britain beat at the raiders with the full strength of her coast defense system—showering attacking squadrons with antiaircraft fire and hurling power diving counterattacks down on the bombers.

Raid German Objectives.

Sunday's south coast attacks grew out of an explosive prelude of bombings during the night in which 17 bombs fell on one Welsh town alone, wiping out an entire family. Two air raid wardens were killed while hustling others to shelter.

By dawn the raids had intensified the air battle on the south and east coast.

An air ministry communique credited the British air force with daylight and dark attacks into Germany yesterday and last night.

Nazi-used airdromes in Holland and France and on the Nazi held British island of Guernsey were targets of the daylight bombings. At night the British attacked the docks at Hamburg, the Wilhelmshaven naval base, wharfs at Duisberg, and airdromes and supply and industrial targets thru the Low Countries and northeastern Germany, it said.

Three British planes were reported missing.

WAR'S VIOLENCE WILL DOOM WAR, GANDHI ASSERTS

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 11 (AP).—A new era of nonviolent resistance to aggression is dawning, Mohandas K. Gandhi said today in a signed article in the newspaper Harijan, and cited as a straw in the wind a recent broadcast by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, head of the French national committee in London, urging "all free Frenchmen" not to help Germany in her war with Britain.

Commenting on de Gaulle's broadcast, Gandhi asserted, "I know this is not a case of conversion [to Gandhi's doctrine of passive resistance]. The gallant general will deal destruction to the enemy to the best of his ability wherever he is able." Gandhi inferred de Gaulle's advice shows that "the world is irresistibly, unconsciously, being drawn toward nonviolent action."

"The present war," he said, "is the saturation point in violence. It spells to my mind also its doom."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—Russia today took over the quarters of the Latvian and Estonian legations in Berlin.

The Lithuanian legation refused to yield its big villa to the soviets, insisting that tradition be respected. This calls for the Lithuanian minister in Berlin to be apprised of the Russian claim by the German foreign office, to which the legation was accredited until Russia absorbed Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia.

When a Russian delegation left after demanding that the villa be yielded, the Lithuanian minister, Kazsis Skirpa, had the iron gates to the legation locked, and he plans to sit tight until he receives a legal notification from the Germans. It is expected Germany will notify him tomorrow that she recognizes the soviets' claim to the property.

CABINET PRAISES BRITISH AIRMEN WHO 'BEAT' NAZIS

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today sent the following message to the air ministry:

"The war cabinet will be glad if you would convey to the fighter squadrons of the Royal Air force engaged in Thursday's brilliant action, their admiration of the skill and prowess they displayed and congratulate them upon the defeat and heavy losses inflicted upon a far more numerous enemy."

The British announced 60 of 400 German planes were destroyed in the action off Dover and the Isle of Wight.

Charles Cocolough, colored, of 2537 Warren boulevard, was held for reckless driving and failure to have a driver's license yesterday after he allegedly ignored a traffic light at Fullerton and Western avenues and his car went into the front of a restaurant at 2346 North Western avenue. He is a WPA laborer.

Where British Battled 400 German Air Raiders

Diagonally lined area shows where 400 German war planes swept across the English channel and raided England yesterday. Clashes with defending planes produced great battles in air with both sides claiming they inflicted heavy losses. Captions explain major developments.

PUFFS OF SHELLS FLECK SKY AS AIR FIGHT RAGES

Britons Watch, Then Hunt Souvenirs.

BY ROBERT E. BUNNELLE.

ON ENGLAND'S SOUTHEAST COAST, Aug. 11 (AP).—From a balcony spattered with machine gun fire and jarred by deafening bombardment I saw a new chapter in the battle of Britain written today in a sabbath sky thick with planes and spotted with mushroom puffs from antiaircraft shells.

Between attacks I rushed with other onlookers to gather shell fragment souvenirs. We found machine gun bullets imbedded in the concrete a few feet from where we stood. Antiaircraft guns thundered a nerve wracking din 100 yards away.

The raiders screamed down—sometimes from 15,000 feet up—out of the early morning sun, pouncing on coastal balloon barrages. But from the ground and in the air the British gave them a hot reception.

Surprise Attack on Balloons.

In one attack I saw four German planes apparently bagged by British fighter planes and antiaircraft shells. Another correspondent farther down the coast counted one, and possibly two others, plummeting from great height and trailing dense smoke.

The raid began as a surprise attack on the balloons, but developed soon into fierce dogfights, and was followed by repeated attacks by larger and larger waves, finally attacking the town as well as the waterfront.

The gunfire rolled like thunder. One flight of raiders was split into two parts by antiaircraft fire which kept one group performing aerial acrobatics while British pilots engaged the other.

Sometimes the planes were so high they looked like tiny specks of wind blown paper.

Parachutes Into Water.

The battle raged so furiously it was impossible to keep accurate track of the planes which fell. A pilot of one destroyed plane drifted by parachute into the water two miles off shore.

Little files of townsfolk on their way to church looked back toward the coast for glimpses of the air fight and heard the Messerschmitt [German] cannon fire directed at barrage balloons.

Before church services were over new flights of raiders dived out of the sun, with machine guns and bomb sights aimed at streets and buildings.

Explosions shook the town and motors screamed as planes tangled overhead in a blaze of action inland and along the whole seafront.

There was a lull and I went out to gather souvenirs, but guns within 100 yards of us blazed away and observers ducked for cover.

Air Raid Warden's Warning.

An air raid warden strode past with the warning:

But thru the firing balloon barrage crews worked as calmly as carpenters filling new balloons to replace those shot down.

Most church services proceeded without interruption thru the din. Two churches, however, were struck by bombs and 40 children in a Sunday school were showered by glass and debris. None of the children was injured seriously.

Outside one damaged church the rector placed a sign:

"Give thanks to God. Thanksgiving services will be held at 6:30 p. m. in the open air."

At several places British motorboats put out to pick up pilots who bailed out as their planes dived into the sea.

From a waterfront esplanade bombs could be seen bursting all around one ship, almost hiding it at times with columns of spray. After the attack the ship could be seen, continuing on its way.

Plan to Invade Britain May Be Dropped, Germany Hints

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—Germany plans to force England to her knees thru extensive air bombardments and thru the crippling of British shipping by submarines, speedboats and bombers, rather than thru an invasion of the British Isles, it was asserted in today's Frankfurter Zeitung.

This influential paper, frequently used as the mouthpiece of the Wilhelmstrasse, said:

"The destructions caused by our aerial bombs to factories and plants indispensable to British economic life, have only reached their initial stage.

"Not Germany, but England, is blockaded. The English people have no idea to what extent the effects of further sinkings may go. The blockade will make itself progressively felt as a rapid decrease of the stores in hand concurs with a sweeping curtailment of seaborne supplies."

Not Ready to Yield.

The paper declared that the British government is not yet prepared to pay the price requested by the axis powers. This price includes, according to the Frankfurter Zeitung, the abandonment by England of the "traditional European intrigues, the return of the German colonies, German and Italian access to raw materials and the liberation of Italy from her Mediterranean prison.

"England still is deceived by the existence of her navy, her army, the empire, President Roosevelt's friendship and the faith in her productive power and the 'miraculous deeds' of the royal air force," the paper said.

"In its trust in American help England is being misled to such an extent that no statesman across the Atlantic will be able to bear the responsibility in the eyes of history.

"The axis powers have prepared and are conducting this war in such a manner that physical force will succeed where an appeal to reason has failed."

Says Air Attacks Can't Win.

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Mass air attacks on British industries and shipping cannot win the war for Germany; Adolf Hitler must "take us and break us" if he wants to win, Secretary of State for India Leopold C. M. S. Amery said in a speech at Blackpool tonight.

"If Hitler thinks our spirit can be broken by mere mass attack from the air upon our industries and our shipping he will find himself grievously mistaken," Amery declared.

"He has got to come over and take us—take us and break us as he has taken and broken others.

"Let him try. If he does, he will fail disastrously and his failure will bring the end of the war nearer than anything else could possibly do."

Hitler might hope, as a second best plan, to "lop off some of the empire's limbs," the secretary for India added. "He might send his bombers and airborne troops to stiffen his halfhearted Italian allies" against Egypt, the middle east and Africa. But "if he does that, his men will meet not only a warm climate but a warm reception," Amery declared.

90 JAP PLANES DUMP BOMBS ON CHINESE CAPITAL

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 12, Monday (AP).—Ninety Japanese bombing planes yesterday dumped tons of explosives on this provisional Chinese capital in their 25th raid since last May. Less than 50 persons were reported killed or wounded.

The soviet embassy was hit—for the third time in three months—a bomb demolishing one of the embassy buildings recently rebuilt after an earlier bombing.

Bombs again exploded near the hotel where the Associated Press correspondent and other newspaper men have their headquarters, knocking off most of the plaster which remained after previous raids.

Jap Navy Training Ship Aground Off Philippines

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 12, Monday (AP).—The Philippine coast guard cutter Arayat reported today that the Japanese training ship Shichisei Maru was aground at Camiguin Island, in the Babuyan group of Philippine islands directly north of Luzon island. The Arayat, which returned here from a patrol to northern Philippine waters, said the Japanese reported their ship was blown ashore in July by a typhoon. The 30 men aboard were safe. The ship rested high and dry only a few yards from the beach.

Jamaica Donates $40,000 to Buy British 2 Bombers

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 11.—Jamaica has sent $40,000 to England to buy two bombing planes. Henriques brothers, large Jamaica company which previously had made generous contributions, donated $20,000 more. Jamaica is expected to contribute six more bombers shortly.

ITALIANS CLAIM CAPTURE OF KEY AFRICAN PASSES

Advance on Port Thru Blistering Heat.

ROME, Aug. 11 (AP).—Italian troops, driving relentlessly thru the blistering heat of British Somaliland, have captured Karrin pass and Godajere pass and are pressing on toward Berbera, the high command announced today.

Berbera is the chief port of British Somaliland and the two passes reported taken presumably were among the most important obstacles facing an Italian advance from Ethiopia. Their capture would bring the Italians within 60 miles of Berbera.

The British have spoken of their "main positions" in the hills south of Berbera, and it was assumed they would make a stand in the passes threading the hills, if anywhere.

On the other side of Ethiopia, Italian planes bombed British air fields at Erkovit [Anglo-Egyptian Sudan], scoring hits on 15 grounded planes and beating off an attack by enemy pursuit planes, the communique said.

Call It Wasteful Enterprise.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 11 (AP).—With Italian troops advancing in Somaliland, the British explained tonight that Britain's strategy is to encourage Premier Mussolini's men to use up their "precious supplies in what is a strategically wasteful enterprise."

The Italians have not met the British defense force but Fascist columns driving toward Berbera are being bombed systematically by the British.

A British general headquarters statement said "it is not our object to defend every inch of soil in Somaliland, but rather to make the enemy use up his precious supplies of food, gasoline, and ammunition which he cannot replenish in what is a strategically wasteful enterprise. The more the Italians dissipate their forces, the more they lengthen their communications, the better it is for us."

Claim Control of Red Sea.

British convoys laden with Africa bound war supplies are steaming regularly and unchallenged thru the Red sea, British officials reported.

Despite Italian communiques claiming the capture of two passes, Karrin and Godajere, in the desolate, heat seared Somaliland hills south of Berbera, the British said the Italian forces of the Duke D'Aosta had not yet come in contact with the British "main position."

The British, holding undisputed command of the Suez canal, gateway from the Mediterranean on the north, and the Red sea and Gulf of Aden on the south, laughed off Italian claims that successes in British Somaliland "closes the back door to Suez, severs the route to India, and bottles up the British Mediterranean fleet."

Today's communique said new bomb raids on Italian positions in Karrin pass scattered troop concentrations and silenced antiaircraft positions. All the British craft returned.

Two more attacks were driven home with direct hits on an Italian motorized column near Bubato.

Three Italian bombers flew 150 miles across the Gulf of Aden and bombed the capital of Aden protectorate. The British said two natives were killed and slight damage inflicted.

Bomb Military Camps.

In Libya, where the Italians are massing for a drive on Egypt, the British bombed military camps and motor transport concentrations in the Gabra Salea area, near the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan border. Another squadron raided the Barentu airdrome in Eritrea and reported grounded Italian planes were bombed and machine gunned.

An Italian formation attacked RAF landing fields in the Sudan, but the British said there were no casualties nor damage. The Italians had reported 15 British planes destroyed in an attack on Sudan airdromes.

British headquarters at Nairobi, in Kenya Colony, admitted Italian troops from Ethiopa had pushed 30 miles south of Moyale to strong positions at Dobel, in northern Kenya.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN.

Fire destroyed a barn on the farm of Mrs. Fred McConnell near Woodstock Saturday with an estimated loss of $3,500. Seven hundred bushels of newly threshed oats were destroyed.

SUPERIOR ARMS BLITZKRIEG KEY: COL. M'CORMICK

Information on New Form of War Held Vital.

A theory that the success of the German blitzkrieg against the French and British armies was brought about by possession of superior weapons was advanced in a radio address last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

He spoke on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system and over the network of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation.

Col. McCormick said the only explanation he could conceive for the Germans' thrust to the English channel thru hundreds of thousands of French and British troops was that the Germans were much better armed than their opponents. He said the deciding factor may have been the submachine gun with which every German soldier was provided.

Advantage of Guns Told.

"Men with bolt action rifles, or even semiautomatic rifles," he declared, "would meet certain annihilation if they tried to come to grips with submachine gun men."

Col. McCormick emphasized that the vital need of the United States today is information on how the new form of war is waged. He said we should have hundreds of agents in Europe getting that information.

Col. McCormick, an overseas staff officer in the world war, concluded his series of addresses on national defense and military tactics with last night's broadcast. Bound volumes containing the text of all the addresses may be obtained free, radio listeners were told, by writing to the stations to which they were listening.

Beginning with next Sunday's Symphonic hour, it was announced, Col. McCormick will turn to other subjects.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

Following is the text of Col. McCormick's address:

"During the weeks I have been talking to you on various military topics, I have been puzzling over the mystery of blitzkrieg. I have compiled everything that has been published on the campaigns of the last year, and have consulted numerous books on the last war.

"Out of all this has come a mosaic leading to a theory of what happened.

"Every one expected the defeat of Poland, a country almost surrounded by its enemy, greatly inferior in numbers and in materiel. In consequence, we dismissed that campaign too easily.

"There seemed no lesson from Norway, except the isolated campaign of Narvik, of which I will have a word to say later.

Methods of Attack Unique.

"We were not surprised that Holland was overrun, unique as were some of the methods of attack, and the Belgian army had commanded little respect in the last world war.

"But we were fairly dumfounded that the French and British armies should be routed in a matter of days.

"What happened?

"I think we know enough of the tactics used by both sides in the last war, and by the Germans in that too easily dismissed campaign of Poland, the battles of Narvik and Rotterdam to formulate a theory as to what did happen.

"If my theory is erroneous, its presentation will be justified if it puts military thinkers on the right track.

Surprise Attack Made.

"As far as I know, command of the air was only obtained in the last war twice. Before the battle of Soissons, French aviation effectively prevented German reconnaissance west of the forests of Compiègne. Under this protection Foch massed the American divisions and made the surprise attack upon Soissons which defeated the Germans in the second battle of the Marne.

"In Palestine the British had complete command of the air. They knew all the enemy dispositions and kept the few German flyers from ascertaining any of their own movements.

"In order to avoid the military consequences of their failure to obtain information, the German flyers supplied their high command with misinformation—a not altogether unusual military crime.

"When the British made the surprise attack which broke thru the Turkish right flank, they bombed the Turkish telephone centers so that the unassailed portions of the Turkish army were unaware that a battle was going on until after their retreat was cut off.

Scale More Comprehensive.

"In Poland the Germans did on a more comprehensive scale what the English had done in Palestine, using tanks where the British had used cavalry and Arab allies. They also borrowed from the battle of Tannenburg. At Tannenburg in 1914 Gen. Von Francois, commanding the right flank of the German army, disobeyed orders to attack the left flank of the Russian forces, and, passing around that flank, took up a defensive position in the rear of the Russian army. This army, when repulsed in front, and compelled to retreat, found its retreat cut off, and surrendered.

"We find in the German description of the battle of Poland that after breaking thru the Polish lines the German troops surrounded the Polish armies and successfully withstood their efforts to break out.

"Having achieved a successful offensive, and having surrounded their enemy, they were equally successful on the defensive in warding off his attacks. They could break the Polish lines. The Poles could not break their lines.

The Battle of Sedan.

"Coming now to the battle of Sedan. The Germans had complete command of the air due to the French air fleet having been given to Spain, to its not having been replaced due to sit-down strikes, and to the misuse of the British air force. The Germans broke thru the fortified line by a surprise attack of infernal violence. How they passed thru the tank traps we do not know, but as they had complete information, due to their command of the air, it may not have been difficult to avoid them.

"We do know they had practiced the destruction of pill boxes or bunkers of the Czecho-Slovakian fortifications. We know they used very high velocity cannon. We know they used smoke screens. They used diving bombers and parachute troops. Their tanks charged thru the beaten zone in a few minutes.

"Having come to grips with the forts, they had special devices of explosives and, apparently, of acetylene torches. They had foot troops in armored cars equipped with submachine guns to annihilate opposing infantry at close range.

Tanks Rolled On.

"The fortifications once reduced, the tanks rolled on into the open country, irresistible by anything that could be brought against them.

"Our books have deprecated tanks by saying they could merely go places but could not stay anywhere. This weakness was overcome by sending after the tanks mechanized divisions; divisions in which cannon were pulled by tractors and soldiers were carried in trucks.

"It seems obvious that as the tanks pushed forward, overcoming all resistance, the mechanized troops were unloaded and formed lines facing north and south, protecting the corridor thru which supplies and more men were brought up to back the tanks. In this manner the spearhead drove to the channel, to Boulogne, to Calais, and, finally, to the outskirts of Dunkirk.

Maneuver Is Novel.

"Certain it is that such a formation, a force deliberately thrust between two hostile armies, like a long neck, apparently easy to cut in two, is an entirely novel maneuver. Any staff officer in any other army who would have suggested such a thing would have been immediately reduced to the line. Yet the Germans carried this out with ease in the face of hundreds of thousands of well trained and, as we thought, well armed French and British troops.

"The only explanation which occurs to me is that the Germans were much better armed than their opponents. This is borne out by the reports of the British hospitals—that the velocity of German bullets was much greater in this war than in the last war, and from the fact that at Narvik the Germans were able to maintain themselves against what appeared to have been overwhelming odds, as well as by their success in every single engagement from Poland to the Loire.

"The new weapon which many people are too readily discounting may well be the submachine gun with which every German soldier is provided. How can troops, not so equipped, carry out a successful offensive against men so armed? Men with bolt-action rifles, or even semiautomatic rifles, would meet as certain annihilation if they tried to come to grips with submachine gunmen as the sword and spear carriers of the Mahdi did in assaulting Kitchener's riflemen. Yes, and as Custer's cavalry charging with swords against Sitting Bull's Indians armed with rifles.

Information Vital Necessity.

"If I am mistaken as to this, some other cause must be found.

"Our vital necessity is information. Our agents in Europe should be numbered not by the dozens, but by the hundreds—interviewing men who have been in the fighting, obtaining photographs, buying bullets and shell fragments. The campaigns in Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Norway, Holland, Belgium, and France have created a new form of war, of which all of us in this country are ignorant.

"Every military student should try to determine what it is by calling upon his experience and his reading. But when all is said and done, nothing takes the place of positive information."

VOICES JOIN ORCHESTRA

The W-G-N chorus of 15 voices collaborated with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber in giving Symphonic hour listeners an outstanding presentation of "Going Home," the largo from Dvorak's "New World Symphony." The third and fourth movements were heard on previous Sundays.

In the W-G-N studio audience were more than 100 delegates to the convention of Affiliated Teachers at the Sherwood Music school. They represented 24 states and Cuba.

The night was a special one for Marion Claire, operatic soprano who is the Symphonic hour soloist, for she sang "Mi Chiamano Mimi," from "La Boheme." Twelve years ago Miss Claire made her debut with the Chicago Opera company as Mimi, the wistful heroine of the Puccini opera.

Last evening Miss Claire also introduced on the Symphonic hour the music of Max Reger. His "Herzenstausch" had only one fault—there was too little of it. The Symphonic hour was produced by William A. Bacher, W-G-N production chief.

Report Indo-China Faces New Pressure from Japs

HANOI, French Indo-China, Aug. 11 (AP).—Gen. Issaku Nishihara, head of a Japanese military mission, will bring new pressure to bear against French Indo-China officials this week to obtain their "maximum coöperation" against China, reliable informants said today.

Admit U. S. Can't Equip Army of 500,000 Before May, 1941

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—The United States could not put a fully equipped army of half a million troops into the field until next May, war department officials said today. They reported that war material orders, placed under last year's appropriation measures, are being filled daily. They said that by May, 1941, enough equipment will be on hand to outfit a fighting army of this size.

The armored corps of two divisions, now undergoing organization, also will be fully equipped by that time, it was said.

Army men said, however, that next May is the earliest an attack from Europe could be made, if then. They declared that more equipment would be available by August, 1941, when the icebergs will be gone from the northern shipping lanes.

Expect 700,000 Under Arms.

War department executives estimated that 700,000 men will be under arms by December if the National Guard and reserve officers personnel are ordered into federal service for a year, as contemplated by pending legislation. Of this total the regular army will comprise 375,000, the present authorized strength, it was explained.

Allowing for the garrisons at the many military reservations and the air corps, this would leave about half a million men who could take the field on active service, experts said.

Conscription Means 1,400,000.

If the present conscription plan is adopted, however, the army will have about 1,400,000 men available for call, and probably in training by next April, the war department officials explained. This figure would include the National Guard.

How many of this total could be fully equipped by next summer is purely speculative, they admitted.

William S. Knudsen, production chief of the national defense advisory commission, last week was unable to give the senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee a definite answer as to the earliest date complete equipment will be available for 750,000 men. He asked permission to prepare a brief on the subject, and said that the present program, which contemplates equipment for a potential army of 2 million men, will not be contemplated until the middle of 1944.

ARRANGE BLOOD SHIPMENTS TO WAR WOUNDED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Mobilization of volunteer donors to furnish blood plasma to Great Britain's war wounded was announced today by the American Red Cross.

The donors will be New York City residents. The project will be conducted in coöperation with the Blood Transfusion Betterment Association of New York. The Red Cross will mobilize the donors and ship the expected thousands of liters of solution to the British Red Cross. Shipments will be made by Clipper planes if emergency conditions demand.

Recently the Red Cross perfected experimental plans for the possible organization of a nation-wide corps of donors in this country to make a supply available to the army medical corps in case of emergency.

The solution will be half blood plasma and half saline solution. This allows the material to be kept indefinitely in sterile bottles, whereas whole blood is subject to deterioration. Unlike whole blood used in ordinary transfusions, "typing" is not necessary to plasma transfusions.

ZIGZAGGING CONVOY FROM EGYPT MAKES 4½ DAY TRIP IN 9 DAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph has arrived at Aden, British protectorate at the lower end of the Red sea, from Egypt. He reported that the large convoy on which he traveled took nine days instead of the usual 4½, to make the 1,300 mile trip, altho no enemy was sighted.

The slow progress of the convoy, the correspondent said, was due to the zigzag course taken and an unceasing vigilance that prevented any unidentified craft from approaching. At sight of any thin trail of smoke on the horizon a unit of the fleet immediately investigated the identity of the craft from which it came.

Royal air force bombers patroled most of the route, but when bases were too remote for this, warships catapulted seaplanes into the air to guard against submarines.

The convoy transported a large force of British Indian troops. The ship on which the correspondent traveled carried three times its normal number of passengers, but whether this was because of evacuations from Egypt was not stated.

ITALY THREATENS GREECE; REPORT BORDER SLAYING

Hint Fascists May Grab New Territory.

ROME, Italy, Aug. 11 (AP).—A sudden Fascist bolt of displeasure was shot at Greece today by the official Italian news agency which charged Greeks with decapitating an Albanian nationalist and warned that such "evil crimes" will not go unanswered.

Stefani, the agency, said the decapitation had occurred near the border in Albania, united with Italy under the Italian crown since Italian invasion and the flight of King Zog, April 9, 1939.

Turning its fire upon the government of Dictator-Premier John Metaxas, which is inclined to friendliness toward Britain, Stefani strongly indicated the alleged crime might fire Albanian nationalists to bring some naighboring Greek territory into their Italian-occupied homeland.

[Premier-Dictator Metaxas of Greece last Sunday reiterated that his country "remains and will remain neutral." He also swore to keep traitors out of the country. Greece, while not an ally of Britain, has received a British guarantee of her independence.]

Tells of Another Slaying.

The news agency, in a dispatch from Tirana, Albanian capital, identified the beheaded victim as Haut Hoggia and declared "it is not the only recent episode of political oppression by Greece."

Stefani said a few months ago the body of another Albanian nationalist was found with a leaflet pinned to the body warning the same fate awaited "all Albanians who hoped to liberate their country from Greek domination."

The agency warned:

"Hoggia's sacrifice will not be in vain, since news of the evil crime has deeply moved Albanians of Ciamuria."

Ciamuria is the border region in which Hoggia was said to have been put to death.

Threats to Italians Charged.

Denouncing Greek "tyranny" over her Albanian minority, Stefani added that "Greek authorities, as has been authoritatively ascertained by numerous witnesses, even have gone so far as to affirm that Italians soon will be thrown out of Albania."

The news agency told how the killers had taken Hoggia's headless body to be displayed in village after village. It charged that all this was done at the direction of Greek authorities who had placed a price on his head.

The Janina province territory mentioned as desiring "liberation" from Greece extends along the coast for about 60 miles and is across the Strait of Otranto from the heel of the Italian boot. Janina has 137,500 inhabitants.

[Directly offshore from Janina is the Greek island of Corfu, which Italian forces bombarded in 1923. Premier Mussolini defied the league of nations in seeking to take this island, but finally withdrew.]

Lamp Thrown in Fight; Blaze Kills 7 Ohioans

Columbus, O., Aug. 11 (AP).—Seven persons perished at dawn today in a flaming residence that was fired by an oil lamp thrown during an argument. All were Negroes. Two men and a woman were jailed by police seeking to determine which of them threw the lamp. A father, mother, and their four children were among the victims.

PILOT AND WIFE KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES IN IOWA

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 11 (AP).—A young Dubuque mechanic and his wife, both 20 years old, were killed here this evening when the plane they had rented crashed 15 miles from here. The victims, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Atkinson, were found near Scales Mountain, Wis. Witnesses said that Atkinson "had been stunting for his friends and seemed to have motor trouble." Atkinson, employed as a mechanic here, was studying for his commercial pilot's license. He had 150 flying hours.

2 Die as Blazing Plane Falls.

Army Flyer Killed.

Las Vegas, Nev., Aug. 11 (AP).—A newly delivered army plane flown by Lieut. Laurence E. Wernberg, New York City, plunged into Lake Mead today carrying the pilot to his death. The B-T 13 ship was one of five which Wernberg and fellow officers picked up at the Vultee factory near Los Angeles to fly to Kelly field, Tex.

DIES OF CRASH INJURIES.

Harvard, Ill., Aug. 11 [Special].—Mrs. George Young, 70 years old, a resident here for many years, died yesterday from injuries received in an automobile accident on Monday. She was a native of Germany. She leaves her husband, four daughters, 13 grandchildren and a great-grandson. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

ORGANIZED LABOR FACES JUNK PILE IN NEW FRANCE

Drive Begun for Death of Big Confederation.

VICHY, France, Aug. 11 (AP).—Organized labor appeared headed for the scrap heap in France today. Preparations were rapidly shaping for a corporative style of structure in which workers and employers will be organized in units and their differences settled by the government.

Altho France's great labor organization, the Confederation General de Travail, has abandoned its old class struggle principles and proclaimed its aims of protecting interests of the nation, a violent campaign, with all the earmarks of a death thrust, has broken out against it.

The press unanimously is demanding a complete new organization of the nation's industrial life in corporative and professional groups. Leon Jouhaux, who as secretary-general of C. G. T. was France's labor chief, and other leaders have been assailed simultaneously in newspapers for alleged prosoviet leanings prior to the war.

Jouhaux Plans to Retire.

Accounts of a recent C. G. T. meeting at Toulouse said Jouhaux had announced his intention to retire in favor of four of his former assistants.

One of the first moves in the corporative program was taken by the National Confederation of Hotel, Restaurant and Café proprietors, who called a meeting to be held soon in Paris to discuss organization of corporative units. A similar meeting was held at Lyons for unoccupied areas.

The Petain government reported that 300 trains are operating weekly between occupied and unoccupied zones, with 300,000 refugees returning each week to homes in occupied areas.

[Reports from Moulins last week said only a trickle of refugees was permitted to pass thru that bottleneck on the border in central France to their homes in German-held territory.]

Railway Service Improved.

The government announcement said the accelerated movement of refugees had been made possible by reconstruction of 40 railway bridges in three weeks. Any increase in the present rate is difficult, it was declared, since the fastest express goes only 45 miles an hour because of the poor rolling stock and roadbeds.

Despite heavy damage inflicted on French ports, especially Cherbourg and Marseilles, nearly 20 shipyards were reported back at work rebuilding French merchant shipping.

Laval Slated for Removal in French Cabinet Shakeup

ST. GINGOLPH [on the French-Swiss Border], Aug. 12, Monday (AP).—The French government forbade telephone communication between Switzerland and Vichy and other central points in unoccupied France today following reports here that Vice Premier Pierre Laval was among those likely to be benched in an impending shakeup of the Petain government.

Vice Premier Pierre Laval.

Only official calls from the Berne legation and from French diplomats abroad were accepted by French telephone operators, working under army orders.

No official reason was given, but some French sources suggested that the order might mean a political crisis was brewing in France, while others expressed belief it was in connection with German preparations for an offensive against Britain.

Laval Is Criticized.

Reports from influential sources in the unoccupied zone and from Frenchmen outside the zone said Laval recently has been bombarded with criticism from many quarters.

These sources said the politician had fulfilled his political function in obtaining the old parliament's approval of the new form of government, and his usefulness now is considered ended.

Reasons for Attack.

Attacks on Laval, who at first appeared to be the "strong man" of the Petain cabinet and whom the aged chief of state named as his political heir, were based on three counts:

1. Many leaders, both left and right, accused him of protecting certain leading figures such as Georges Bonnet, former finance minister, from the Riom "war blame" trial, and of attacking others, like former Premier Paul Reynaud, whose following still is strong.

2. The old Fascist Croix de Feu [which Laval as premier several years ago forced into dissolution] is increasing in strength with the addition of many of this war's veterans, and is a bitter enemy of Laval.

3. The Germans are reported unwilling to support Laval.

Protect Army Officers.

Chief of Staff Petain and Gen. Maxime Weygand both are reported determined to protect the army high command from any "disgrace" in the Riom trial. Informed quarters said Laval first began to slide from grace with the present army command when he asked that former Generalissimo Maurice Gamelin be brought from retirement on his estate in Dordogne to defend himself at the trial with his chief political supporter, former Premier Edouard Deladier.

Daladier, with former Minister of Interior Georges Mandel and other accused former cabinet members and deputies, is reported to have obtained the promise of defense testimony of many leading deputies and senators —including Edouard Herriot, who defended them before the assembly which recently ratified the new constitution.

Others suggested are Gaston Bergery and the ex-communist ex-deputy, Jacques Doriot, whose prestige in the former "Red ring" is great.

A Sarcastic Character.

Doriot is the hero of many stories of the Vichy assembly, where he made himself conspicuous with sarcastic digs at parliamentarians.

When asked why he came to Vichy, he replied: "To see you all die."

But when asked why he refused to support the Laval-Petain government he retorted: "In order not to die with you."

REPORT GERMANY ASKS RUMANIA TO EASE JEWISH BAN

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 11 [Passed by censor] (AP).—Diplomatic circles reported tonight that Germany has asked Rumania to delay application of anti-Jewish laws for the present. Nazi intervention was reported to be based on the belief that Jews occupy so vital a position in the country's economic life that their sudden exclusion would slow up production of needed supplies to Germany.

Laws drawn in the first flush of Rumania's new pro-Nazi enthusiasm were more severe in some respects than Germany's own anti-Semitic legislation, but were so loose that many Jews do not know how they will be affected.

Many hope for exemption from most provisions by obtaining heroes' certificates, granted to any Jew who can prove that he or some ancestor fought in the defense of Rumania.

NAZI BANK CHIEF OFFERS BARTER AS WORLD HOPE

Assails Free Traders, Including U. S.

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, Aug. 11 (AP).—Walther Funk, Reichsbank president and economic minister, roundly scored free trade nations, including the United States, today, and declared that barter is the only salvation for world commerce. He agreed with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that:

Walther Funk.

"When the rich get too rich and the poor too poor, something happens."

Opening the eastern fair, sponsored by Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Funk asserted that only German victory in the war would again make possible "what always should have been: peaceful economic competition in the interest of all nations participating in world trade."

Says Blockade Demolished.

He declared the British blockade had been demolished "politically and militarily."

Goering spoke briefly, calling attention to the fair's eastern and Russian exhibits. Semiofficial sources pointed out the appearance of the first Soviet exhibit here as indicative of German trade trends.

Funk attacked the American suggested "cartel" to dispose of the western world's surpluses and charged free trade nations with resorting to the embargo and boycott to dominate world trade.

"The Ottawa arrangement, and to cite a more recent example, the projected American cartel, really are no show pieces of liberalistic economic comprehension," he said.

Urges Intensive Barter.

"An economic system justifies itself not thru age or tradition but only thru productive results," he added. "Thus world trade cannot be revived by theories but by intensive barter."

Funk declared that unless Europe could sell to manufacturing nations its overseas accumulations of raw materials piling up as a result of the war, "they must be thrown into the sea or used for fuel."

Referring to Col. Lindbergh's remark, made in a speech in Chicago Aug. 4, the economic minister recalled his own address in Rome 18 months ago when he said "the old rich [nations] will become poor and the young poor will become rich."

"England cannot take away the advance Germans have made thru seven years of hard work under the jealousy or ridicule of the remainder of the world," he said.

"We have blasted the British blockade politically and militarily so thoroly there can be no difficulty in our maintenance any more.

"England has wound herself into a blockade net in which she wanted to catch Germany. European states are well aware today who their natural trade partner is."

BRITISH TROOP CARRIER SUNK; 120 LOSE LIVES

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Torpedoed by a submarine in the darkness, the British transport Mohamed Ali El-Kebir, crowded with soldiers and sailors, sank in the tumbling waters of the Atlantic with a presumed loss of 120 lives, the admiralty announced tonight.

The 740 survivors reached a Scottish port in a vessel that came to the transport's assistance. The admiralty and the war office refused to disclose the mission on which the Mohamed had sailed with its total complement of 860 men.

High Sea Running.

A high sea was running when the ship shuddered under the impact of the torpedo, survivors related. Almost immediately the vessel listed, and survivors told how half naked men, rushing up to the deck, found the boats on one side could not be lowered.

Many soldiers, thinking the ship was capsizing, jumped into the sea and drowned, it was said. This accounted for a large proportion of the losses.

Capt. J. P. Thomson, who last was seen clinging to a raft, and the chief officer, chief radio officer, and two doctors, who stayed aboard to attend the injured, are among the missing.

Captain and Doctors Praised.

Survivors praised the conduct of the captain, who, they said, handed over the ship's papers to a member of the crew before returning to the bridge. The doctors also were praised for their treatment of the wounds of others regardless of their own safety.

The Mohamed remained afloat two hours after being struck. The 18 year old Glasgow built ship was one of the most popular vessels in the Mediterranean service. It belonged to the Pharonic Mail line, with its home port Alexandria.

KIDNAPERS BEAT ESCORT; SEIZE TAVERN HOSTESS

Mrs. Betty Tuschen, 22 years old, a tavern hostess, was kidnaped and held prisoner for several hours by three men early yesterday after they had assaulted her escort, Walter Monger, 28, of 4526 North Hermitage avenue.

The couple were accosted near Fulton street and Claremont avenue as Monger was escorting Mrs. Tuschen to her home at 1812 Washington boulevard. Monger was knocked to the pavement. Then Mrs. Tuschen was forced into the automobile of the men.

Mrs. Tuschen later told Detectives Joseph Sidlo and Lyons Kelliher of the Warren avenue station she was beaten, became unconscious, and recovered two hours later in the car on a county road. She said the men drove her to Washington boulevard and Western avenue, where they put her out. She went to County hospital for treatment.

FOUND IN GARAGE WOUNDED.

Albert Kleist, 69 years old, was found shot in the right temple yesterday in the garage behind his home at 3602 North Ridgeway avenue. Police were told he had been despondent because he was ill and jobless. He was taken to Swedish Covenant hospital.

HUNT 2 BANDITS WHO SHOT TAXI DRIVER IN BACK

Two bandits who shot a taxicab driver and then attempted to set fire to his cab early yesterday were sought last night by police. Their victim, Frank Zazadzinski, 36 years old, 2116 North avenue, is in critical condition in County hospital. He said the gunmen hired his cab at 22d street and Western avenue, then drew revolvers, robbed him of $4, and made him ride in the rear seat while one of them drove. Zazadzinski was shot in the back when he jumped from the cab at 25th street and Artesian avenue and tried to escape. Before fleeing the robbers attempted to set fire to the motor of the cab.

Swift, from whom she was divorced in June, 1936. She was married to Marcy T. Weeks in March, 1937, and he won an uncontested divorce last December.

IT'S A HOT DAY AS WINDSORS HEAR BISHOP PREACH

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 11 (AP).—The duke and duchess of Windsor spent a hot morning in church today listening to a sermon by the Bermudan bishop who once tore down and burned a picture of their wedding.

Several times during the long Anglican service the duke mopped his perspiring brow with his handkerchief, and once briskly manipulated a palm leaf fan in an effort to cool off himself and the former Wallis Warfield who sat beside him.

There was nothing in Bishop Arthur Heber Browne's sermon which could be interpreted as a reference to the Windsors' marriage or the British constitutional crises which preceded it.

[It was in a fit of anger, Bishop Browne once explained, that he ripped a wedding picture of the Windsors from the wall of a Bermuda newspaper office shortly after the marriage that created a controversy thruout the British empire. He apologized for his act.]

Everybody Feels Heat.

It just happened to be one of the hottest Sunday mornings Bermuda has had this summer. The rest of the congregation looked just as uncomfortable as the duke and duchess.

The bishop later said his sermon, based on St. Paul's Epistle to Philemon, had been written before he knew the Windsors were coming.

About 700 Bermudans and visiting Americans crowded Hamilton's Gothic cathedral when the duke and duchess, accompanied by Bermuda's governor, Maj. Gen. Denis Kirwan Bernard, and his sister, Mrs. Hastings Brooke, arrived at the church.

Accompanied by Governor.

The duke came first in a carriage driven by two white gloved, white helmeted coachmen. With him were the governor and the latter's aide-de-camp. The duchess and Mrs. Brooke followed in another carriage.

The Windsors sat in the governor's pew.

The bishop greeted the Windsors as they departed. He shook hands and chatted with the duke momentarily and unsmilingly and then briefly shook hands with the duchess.

This afternoon a party was arranged for the duke and duchess in the home of Vice Admiral Sir Charles Kennedy Purvis.

REPORT OF 12 DEATHS IN YACHT EXPLOSION IS BRANDED A HOAX

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP).—Mysterious reports that a cruiser yacht had exploded in Lake Erie today with the loss of possibly 12 lives failed of confirmation after two hours of investigation, but the coast guard continued an inquiry.

The reports, first received from a yacht club here, said the yacht Lovely Lady, carrying passengers from Cincinnati and Louisville and sailing out of New York, had exploded near the Put-In-Bay [Ohio] port.

The coast guard headquarters at Cleveland, however, said it had received no such report. Sources in Toledo and in Detroit also failed to confirm the report, and lake men here said it might have been a hoax.

New York reported there was no Lovely Lady on the yacht register there.

TRIBUNE WRITER MAPS HIGHWAYS FOR WILLKIE DAY

Routes Leading to Elwood Are Described.

[This is the second of a series of articles by The Tribune's automobile editor on motor travel to the Willkie rally Saturday in Elwood, Ind. Tomorrow's article will discuss routes from central and southern Illinois and from eastern Iowa and Missouri.]

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 11.—This town of fewer than 11,000 residents is within an easy day's drive of cities and densely populated rural areas in eastern Michigan, Ohio, and southern Indiana.

This semicircle, ranging from the automobile factories of the Detroit area, the Lake Erie ports of Toledo and Cleveland, to the Ohio river cities of Cincinnati, Louisville, and Evansville, will send a multitude of motorists to the Willkie rally here Saturday to mingle with another motorized migration from Chicago, Wisconsin, western Michigan, and all sections of Illinois.

Indiana police have assisted the local Willkie committee, headed by Homer Capehart of Washington, Ind., in arranging highway routes, parking areas, and approaches to these areas so that if the total crowd should approach a quarter of a million it can be accommodated with no great inconvenience.

Family Caravans Expected.

From Lansing and Detroit, Mich., Gov. Luren Dickinson of Michigan reports farmers and factory workers and their families are expected to drive here by way of Fort Wayne, Ind. From Lansing to Fort Wayne the route is marked U. S. 27. From Detroit U. S. 112 is suggested to Coldwater, Mich., where U. S. 27 is picked up for the trip south.

From Fort Wayne here the recommended route follows U. S. 24 to Huntington, then Ind. 9 south to Ind. 28, and then west for nine miles on Ind. 28 to Elwood. The distance from Lansing is 242 miles. The distance from Detroit is 256 miles.

The travelers using routes recommended from Toledo and from Cleveland also will come by way of Ft. Wayne. The police of Ft. Wayne will assign extra men to ease the flow of cars over streets carrying the highway markers. Other Indiana cities likewise are coöperating.

Expect to Finish Oiling Job.

From Toledo to Ft. Wayne, U. S. 24 is used all of the way. U. S. 6, from Cleveland, intersects U. S. 24 at Napoleon, O. The distance from Toledo here is 185 miles. The distance from Cleveland here is 279 miles. Some oiling on U. S. 6 is expected to be finished before next Saturday.

From Columbus, capital of Ohio, the Willkie day travelers will drive on U. S. 40 to Richmond, Ind., then on U. S. 35 thru Muncie to Ind. 28, and then west to Elwood. The distance from Columbus is 174 miles. From Dayton, O., 109 miles from Elwood, motorists will follow U. S. 35 thru Richmond and Muncie to Ind. 28, and will continue west on Ind. 28 to Elwood.

From Cincinnati, O., 185 miles from Elwood, travelers will have a good road on U. S. 52, bypassing Indianapolis by turning north in Ind. 9 before reaching the capital and passing thru Anderson to reach Ind. 28 about 9 miles east of Elwood.

Detour on Louisville Route.

U. S. 31—the regular route from Louisville, Ky.—is under construction in the southern part of Indiana. The marked detour, while a serviceable road, is not a first class highway. Another detour, 19 miles longer, is a better road—U. S. 42 from Louisville to Bedford, Ky., then Ky. 37 to Madison, Ind., and then Ind. 7 to return to Ind. 31 at Columbus, Ind.

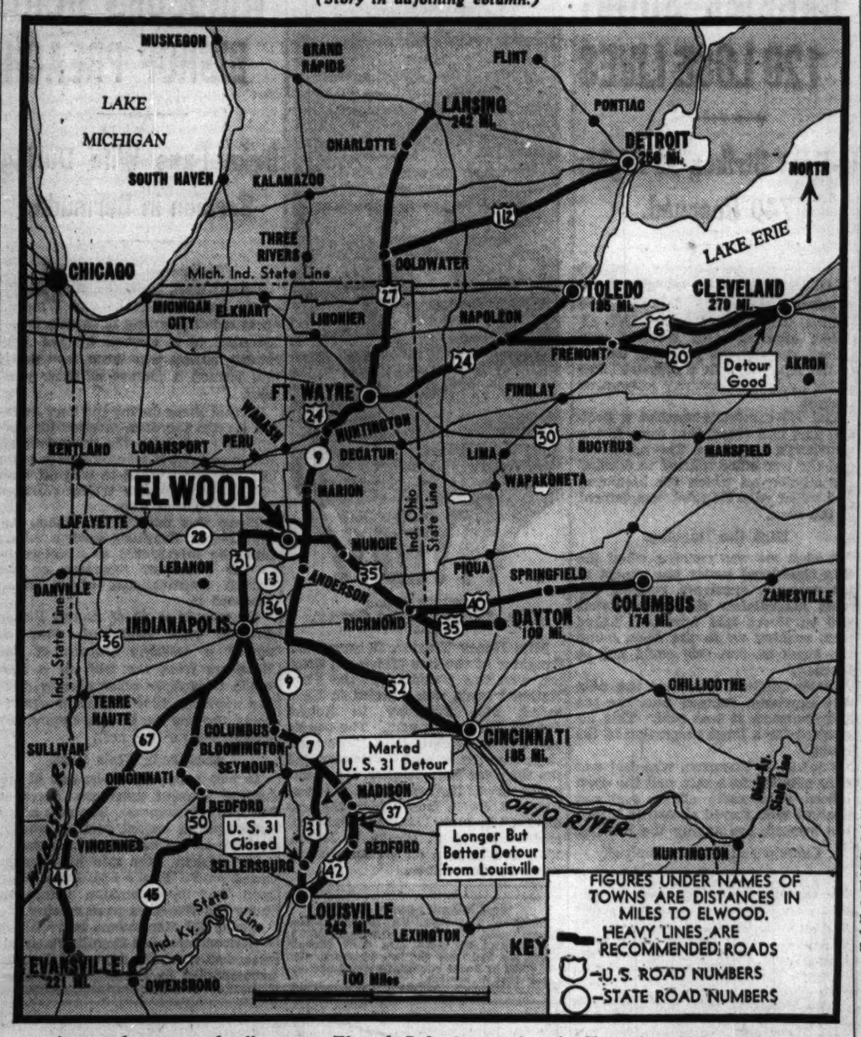
From Indianapolis, the Indiana police and the Indiana highway commission urge Kentucky and southern Indiana visitors to continue thru the capital on U. S. 31 to Ind. 28, then turn east for 17 miles on Ind. 28 to Elwood.

From Owensboro, Ky., to Elwood via Bedford, Bloomington, and Indianapolis is 242 miles. There is a marked detour between Bedford and Bloomington by way of Cincinnati, Ind. This mileage includes the detour.

Visitors from Evansville will use U. S. 41 to Vincennes, where George Rogers Clark helped win this territory from the British. From this territorial capital to the present state capital is a newly reconstructed highway marked Ind. 67. The distance here from Evansville is 221 miles.

Routes and Mileages to Elwood from South and East

(Story in adjoining column.)



Approved routes and mileages to Elwood, Ind., from points in Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, and southern and eastern Indiana. Heavy lines show the highways over which thousands of motorists will travel to the notification ceremonies for Republican Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie in his home town next Saturday.

WILLKIE RALLY TO BE REUNION DAY FOR FAMILY

Three Brothers and Sister to Attend.

Wendell L. Willkie's three brothers and a sister will be in Elwood, Ind., Saturday when he is formally notified that he is the Republican nominee for President.

One of the brothers, Edward E. Willkie of 220 South Waiola avenue, LaGrange, said yesterday: "Doubtless there will be a family reunion. We usually get together about twice a year."

This brother, a vice president of Libby McNeill & Libby company, food packers, will leave Friday afternoon to drive to Muncie, Ind., with his wife, Fay, and their daughter, Marian, 15 years old. They will stay overnight with friends before going on to Elwood, 28 miles from Muncie. Their son, Edward Jr., 10, will remain in a Wisconsin boys' camp.

Plans to Drive from Louisville.

Robert Willkie, another brother, is expected to drive to Elwood from Louisville, Ky., where he is chemist and general manager of the Seagram Distillers' company plant. With him will be his wife, Pearl, a daughter, Patricia, 16, and probably their married daughter, Mrs. Helen Berg, 26, who is expected to fly from her home in Manila, P. I., by Clipper plane.

Fred Willkie, the third brother, and his wife, Jerri, also are expected to travel by automobile from Louisville. He is vice president of the Seagram company. They have a son, Robert F., 18 months old.

Miss Julia Willkie, the nominee's elder sister, will come from St. Catherine's, Ont., where she is a technologist for a manufacturing plant.

The other sister will be unable to attend the ceremonies. She is Charlotte, wife of Lieut. Commander Paul E. Pihl, American naval attaché of the United States embassy in Berlin, Germany. Her husband has been stationed in Berlin for two years.

Reservations Still Taken.

Last minute reservations for train seats to the Elwood ceremony, costing $3.75 for the round trip, still are being taken at Cook County Republican headquarters in the LaSalle hotel. Carrying the Cook county banner will be the 50 ward organizations, the 30 country town organizations, the women's division, the Young Republicans, and labor union members.

On reaching Elwood in special trains these delegations, wearing green and white caps lettered "Win With Willkie," will parade to Callaway park, scene of the notification ceremony. In the parade will be two elephants, Miss Columbia, and Uncle Sam, 6 feet 8 inches tall, eight cheer leaders, drum and bugle corps, color guards, and bands.

PRESIDENT SAILS FOR NAVAL BASES IN RHODE ISLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newport, R. I., Aug. 11 [Special].—The Presidential yacht Potomac was bound for this historic port in a gently rolling sea tonight to bring President Roosevelt to the final lap of his inspection of New England defenses.

Tomorrow he will make a swift round of the naval training station, navy torpedo factory, and naval war college in this city. He then will reboard the yacht and proceed across Narragansett bay to inspect the naval air base under construction.

In the afternoon he will visit New London, Conn., for an inspection of the submarine base and of the plant of the Electric Boat company, the only privately owned submarine building yard in the country. In the evening he will return to his special train and proceed to Washington to be back at his desk in the White House Tuesday morning.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the day aboard the Potomac resting between two of the busiest days on his schedule. En route to Newport he paused in the afternoon to fish. The rest of the day was spent in chatting with his fellow voyagers.

MICHIGAN ONLY STATE WITHOUT VOTER BAN LAW

In all states except Michigan, the privilege of voting can be denied under state laws. This was revealed in a study made public yesterday by the Council of State Governments, with headquarters in Chicago.

There are at least 50 reasons for the disqualification of voters in the various states. South Carolina, with 28 reasons, and Alabama, with 25, lead the list. The most general disqualifications are for conviction for a felony [in 40 states] and for insanity [in 38 states]. Illiterates are barred in 19 states. Five states may disqualify "immoral" persons. Illinois disqualifies voters only upon conviction for a felony.

ELWOOD MAYOR BUSY ALL HOURS ON HOST DUTIES

Prepares for Willkie Day; Runs City, Too.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 11 [Special].—How to prepare a town of 10,000 for the biggest day in its history, oversee the municipal government at the same time, and manage hundreds of other details is being demonstrated by George M. Bonham, the slight and affable mayor of Elwood, Wendell L. Willkie's home town.

George M. Bonham.

Next Saturday Mayor Bonham will be the official host to a throng that may exceed 100,000, coming to hear Willkie accept the Republican Presidential nomination in Callaway park. The mayor hopes to get a little sleep between now and then, but the prospects aren't good. He hasn't had much for a month.

No Rest for City's Chief.

Today, while most of the rest of Elwood took it easy on their front porches, Bonham was out at the headquarters of the notification committee, greeting hundreds of visitors in the stifling heat, mopping his brow often, but holding on to the pleasant smile which rarely leaves his face.

The mayor is 51 years old and his health isn't too good, but this fact wouldn't be apparent to any one who traced his movements during an average prenotification day. From 6 a. m. until midnight yesterday, for example, he had just time for one sandwich.

After a light breakfast yesterday morning, the mayor drove first to the park to see how the speakers' platform was coming along, and approved what he found there. Then he went to notification headquarters to talk over the program at the high school next Saturday, preceding the speech, when Willkie will meet his old friends.

Wife Shares Burden.

When that session ended, he made the rounds of the various committee offices—housing, finance, food and concessions, physical properties, and parking and traffic, helping where he could. On the way he stopped to talk with his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Bonham, who is lightening his load these days by answering much of the avalanche of mail addressed to him.

At 10 a. m. the mayor went to the city hall to go over an ordinance regulating vendors next Saturday, presided over a council meeting and conferred with other officials.

Back at headquarters the mayor had to look over the stamp situation, since the mail is growing heavier every day. There were 3,500 pieces for mailing last night. Then, finally, he got around to having a little food with his wife. After that he participated in a street radio broadcast over station WGN and was interviewed by Quin Ryan.

First Elected in 1929.

The mayor always has had an interest in politics. He was chosen to run for mayor in 1929 five weeks before the election, when the Republican nominee was killed in an accident. He was elected—the first Republican mayor Elwood had had in 30 years. He was defeated for reelection, but stuck at it and came back for another term in 1938.

Today the mayor and most of Elwood is incensed over a story in a national magazine which stated that the $35,000 swimming pool near Callaway park was built by Roosevelt's WPA. The town itself built the pool.

RULE HATCH ACT DOES NOT APPLY TO BROAD ISSUES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The civil service commission ruled today that the Hatch act did not prevent employés of state and local governments from discussing "issues of broad social, economic, or general public character," but confined its restrictions to discussions of "partisan political issues."

In a statement the commission expressed the belief "that the primary objective of the legislation is to prevent partisan political activity in connection with the conduct and management of political campaigns." It added that "the commission's administration of the law will conform to this objective."

The original Hatch act, enacted in 1939, extended to all federal employés many of the restrictions against political activity previously applied only to those under civil service. An amendment signed by President Roosevelt on Aug. 2 further extended these restrictions to officers and employés of state or local governments "whose principal employment is in connection with any activity which is financed in whole or in part by loans or grants made by the United States or by any federal agency."

Hunt Missing Official of Aircraft Engine Plant

Farmingdale, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP).—Police tonight broadcast an alarm for Bert M. Harvey, 38 years old, missing personnel director of the Ranger aircraft engine division of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation. Harvey was last seen Friday in his office where he interviews applicants for jobs in the plant now manufacturing for government defense a new 24-cylinder "H-type" air cooled engine of 1,000 horsepower.

Barrett Plans Radio Plea for Aid in Vote Fraud Fight

George F. Barrett, Republican nominee for attorney general, will make a state-wide radio appeal over six Illinois stations tonight for at least 25,000 volunteers to help insure an honest election in November by enrolling in the committee to stop vote frauds, of which he is chairman. This appeal will officially open his campaign.

ELWOOD JAMMED ON LAST SUNDAY BEFORE BIG DAY

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 11.—This is no quiet Sabbath here today. Downtown streets are jammed with automobiles. Callaway park, on the northeast outskirts, is filled with picnickers, sightseers, and busy laborers.

Before a large two story frame house at the edge of the business district, with a neon sign over its front porch reading "Willkie headquarters," a queue of men and women is waiting to sign the visitors' register. Mainly they are from Indiana cities, villages, and farms, altho some are from Illinois and Ohio.

On this warm Sunday afternoon, with a breeze sailing large white clouds across a blue sky, a throng is milling thru here for a preview of his home town where Wendell Willkie on Saturday will accept his nomination as the Republican candidate for President of the United States.

No Time for Leisure.

The arrangements committee cannot afford a day of rest in its preparations for an inestimable crowd of somewhere between 100,000 and 250,000 visitors.

At today's preview, visitors paused to read "The Hope of Our Country" in weather stained stone letters over the front door of his old high school where Willkie is to meet boyhood friends and schoolmates. A platform is under construction for the press, radio, movies, and invited guests.

In the congestion of the two business streets of this town of less than 11,000 population, visiting motorists viewed store fronts draped with flags, bunting, and Willkie photographs and campaign slogans.

Crowd Prospects Grow.

At the Willkie headquarters, Ray V. Gibbens paused to tell reporters: "I'm still getting reports that the whole countryside, especially from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Wisconsin, is going to pour down upon us next Saturday. For example, some folks here from Joliet, Ill., said a crowd is coming in chartered buses and at least 150 private automobiles."

In Callaway park's 40 acres shaded by large trees, crews of electricians were working on the partly completed stage where Willkie will deliver his acceptance speech.

In 160 adjacent acres, cleared of growing crops, a road scraper and two 10 ton rollers were smoothing the soil. A surveyor squinted thru a transit, aligning rows of posts to guide the parking. Laborers were sinking the posts in the earth. There will be free space for 40,000 automobiles next Saturday.

Town Goes on the Air.

W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system last night inaugurated a special series of Willkie Week broadcasts with the presentation of "Saturday Night in Elwood." The W-G-N mobile unit, employing short wave facilities, cruised back and forth on Elwood's main thorofare while Quin Ryan interviewed notables.

This morning W-G-N microphones were installed in Willkie's old church, the First Methodist church of Elwood, and the services were broadcast from coast to coast over the Mutual network. A W-G-N staff and the mobile unit will remain here thruout the week.

BABY FOUND SMOTHERED.

Anthony Jobson, 6 weeks old, was found smothered last night in his home at 1125 Farwell avenue. His mother, Mrs. Harry M. Jobson, told police he had become tangled in his bedclothes.

WILLKIE HAS AN ODDLY ASSORTED TRIO AS GUESTS

Hoover, Elliott Roosevelt, Gen. Johnson Drop In.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 11.—Wendell L. Willkie entertained an odd collection of notables tonight.

First was former President Hoover, who arrived by airplane from Wyoming. He talked about the European food situation and the fearsome situation in which this country will be placed if the New Deal is retained in office. Our present governmental structure could not survive, he declared.

Next came Elliott Roosevelt, who arrived by car from Texas with his wife and family, on their way to the Wyoming fishing grounds.

Hearing that the President's son, who first opposed his father's third term effort but now appears to support it, was in the hotel, Willkie in his impetuous manner picked up a phone and called for him. "He is the President's son and I would like to meet him," he said. "Have him come up for dinner."

Hoover Shows Uneasiness.

Hoover, sitting beside the Republican nominee on the big lounge in the Willkie suite, squirmed a bit and appeared uncomfortable. Observing this, Willkie changed the invitation, before it had been delivered, to a half hour at cocktails.

Then along came Gen. Hugh Johnson, first head of the NRA and now anti-New Deal columnist.

Johnson completed a quartet hard to match in present day politics, but it was all very pleasant, and all reported a good time.

Young Roosevelt may have dimmed any Willkie hopes about carrying Texas, for he said polls there show 85 per cent for Roosevelt, and he thinks that is right.

Hoover said at a press conference that the Republican campaign is making notable progress.

Fears End of Democracy.

"The outstanding issue," he said, "is the question of our ultimate social position. There has been a steady drift away from American institutions—not in one, but in 20 directions. The people resent it.

"There is a feeling over the country that we are in the presence of another Blum administration, which leads to degeneration of democracy and devitalizes the people. Another four years will see this government structure transformed beyond recall."

Hoover and Willkie discussed the part the former President might play in the campaign, and then Hoover issued a statement on the food situation in Europe.

"Somebody must raise a voice for food supply during the coming winter for the 27,000,000 innocent civilians, mostly women and children, in Norway, Holland, Belgium, and Poland," he said. "Possibly France also will be in difficulties.

Hits at Envoy's Recall.

"This subject needs clarification. It is impossible to understand what the administration in Washington means by statements that they do not have any facts; or why they recall an ambassador because he states a fact. The obvious truth is that there will be wholesale starvation, death, and disease in these little countries unless something is done about it."

Hoover suggested a plan by which the Germans and the British would relax the restrictions on food that are grinding down these nations and under which the de facto or fugitive governments of these countries should finance a relief organization with their resources in the United States and elsewhere. It would cost about 20 million dollars a month at the start and 40 million a month before the winter is over, Hoover declared.

10,000 ATTEND ANNUAL POLISH DAY FESTIVAL

More than 10,000 Chicagoans of Polish descent gathered in Riverview park yesterday for the eighth annual Polish day festival, held for the benefit of the Polish war relief, the Polish ambulance fund, and the American Red Cross. An all-day program included speeches by prominent Polish leaders of Chicago, entertainment, and dancing.

Members of the Czech-American National alliance held a celebration yesterday in Pilsen park at 26th street and Albany avenue. The program opened with a parade in which representatives of all Czech, Slovak, and Moravian clubs in Chicago marched in uniform with their national flags.

ILLINOIS GUARD UNITS PITCH CAMP AS NIGHT SETTLES

Unscramble Baggage as Cooks Prepare Meal.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 11.—Thousands of National Guardsmen, just arrived from three of the seven states of the 2d army area, were pitching their camps tonight in sandy wastes of the maneuver area about Camp McCoy.

Young men who yesterday were clerks in stores, or mechanics in garages, or who held a hundred other types of jobs were groping in darkness as they set up cots and unscrambled their baggage in newly erected tents.

Piled in each company street were barracks bags and personal belongings. The procedure was the same in every case, regardless of whether the units came by rail or by motor.

Advance detachments, set on ahead yesterday and the day before, had prepared kitchens, and the first job of the cooks was to get supper in a field kitchen over a wood fire.

Lights Reveal Tents.

While the pot boiled, the business of erecting camp proceeded. As darkness settled, the various camp areas were visible to one who passed close enough, as the yellowish light of a flashlamp thru canvas told where the tents stood.

Troops who had never seen the McCoy area commented on the rugged appearance of many areas. They found spots where almost constant use of the compass will be essential during maneuvers. They found sandy soil, high rocky ridges, and some fertile valleys. Prominent landmarks abound, many of them high with bare rock faces.

"This is nothing like Camp Grant," many Guardsmen remarked.

The Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin Guardsmen are based within a few miles of the Camp McCoy headquarters.

The 5th regular army division, already in camp, is near Shamrock, about 16 miles north of Sparta, the town nearest Camp McCoy.

the 54th cavalry brigade of the Kentucky and Ohio National Guard, and the 38th division of the Indiana and Kentucky National Guard, will be near Wyeville, about 25 miles east and a little north of Sparta.

Convoys—Part of Training.

Today's movement of motor convoys into the maneuver area, and similar movements which are to continue tomorrow and Tuesday, are considered important in the training of Guardsmen. The journey of the 108th quartermaster, regiment of the 33d division, as it traveled from its Chicago armory to this camp, was typical of dozens of others.

The first section of the convoy was made up of 90 motor vehicles. The next of 19 included six motorcycles, each with sidecar. While the convoy was moving thru Chicago's city streets, these cyclists directed traffic at busy intersections, a function performed for the convoy later in the day by Wisconsin state police. The purpose was to insure uninterrupted progress of the convoy and to keep cross traffic from breaking thru.

Two Routes Traveled.

This unit followed route 14, one of two roads used by most of the motor borne Chicago units. The other was route 12. Route 14 took the convoy thru Crystal Lake, Woodstock, Harvard—all in Illinois—and Walworth, Janesville, and Evansville, Wis.—the latter 119 miles from starting point.

The convoy reached Evansville, Wis., shortly after noon [Chicago time] and pulled up in single file around the big circular drive beside the lake. It was fill-up time for trucks and men, and while gasoline tanks were replenished, officers and men sat in the shade and ate the box lunches they had brought along. They had no problem of preparing food, as did the troops riding to camp in trains.

Whole Regiment Together.

The 2d battalion, including companies C and J from Bloomington and company E from Rockford, arrived and the entire regiment, less only advance detachments of six officers and 29 men, was together for the first time since last year's training period.

The vehicles maintained a distance of about 50 yards apart. This, officers explained, would be disastrous in wartime, because it is too vulnerable to machine gun and bomb attack from the air and to artillery fire. The distance between vehicles probably would be trebled in actual war.

Illinois units which will leave tomorrow for Camp McCoy are from Springfield, Urbana, Cairo, Carbondale, Mount Vernon, Salem, Paris, Lawrenceville, Danville, Decatur, Rockford, Aurora, Maywood, and Oak Park.

THOUSANDS HAIL MUSIC FESTIVAL IN EAST MOLINE

Program Is Supervised by a Physician.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East Moline, Ill., Aug. 11.—Soule stadium was filled tonight with thousands of music followers who applauded a three hour program of the third annual Mississippi Valley Music festival, sponsored by the East Moline Park board and the East Moline-Silvis Association of Commerce.

The entertainment, given under the supervision of Dr. F. E. Bollaert, closed a day of contests, the winners appearing in the concert tonight. They will go to Chicago next Saturday to take part in the 11th annual Chicagoland Music Festival competitions.

Melton Featured Singer.

The two outstanding features of the show tonight were the tenor solos of James Melton, stage and radio star, and the exhibition by the Ford Caledonian pipe band, directed by Pipe Major Hector McInnes of the Scots Guards.

Melton's repertoire included "O Ye Beloved Shade" by Handel, "Serenade" by Schubert, "Water Boy," arranged by Robinson, and "Siboney" by Lecuona.

Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of instrumental participation in the Chicagoland Festival, was the guest conductor of the closing number, "The Star Spangled Banner," sung and played by the massed choruses, bands, and audience.

Winners of Contests.

MAE WEST TIRES OF BEING SUED BY FRANK WALLACE

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 11 (AP).—Portly James Timony is Film Actress Mae West's "business manager and nothing else," she said in a statement today, commenting on a $105,000 damage suit filed against Timony by Frank Wallace, vaudeville dancer who says he is Miss West's husband.

In his suit Wallace charged that soon after Timony became business manager for Miss West "he assumed the relationship of a common law husband of plaintiff's wife" and had prevented Wallace communicating with the actress, as well as threatening him.

Three years ago Wallace obtained a court ruling that he and Miss West were married in Wisconsin in 1911 and that the marriage never had been dissolved by her.

"Wallace evidently is a persistent suit-er," Miss West said today. "The next thing I know he will be suing me for breach of promise, or for alimony, or for being a success. As far as Jim Timony is concerned, he has been my business manager and nothing else. I'm a bit tired of being a springboard for publicity for this person Wallace. I wish he'd find a new angle."

BANDITS HOLD UP 4; GET $40.

Theodore Bluthardt, 2328 23d street, and his wife were sitting in Bluthardt's automobile with another couple at 2607 22d street yesterday when robbers held them up and fled with Mrs. Bluthardt's purse, which contained $40.

ARSENAL GOES ON 6 DAY WEEK TO SPEED DEFENSES

Watertown, Mass., Aug. 11 (AP).—Given impetus by a visit from President Roosevelt, production at Watertown arsenal will swing into top speed tomorrow on a new six-day week work schedule.

Principal activity centers on manufacture of a new 90 millimeter anti-aircraft gun—"the best sky gun in the world," a young ordnance officer told the President when it was demonstrated to him yesterday. One thousand such guns, which have an effective ceiling of 36,000 feet and a firing speed of 25 rounds a minute, are planned under present appropriations, Mr. Roosevelt was informed.

Other weapons that attracted the President's attention were a 37 millimeter antiaircraft gun, designed for firing at low flying attack planes and dive bombers, and a "computing machine" to compute the antiaircraft firing problem in three dimensions.

MASS EXHIBITION OF SKILL TO OPEN MUSIC FESTIVAL

Flag and Baton Throwers Will Present Drill.

Festival Tickets!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival, which will be held next Saturday night in Soldiers' field, are on sale at 50 cents and $1 at THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street. All seats are reserved. Mail orders should be addressed to the Festival Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, and must be accompanied by a check or money order made payable to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Two of the dexterous arts—one ancient and one medieval, one already popular with Chicagoans and the other brand new to them—will be featured in the opening spectacle Saturday night at the 11th Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field.

Fred W. Miller.

The event will be a mass exhibition of baton twirling and flag throwing. Young experts from all the states of Chicagoland will present their colorful drill under the direction of Ray Dvorak of the University of Wisconsin.

Winning Bands to Play.

Batons and heavy silken flags will flash high into the air to the accompaniment of rhythmic music by the winning juvenile and adult bands and the Festival Symphonic orchestra, directed by Henry Weber.

It will be the first time so large an audience here has seen mass flag throwing. Tho the art dates to the 17th century, it is relatively new to this country. Its presentation next Saturday was suggested and is being staged by Fred W. Miller, field supervisor of the festival.

It was developed by the peasants of the oldest cantons of Switzerland. These people, herdsmen usually, would be absent with their animals all summer in the high pastures of the Alps. In the fall when they returned there would be a great homeing celebration.

Becomes National Sport.

At these the great flag swingers put on their exhibitions. Since then the art has become a national sport. And it has a deeper meaning also. The flag signifies friendship and unity. In Switzerland, when friends make up they say, "Let's throw the flags over it."

Flag throwing looks easy. The grace and speed of it may lead to the belief that there's little to it. Nothing could be more erroneous. Coordination, alertness, supple muscles, strength, and long, steady practice are required. And the performer is governed by rigid rules. Stepping out of a 3½ foot circle, tangling the flag, dropping it, or even letting it brush the ground counts against him.

In the flag thrower's drill the banner passes around him, swings in front of him, is passed over his head, and finally is hurled from 30 to 50 feet into the air, billowing out for all to see. The flag troupe will be massed on the field Saturday night, with the baton throwers standing in a great oval around the track.

Siamese Originated This Sport.

As you see these silver wands go twinkling up into the glare of the searchlights, you will be watching a sport that originated among the Siamese in ancient times.

Baton twirling and throwing was a thrilling and dangerous pastime in which the army men of Siam engaged. But their batons were barbed spears. And they had to catch them when they came down. Something jolly, like the clipping of ears, was reserved for those who lost their nerve.

The danger has largely gone out of the sport, but it still requires skill born of long practice and strength, suppleness, and grace. Judges who will select the winning flag throwers and baton twirlers are Dvorak, who was one of the first in this country to teach the art; Maynard Velier, who has written a book on flag throwing, and Assistant Fire Chief Edward Clark of Elkhart, Ind., an authority on both arts.

Texans to Throw Flags.

Later on in the program there will be more flag throwing by members of the Bengal Guards of Orange, Tex., High school, who are coming to Chicago aboard a special train to be the headliners at the festival. These pretty Lone Star lasses—101 of them—combine the best and most exciting features of a musical show chorus, a drum and bugle corps, and a marching corps.

They are famous in the southland where they have traveled widely under the sponsorship of H. J. Lutcher Stark, millionaire lumberman and oil operator of Orange.

Their precision drills and intricate marching formations here will be built around such songs as the "War Hymn" of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college and "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," the song of Texas and the University of Texas.

The Bengal Guards will leave for Chicago Wednesday, but their instruments will start northward today aboard a specially built streamlined bus provided by Stark. They use 18 trumpets, 36 piston bugles, and 18 drums of various pitch, as well as bell lyres, flags, and batons.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, festival week is in full swing. Before it ends the final vocal and instrumental contests will be held, and massed bands and choruses will go thru last rehearsals for the big night. Late in the week musicians and singers from 30 states will be converging upon Chicago. And by sundown Saturday the cast of 8,000 will be massed in the great lake front arena which is Soldiers' field.

RITA HAYWORTH.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11 (AP).—Actress Rita Hayworth will model the "most expensive dress ever made" at a fashion show here tomorrow. The gown, made of 40,000 real pearls, weighs 26 pounds, took six weeks to make, and is valued at $250,000. It was made by a Los Angeles concern for the Imperial Pearl syndicate, but just why nobody seemed to be able to explain.

CHICAGOAN DIES OF INJURIES IN INDIANA CRASH

Vollmer Luther, 21 years old, 7200 Peoria street, died yesterday in the Fairview hospital at La Porte, Ind., of injuries suffered in an automobile collision north of La Porte. He was riding in a car driven by William Bleweth, 20, of 7212 Wabash avenue, when it collided with a car driven by Kenneth Olson, 25, of La Porte. Both Bleweth and Olson were injured. Luther was employed by the federal reserve bank.

Jerome C. Baker of Hinsdale and Don Richards of Lake Mills, Wis., were killed when their car skidded off the road near Jefferson, Wis., and struck a boulder. Both were 21.

John W. Wilde, 76, of 5048 Carmen avenue, was killed last night at Foster and LeClaire avenues when he was struck by a car driven by Walter Wendland, 2019 Addison street, a mechanic.

Theodore Dombrowski, 35, died on the way to County hospital yesterday. Dombrowski, who lived at 667 West 18th street, was said by police to have fallen from a truck Saturday night. His injuries were not believed to be serious until a severe headache developed yesterday morning and he was started to the hospital.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday, 508 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 380 were killed in Chicago, where 14,738 were injured in the same period.

Boy Lying in Path, Driver Straddles Him with Auto

Casimer Sawalski, 4 years old, 2025 Webster avenue, stumbled and fell in front of a moving automobile near his home last night. Panic stricken, he lay motionless. Edward Springer, 20, of 2112 North Hoyne avenue, the driver, swerved his car so that the wheels passed on either side of the boy. He was unhurt.

THRONG OF 18,000 HEARS WEST SIDE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Show Is Preliminary to Chicagoland Event.

Eighteen thousand persons listened to four hours of music last night at the third annual Greater West Side Music festival in Garfield park, one of the events preliminary to the Chicagoland Music Festival next Saturday night in Soldiers' field. The Greater West Side Fine Arts association was the sponsor.

Miss Bessie Ryan.

Spectators began to fill the benches early, and the audience overflowed on the hillside before the "Star Spangled Banner" opened the festival.

1,200 Entertainers Participate.

The show this year was called a "Merry-Go-Round of Music" and featured 1,200 singers and dancers. One of the features was the massed match lighting ceremony by the audience, which now annually highlights the Chicagoland festival.

Two-thirds of the program was an unbroken pageant, "The Fires of Patriotism," written by Miss Beatrice Glos and arranged by Miss Bessie Ryan, secretary of the fine arts association. Each scene was presented by a different choral group, orchestra, or music club.

Prior to the pageant, the four winners of the west side division of the Chicagoland Music Festival sang solos. They were Dorothy Cornfield, coloratura; William J. Manthei, bass; Otto Slatinsky, baritone, and Robert Holmer, contralto.

Band Concert Presented.

A half hour concert of band music was presented thru the courtesy of Miss Helen Howe, director of music for the Chicago public schools. The concert was arranged by Joseph Ewald, director of the Harrison Technical High school band. One of the bands was last year's class A champion of the Chicagoland Festival, the Chicago Boys' club band conducted by John Sovenic.

Guest speaker of the evening was Philip Maxwell, director of the Chicagoland Festival. John Stedman was master of ceremonies. At the beginning of the festival the colors were posted by the Austin post Boy Scout Drum and Bugle corps directed by Glen Smith, captain. The crowd was handled by the novena ushers of Our Lady of Sorrows church.

The festival was arranged by Franklin Hahn, president of the Greater West Side Fine Arts association; Ray McCarthy, chairman, and Miss Ryan.

Quebec province had the largest accident toll with nine drownings and five persons killed in highway mishaps. In Ontario there were six drownings and two persons were killed by trains.

641 COOK COUNTY SINGERS VIE FOR HONORS TONIGHT

Choral Contests Set Festival Record.

Two outstanding events of Chicagoland Music Festival week, which will be climaxed next Saturday night at the giant festival concert in Soldiers' field, will be held tonight.

Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler.

At 7 o'clock, in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel, 18 men's, women's, and mixed choruses will compete in the Cook county choral contest of the festival. With 641 singers enrolled, this will be the biggest competition ever held in this preliminary festival event.

South Side Festival Slated.

At 8 o'clock, in Jackson park, the South Side Music festival will be held. This event, originally scheduled for Saturday night, was postponed because of inclement weather. More than 500 musicians will participate, according to Miss Emma Rund, founder and chairman of the program.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for the choral contest in the Drake. Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of vocal and choral competitions, will supervise the auditions.

Following the competition, Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director of the festival, who will lead 5,000 singers in the festival concert Saturday night before 100,000 people in Soldiers' field, will rehearse the members in the parts they will sing in the presentation of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah and "The Heavens Are Telling" from the Creation by Haydn.

County Finals to Be Held.

Cook county accordion, violin, and cornet contests will be held in the Drake hotel ballroom at 7 p. m. tomorrow, and on Wednesday night the 27 winners of the preliminary sectional Cook county vocal competitions will be heard there in the Cook county finals.

These singers are:

West Side—Lillian Vesely, lyric soprano; Marion Huebner, dramatic soprano; Dorothy Cornfield, coloratura; Elsi Imhof, mezzo; Roberta Homer, contralto; Earl Bichel, lyric tenor; William Blair, dramatic tenor; Otto J. Slatinsky, baritone, and William J. Manthei, bass.

More than 100 cities in nine states are represented by the 115 vocalists entered in Saturday's Chicagoland voice finals for contestants from out of Cook county. The preliminary semifinals and finals will be held in the Drake hotel. From this group will be chosen the winning man and woman singers who will be heard on the Soldiers' field program.

ASKS COMPULSORY GUARD TRAINING AS DRAFT SUBSTITUTE

Compulsory training in the National Guard as a substitute for army conscription was advocated yesterday by George S. Lavin, former assistant state's attorney, in letters to members of congress and to President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for President.

"Legislation should be enacted making it compulsory for every able bodied man between the ages of 18 and 45, who is not a member of the R. O. T. C., to enlist in the National Guard," Lavin wrote. "These men could be trained in their own localities, during evenings and on Saturdays and Sundays. During the summer they could receive 30 days' training in field work in military camps.

"Under my plan, I feel that at least 20,000,000 men could be given military training without being taken from their occupations. This would avoid disruption of our industrial, economic, and domestic structure, as well as hardship and confusion."

Attorney Lavin also urged that all students over 16 years of age be compelled to join the R. O. T. C.

DROWNS AFTER SAVING LIFE OF HIS SWEETHEART

Alfred Prokopowicz, 20 years old, 959 Noble street, drowned yesterday in the Fox river three miles west of Wauconda, Lake county, after he had held his sweetheart out of the water until a rescue party arrived. Prokopowicz lost his life because the rescuers thought he could swim.

He and his sweetheart, Miss Irene Pienazek, 22, of 1340 Cleaver street, were in a rowboat with Joseph Jascon, 28, of 1335 Bosworth avenue; Bruno Jarmusz, 20, of 1345 Greenview avenue, and John Penick, 2, a neighbor's child. When the boat capsized friends on shore went to their aid in another boat. All but Prokopowicz were taken ashore and revived by Wauconda firemen and Dr. J. A. Ross of Wauconda.

3 Persons Shot to Death in a Quarrel About Debts

Barboursville, W. Va., Aug. 11 (AP).—A farmer, the wife of one of his tenants, and her son were shot to death late today in a duel which followed a quarrel about debts. The shootings occurred at a family picnic 10 miles from here. Coroner F. X. Schuller, who issued a verdict of triple murder, said those slain were: J. S. Hammond, 69 years old; Mrs. Lessie Wickham, 40, and her son, James Bolen, 20. John Barber, 33, son-in-law of Hammond, was shot five times. Physicians said his condition was critical.

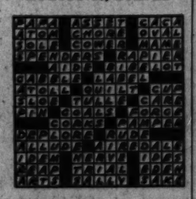
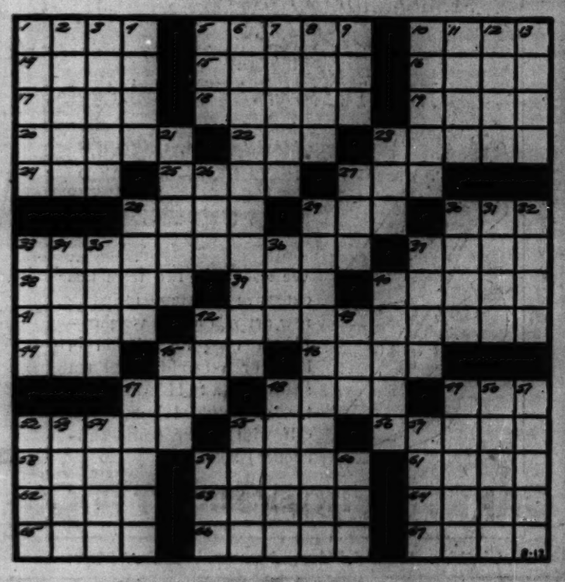
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, SOLVED



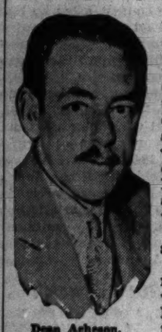


FEAR ROOSEVELT WILL TURN OVER SHIPS TO BRITAIN

Two Methods of Transfer Are Suggested.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—With agitation growing day by day, in and out of the Roosevelt administration, to turn over American naval vessels to Great Britain, there is an increasing fear among noninterventionists in congress that the President will authorize such a transfer without congressional sanction.



Dean Acheson.

Two possible methods by which laws prohibiting the transfer of warships to a belligerent nation might be circumvented have been suggested in the last 24 hours.

One is the declaration of a national emergency as advanced in a nation-wide radio speech last night by Admiral William H. Standley, retired, former chief of naval operations. Altho Admiral Standley suggested that congress declare a national emergency and place all the nation's land, naval and air forces at the disposition of the President, there is widespread speculation in congress on the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt will proclaim a national emergency.

Earlier Action Recalled.

Last Sept. 8 Mr. Roosevelt proclaimed what he described as a limited national emergency and ordered increases in the enlisted strength of the armed forces without waiting for congressional appropriations. Congress was asked later to liquidate the deficits incurred.

The President at the time indicated his belief that he could exercise almost unlimited powers under a proclamation of an unlimited national emergency, but said he was not contemplating such a proclamation.

The other possible method of circumventing the laws on the statute books which have been construed as prohibiting the transfer of warships to Great Britain was suggested in a 3,000 word legal brief by Dean G. Acheson, former undersecretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt administration; Thomas D. Thacher, solicitor general in the Hoover administration; George Rublee, Acheson's law partner, and Charles C. Burlingham, chairman of a committee on research in international law under the sponsorship of Harvard university. Their brief was published this morning as a letter to the editor of the New York Times.

Approve Indirect Sale.

Strongly indorsing the appeal of Gen. John J. Pershing for the release of 50 or more American destroyers to Great Britain, these four lawyers contend in their brief that there is no statutory prohibition against turning the naval vessels over to private contractors for sale to Great Britain.

Their contention challenges a ruling by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, who held in June that the proposed release of the navy's "mosquito" fleet to Great Britain would violate section 3, title V., of the espionage act of 1917, and possibly section 23 of title 18 of the United States code. Altho President Roosevelt had ordered the release of the 23 mosquito boats, under construction for the navy by the Electric Boat company, he canceled the deal after a storm in congress.

Quote from Statute.

Section 3, title V., of the espionage act, provides that during a war in which the United States is a neutral "it shall be unlawful to send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel built, armed, or equipped as a vessel of war, or converted from a private vessel into a vessel of war, with any intent or under any agreement or contract, written or oral, that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation, to an agent officer, or citizen of such nation, or with reasonable cause to believe that the said vessel shall be or will be employed in the service of any such belligerent nation after its departure from the jurisdiction of the United States."

Acheson, Thacher, Rublee and Burlingham argue in their brief that this law does not prohibit the release of American naval vessels for sale to Great Britain since they were not "built, armed or equipped as vessels of war with any intent or under any agreement to deliver them to belligerents or with reasonable cause to believe that they would be so delivered."

Lawyers See Loophole.

Section 23 of title 18 of the United States code prohibits the fitting out or arming of vessels of war with intent that such vessels are to be employed in the service of a foreign state to commit hostilities against the subjects or property of another. Acheson, Thacher, Rublee and Burlingham argue that American destroyers were not built and fitted out with any such intent and hence could be released for sale to Great Britain without violating the law.

"When vital interests of the United States are at stake, when the sentiment of the country is clear, the government should not hesitate to exercise powers under existing law," the brief declares. "To seek an unnecessary reaffirmation of these powers from the congress now would be to run a risk of serious delay and by delay possibly to endanger the vital interests of the people of the country in keeping war from our own shores."

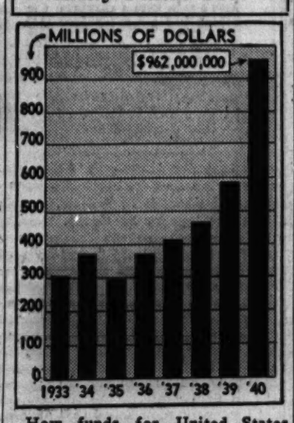
Acheson is a member of William Allen White's Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, the foremost interventionist organization in the country, but he denied today that group or any other organization urged him and his associates to prepare the legal opinion. He and his associates did it, he said, because they "felt so strongly that something should be done and that there is no law on the statute books to prevent it."

Admiral Urges Action.

Admiral Standley, in urging the release of naval vessels and other government action to help Great Britain, did not deny that he was advocating war. He recalled that last June 10 he and 29 others signed a statement advocating an immediate declaration of war against Germany and declared that "We are really in a state of war."

Under a national emergency proclamation, the President could put into effect the most important provisions of the industrial mobilization plan of the war and navy departments and take absolute control of the nation's material resources, according to theories of his war emergency powers held by administration legal advisers.

Army Funds Soar



How funds for United States army have been increased in last eight fiscal years. The prospective appropriation for the current 1941 fiscal year is expected to exceed $5,780,000,000.

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP).—Figures showing how funds for the army have increased from $304,000,000 in the fiscal year 1933 to a prospective sum of over $5,780,000,000 in the present fiscal year, ending next June 30, have been made public here.

Secretary of War Stimson, in response to congressional requests, submitted data showing that in the fiscal years 1933 to 1940 a total of $3,776,300,000 was made available to the army, including direct appropriations and allotments from federal emergency funds.

For the present fiscal year $2,900,400,000 has already been provided [including appropriations and contract authorizations] and a defense minded congress seems about to increase that to more than $5,780,000,000.

CALLS CONSCRIPT PLAN FINAL STEP TO U. S. FASCISM

Christian Century Editor Addresses W. C. T. U.

Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, declared yesterday that compulsory military training, as proposed in a bill now before congress, would be the final step in making the United States a Fascist nation. He charged that the Democratic administration during the last eight years has been building up a one party system of government which endangers American liberty.

Dr. Morrison addressed delegates to the 66th annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, in the Stevens hotel.

Finds Peril is from Within.

"The supreme peril of America today is not Fascism from overseas, but Fascism from within," he said. "We are plainly drifting toward a one party system, and that is Fascism.

"We have the making of a Fascist order already at hand. I do not speak of the possible uprising of the proletariat, nor of the possible uprising of industrial capitalists to take charge. I refer to the existence of a vast political machine whose backbone is the army of jobholders created by an administration which twice swept the country so completely that hardly a state or city organization was left to the opposition.

"For eight years federal, state, and city governments have been able to coöperate in the building of a party machine whose magnitude and integration are unparalleled in our political history. But it is not composed of jobholders alone.

Unemployed Aid Setup.

"Add to these the vast army of the unemployed, who are grateful for the relief and the work which has been given them as a substitute for self-respecting means of gaining a livelihood.

"In this far-reaching burocracy, this army of jobholders, and this vast number of unemployed we have the nearest approach to the permanent one party system and Fascism. A Hitler or a Mussolini would consider it an adequate instrument to put the Fascist program over the top.

"Now add conscription to this. Convert the present time psychology into a wartime psychology and adopt the doctrine of the indispensability of one man to be the fuehrer of this vast organization and you are then in a Fascist order."

Used By All Dictators.

Dr. Morrison said that every dictator in Europe had ordered conscription in his country if that country did not already have it.

"Conscription in peacetime," he added, "is incompatible with the pacific way of life in the United States. It is a mere device which will transform the spirit of American culture."

Dr. Morrison asserted that if the United States is to prepare its national resources against an incalculable future it must be careful that preparedness does not play into the hands of those forces which are working to shift democratic government to a Fascist dictatorship.

MR. WILLKIE AND THE WAR CONSPIRACY.

For the second time in a week Mr. Willkie has been obliged to refuse commitments to Mr. Roosevelt's war policy. The approaches to the Republican candidate have been adroit, but he has perceived the purpose and has politely sent the White House emissaries on their way with an answer which fully meets the situation.

Mr. Roosevelt has made the war his campaign issue. He said it was the reason which impelled him to seek the third term. He did not say that there were domestic problems which would require him to remain in office. He said that it was the war peril which induced him to run again, altho his preference was not to. Thus he made war the reason for his candidacy and the only one. He put two Republicans in his cabinet. Having made the war his political issue in the campaign, he tried to keep his opposition from meeting him on it.

For this purpose the effort was made to obtain a commitment from Mr. Willkie indorsing the war policies of Mr. Roosevelt. If it had succeeded there wouldn't have been any issue. There wouldn't have been any campaign and there wouldn't have been any contest. There would have been merely a preliection acceptance of the third term and of war.

Mr. Willkie in his statement recalled that after Mr. Roosevelt had been elected and before he took office, President Hoover tried to get his cooperation for joint action, principally on financial matters, which were taking a more serious turn and which later justified all the fears then entertained. Mr. Willkie quotes Mr. Roosevelt, who said in November, 1932: "The immediate questions raised create a responsibility which rests upon those now vested with executive and legislative authority." To that Mr. Willkie added: "Much doubt was expressed as to the wisdom of that statement by a President-elect. None can doubt its correctness when taken by a candidate for President."

The approach to Mr. Willkie was to get him to commit himself as a candidate to the war policy of his opponent in the campaign and thereby close the issue which Mr. Roosevelt says is paramount. The peremptory need of the administration, in particular, was indorsement of the sale of 50 destroyers to Great Britain. The promoters of that warlike proposal wanted Mr. Willkie to say that he approved it. That would have made him a member of the war party and a participant in a belligerent act, one which has been recognized in our history as an act of war. The sale of these destroyers is not only illegal under our present law but is the act of a belligerent.

It was a hostile act when Great Britain allowed commerce destroyers, privately built, to sail from the British shipyards and, as is well remembered, the American minister to Great Britain, Charles Francis Adams, told Lord Russell, the British foreign minister, that if two commerce destroyers built in the Clyde yards were allowed to leave, Great Britain would be at war with the United States.

Our government has taken many steps which are not short of war, but no one could possibly deceive himself regarding the sale of the destroyers. All our precedents declare it to be an act of war. The government which would do that might just as well send the crews along with the ships. We are told that we may be ready for war in three years. The war party is trying to get one in three months. Mr. Willkie declined to close the campaign on that issue.

THE ARMY KEEPS ITS EYE ON THE BALL.

The army has arranged with the WPA to give priority over all other projects to the enlargement and improvement of airports in 31 New England towns and cities to fit them for military use.

It is gratifying to see that our professional soldiers have a clearer idea of our fundamental defense problem than have the amateurs who are riding off in all directions in Washington. New England, not South America, is the keystone of that problem.

An invader striking at the United States is going to strike at the point where he can do the most damage, providing he has any chance of success there. The point where the greatest damage can be done is in New England, with its great concentration of defense industries. Its loss would cripple our defense, while a European incursion into South America would, at the worst, only embarrass it. Despite all good neighbor talk, the South Americans appear to be worried fully as much about an American invasion to protect them as they are about a European invasion to enslave them.

When we have made secure our citadel, which is New England, it will be time to take measures for protection of outposts to the south. The army is working to get facilities for aerial defense of the northeastern states. This should be supplemented by the alliance with Canada for common defense of American shores, and that in turn by consultation between our armed forces and Canada's for the accomplishment of this task.

HONEY FOR THE SCURVY BEAR.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, was happy after his two friendly and constructive conferences with Constantine Oumansky, Russian soviet ambassador to the United States. Mr. Welles, for the state department and the White House, is seeking a recovery of the cordiality between the United States and Stalin's Russia. It was ever so little impaired on this side by the invasion of Finland, but a great deal on the other side by the prosecution of Earl Browder, the American communist chief, for passport frauds.

Comrade V. M. Molotov, the people's commissar of foreign affairs, in a speech in Moscow to the supreme soviet, a few days before Mr. Welles undertook appeasement and conciliation, said: "I will not dwell on our relations with the United States, if only for the reason that there is nothing good that can be said about them. We have learned that there are certain people in the United States who are not pleased with the success of the soviet foreign policy in the Baltic countries."

Mr. Welles, who temperamentally can't entirely like his part in the transaction—naturally he'd be holding his nose—is endeavoring to convince Comrade Molotov and Comrade Stalin that the above expressed view reveals a misapprehension of American policy. The American government does not disapprove of what the soviets are doing in destroying three self-respecting little democracies and in threatening the existence of a fourth, Finland.

Every traveler who has made his way thru Russia has expressed or tried to express the relief experienced when the filth and poverty of the soviets was behind him and the cleanliness, orderliness, and prosperity of the little Baltic states encountered. Some of them have said that the contrast was beyond words.

Prof. Lancelot Hogben of the University of Aberdeen, whose writings are well known to many Americans, escaping from Norway, where he had been lecturing when war hit the country, crossed Russia to Vladivostok and has arrived in America. "The country is one vast slum," he reports. "Outside of Moscow I saw nothing that compared favorably with even the worst slums of Glasgow." That is the universal testimony of people who are not trying to promote the fiction of a happy, prosperous Russia.

The banner of the sickle and hammer now floats over the capitals of the little democracies. Mr. Welles, for our government, has been seeking a renewed entente with Russia which, in overrunning the countries, substitutes a ragged, dirty barbarism for a self-respecting, self-sustaining, clean, and decent order of society.

Brother Oumansky can report for the further conciliation of "Our wonderful Stalin" that the American approval is not confined to words. The state department, refusing to charter oil tankers for Japan, has released them for Russia. The political deal between Roosevelt and Russian communism is so plain that no New Dealer with any judgment will dare to deny it.

CRIME AND POLITICS.

No doubt a number of ingenious excuses will be offered to account for the escape of Eleanor Jarman, the so-called blonde tiger girl, from the woman's penitentiary at Dwight. In her career as the leader of a holdup gang she had distinguished herself by the brutality with which she blackjacked her victims. Finally she was caught and convicted of murder. Her gang had killed an old man in the course of a robbery.

This woman had little difficulty in making her escape. When no one was watching them, she and a companion, also a hardened criminal, got away, and their absence was not discovered until lunch time.

To call this kind of thing an accident is absurd. A woman with such a record of brutality and cunning should never have been allowed out of sight for as long as a moment. The fact that she did get away provides another illustration of the distinguished consideration with which criminals are treated under the Horner administration. The alliance of crime and politics in this state appears to be flourishing.

The account of the escape mentions the fact that A. L. Bowen, state welfare director, went to Dwight to aid in the investigation. Mr. Bowen has been convicted of negligence in connection with the deaths from typhoid fever of more than 50 inmates and attendants at the Manteno state hospital. The conviction carries with it the requirement that he be discharged from public office. Mr. Bowen continues to hold his job. Nothing could more clearly indicate the degradation of the administrative branch of the state government these days.

Editorial of the Day

HOOVER'S MISTAKES.

[Wallace (Idaho) Miner.]

An inspired piece from one of the New Deal propagandists says that "Hoover was a complete failure." So he was. He failed in a lot of things. He failed to draw out his salary of $75,000 a year while he was President, turning it all back into the treasury. He failed to have his sons organize insurance company firms to write insurance on government enterprises. He built a Rapidan resort for fishing and recreation at his own expense and gave it to the government. None of his sons went racing thru the divorce courts to the disillusionment of the public. He never bundled up a lot of government documents to sell as a book to the faithful at a huge profit to himself, and he never sold himself into political slavery to a labor organization for a $500,000 campaign fund. He gathered a marvelous collection of war stuff and built a museum for it, but failed to ask congress to pay the bill—he paid it himself.

He did not preach and promote a class hatred and he did not try to pack the Supreme court. He did not plow up every third row of cotton and he did not promise the American people one thing while at the very same moment doing everything to accomplish the directly opposite result.

He did not ask congress to assess the taxpayers a billion dollars every time some one shot off a firecracker in Europe, and he did not go on fishing trips on government warships accompanied by a fleet of destroyers. Neither did he kill off all the farmers' little pigs nor encourage the importation of Argentine beef. In fact there were a lot of foolish things that Hoover didn't do that some other people have done. There are a lot of constructive things he could have done if he had not had the opposition of a Democratic congress; but anyway, he did not leave the American people $45,000,000,000 in debt.

Mrs. Hoover never made speeches and raced hither and yon on unimportant matters. She never wrote silly drivel on her everyday life and sold it to the newspapers, and she never sold soap over the radio. Her only public appearance was as an honorary member of the Girl Scouts of America. She never invited communist youths to the White House as her guests. The Hoover family seems to have made a failure of about everything that goes nowadays.

MR. PEPYS HITS THE TRAIL.

11th Aug.—Now I will go away for a while to rest, and I do need a rest, for what with writing about my vacation and talking about it and answering questions about it, I am practically exhausted. By the time this page from my diary gets into print I will be somewhere between the corn belt and the break of the plains, enjoying our native landscape and watching the telegraph poles flit by; and a day or two later I will be in the great mountains, looking at geysers, and glaciers, and geology in general.

Lady Provines' column, "Front Views and Profiles," will be placed in this column, or part of it, during my absence; and she will save my mail for me, so that when I come back, on or about Labor day, I will find a mountain or two of letters to open, and I do suspect I will give a groan or two at the sight of them. For upon returning from a holiday I always feel, for a day or two, that my mind has become a total blank.

I am taking some books to read o' nights, if I can find light enough in the gypsy camps; but I fear that most of my reading will be in "A Lodging for the Night" and "Adventures in Good Eating," which are handbooks to help the traveler on his way. When I get back I shall start to prepare a book of my own for the printer, which will be called "The Line Book of 1940."—And so to the road, with a prayer that the tires do not burst.

OFF IN A CLOUD OF DUST.

Farewell to thee, conductor sire,
Les belles vacances, et cetera!
Mehopes no man has ever had
A nicer, or a better, a
Gayer, finer leisure-time
Away from your stint of prose and rhyme.
And as a non-Parthian parting shot,
Whoe'er the new column lessor,
Whoever he or she may be,
Whoever's your successor . . .
This vale-tidbit, certes, is true:
He won't be as hard to get past as you!

On Waking in a Little Room.

The other day I woke in a little room. A little room of just four walls and not much more. There on a high bed I had a sense of being suspended in midair, out of reach with all material things.

Without knowledge of what was happening to me I had been taken to a little room, there to stay until I recovered. My worries and problems were left behind; even memory deserted me for a while.

On waking in a little room my whole outlook was suddenly changed. With returning consciousness there came a glowing indolence; an impression of mental abstraction; a feeling of separation from worldly things that must be akin to the Nirvana of Gautama. Much that had seemed important to me became less so and some things which had seemed commonplace took on new significance. I was rather reluctant to leave so peaceful a state.

And so I thought if only the world could slip into a coma and wake up in a little room where its whole perspective could be brought into proper focus! Wake up in a little room where all material considerations were removed; where old hatreds would sink into oblivion; where foolish and ancient prejudices would be permanently discarded. A little room where only the best of the past would be remembered and all of the worst of it forgotten.

VACATION WISHES.

Good luck to you on the trail you take,
By stream or river or emerald lake!
Shade of deep forests bring you ease,
There is balm for the soul in these great trees;
For you may horizons lift blue and far,
Seen thru the deep ravine's green scar;
Companions for you be stars and moon
In your moss-green lodging with vine festoon.
These are for you who have blazed long trails

Timber for the Line's Cabinet.

In the present crush and press to clamber onto the Tom Chekouras band wagon in the Line's political campaign, let me state my political position. After tossing in mental travail for a half hour the other night, I decided to make myself available to the cabinet as postmaster general. If tendered this office, let me make it clear that I will accept—nay, grab—it hook, line, and sinker.

And so, out of practical retirement and the dream of writing poetry, I emerge at duty's call. In my quiet, unassuming way [6 feet 2½ inches], I come, ready to give my all for Line o' Type Progressives.

Talk about spontaneous acclaim! Already people are calling me "genial Tim." Timosius.

[Jim Bowers, alias J. F. B. Jr. and a dozen other monickers, is also under consideration as postmaster general because of his high batting average in the Line's mail bag.]

Thoughts While Taking a Shower.

The man who invented showers must have had a jittery personality. They're fast and efficient and they're sloppy and uncontrollable. They were made to wash robots. They're an instrument of the modern age, and I shouldn't be surprised if they don't have a lot to do with acute flutters and nervous breakdowns among fast moving Americans.

Woe is the old fashioned boy at heart who never has the opportunity to slip leisurely into a big bathtub full of soft, warm water and relax and dream. Woe is he who is destined to spend the rest of his life alternately freezing and scalding himself in a glass and chromium shower.

INFECTIOUS JAUNDICE ATTACKS CHILDREN.

WHEN we think of the huge job which the liver is called upon to do—straining, filtering, and making over much of our food—we need not wonder should it "strike" on occasion. Why isn't it possible for this organ to become infected and thus inflamed? Well, it is. Either via drainage material absorbed from the intestines or thru the blood, noxious germs may reach the area.

A well known disease is called "infectious jaundice." Then it is that bile appears in the skin and the whites of the eyes look yellow. "A jaundiced eye"—signifying envy or disapproval—is a common expression. The cause is a catarrhal condition within the outlet ducts. In other words, the structure has a "cold." As the nose may become stopped up and the air passages clogged, so the avenues which provide for the escape of bile may likewise become plugged.

What is the starter? Apparently a virus is the culprit. This has been rather clearly proved because experimental animals will experience the discoloration when inoculated with bacteria-free substances found in the blood of victims. That it is highly contagious is indicated by the fact that an outbreak in a school ceased when afflicted children were isolated. All recovered. Later, visitors who had been exposed developed the symptoms some weeks after they returned to their homes. Careful studies of the blood of these patients failed to reveal parasites or microbes of any sort.

We may as well admit that we are confronted with a difficulty which is likely to arise when young people are grouped together in dormitories or even in hospital wards. Instances have been reported from various parts of the country wherein the ailment has dragged along for months. Over a period of time one or more cases occurred in about one-fourth of the households of one community. No one is exempt and nurses and members of the family caring for those who are ill are all susceptible.

While the malady is termed "catarrhal," in reality it is simply an inflammation of the liver [hepatitis]. It breaks out more frequently in children and young adults than among those who are older. About four weeks are required for the disorder to become full blown and the virus may be spread after the first week.

The initial signs of malaise [fatigue], lack of appetite, headache, etc., may persist for 10 days prior to the manifestation of the tawny tinge in the skin. A few will fail to exhibit this latter symptom, altho bile may be discharged in the urine at some stage of the disease. Thus it is that very dark colored fluid from the bladder may call attention to the true character of the derangement.

It is entirely possible that carriers—those who harbor the causative particles—may exist in our midst; and only when reserve drops, attended with loss of sleep, irregular meals, etc., will we be in a position to invite organisms to enter and make themselves at home. Some attacks resemble glandular fever, altho the white blood cells do not increase in number.

As we well know, this is not the only source of liver trouble as any interference with the exit of bile—such as a gallstone—may be responsible. On the other hand, if a case of the infectious type crops up in a neighborhood, we should avoid contact with those who are affected. The chances are that the contagion is scattered thru spray from coughing or sneezing—or even the saliva of one who is sick.

FOCI OF INFECTION.

B. B. writes: Eighteen months ago I had the flu. Since then there have been eight recurrences—with nausea, aching, sweating, and a temperature. Is it possible for the flu germ to remain with me all this time?

REPLY.

Probably not—but some other organism is no doubt lurking in a hidden nook. A careful examination of the chest, tonsils, sinuses, etc., is advised. In addition, undulant fever should be tested for. Persist until the culprit is unmasked.

FLUID INTAKE.

S. F. writes: Is it necessary to drink water if one takes milk, coffee, tea, and soup every day?

REPLY.

Not necessary—no. The quantity is all that matters. All the fluids you mention are largely water.

NO CLOSED SEASON.

C. M. writes: Is it safer to have dental work done in warm or cool weather?

REPLY.

Suit your convenience and comfort. The season will not influence safety.

AND HE HATES STRONG DRINK!

Chicago, Aug. 9.—This is a supplement to your photographer's report under the picture of a coy lady holding two dishes of plants, one of which has been soused in one-half ounce of alcohol in a pint of water. Before I go further I would state that all alcoholic drinks, from apple jack to zythum, are a lot of hogwash to me. Still, there are people who love to steep their innards in all sorts of decoctions, which is their business, not mine. If they like it, what the heck!

But, as I reason out, the alleged plant the lady is holding is a multitude of plants. It looks like grass plants to me. We all know that plants siphon up water thru the roots. One grass plant can't weigh more than a few grains. If the lady had as much alcohol siphoned into her in proportion to weight as her "plant," she might stop growing, also. In short, her argument holds about as much water as a colander and, in my estimation, it appears that if she took a good shot of gin she could figure out a funnier argument.

Heaven knows, what with all the screwballs in Washington and the east hysterical about some war of which I still have no knowledge, we could stand a bit of comic relief. With all due respect to the lady, I could dig up a Berwyn burdock and plant it in a coal scuttle, and I'll defy any one to kill it with alcohol, prussic acid, or cyanide. It can't be done.

Moreover, if the lady would like to try her alcohol experiment on something worth while, I would suggest one of those 10 foot ragweed plants that now fill vacant lots and make life a bowl of cherries for the sneezers.

FRANK J. SCHINDLER.

A USE FOR OLD PAPER.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—When I was a very young girl, during the world war, I read somewhere about taking paper of all kinds, soaking it in water until it became "pulpy," then squeezing dry and forming into balls about the size of an indoor ball.

These balls were then allowed to dry thoroly, to be used as needed in place of or with coal, for heating purposes.

I would like to hear if any one has tried this and if these balls really give any heat for any length of time?

It would be a fine way to take care of the old accumulated papers if it could really be used.

E. J. B.

LA GRANGE BOY PLEASE NOTE.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 6.—Hoping to get in touch with a lad who helped us when in difficulties in your region during the storm in June, I am asking you to put this little notice in your Voice of the People hoping he may read it:

"A grateful motorist from the east would like to learn the name and address of delivery boy who so ably assisted her Buick car with Virginia license in the time of severe rainstorm in flooded street in La Grange, Ill., on June 10, 1940, on route U. S. 45.

MRS. O. C. UEHLING.

SHE HEARD THE PROFESSOR.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—I protest your paper's "tar and feather" Roosevelt policy.

Two weeks ago I heard an excellent political talk by Prof. Hatton, head of the political science department at Northwestern. His views on what Roosevelt had done and can do, Wallace's ability, and Willkie's noncommittment on almost everything, were reasonable, based on statistics and stated without mud slinging.

MRS. IRA ARQUILLA.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT!

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Thanks to the city council for passing the law to fine jay walkers. But it ought to be amended to include those annoying people who keep to their left instead of their right in crossing streets.

They worry and delay those who know and practice the first rule of the road in driving or walking, which is—"Keep to the right."

MRS. J. W.

THE NEGROES ARE LOYAL.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The Tribune is to be congratulated on its fine editorial today regarding Negro pilots.

Our country's history shows that the Negroes have always fought with valor, and they should be permitted to learn to be pilots. Notwithstanding their loyalty it is next to impossible for them to enlist in the army. In the marine corps and navy they aren't permitted to enlist at all. The few that are in the navy now are only permitted to be mess attendants. They have proven that they are fighting men of the highest quality.

It is a fact that no Negro has ever been a traitor to his country, nor a so-called fifth columnist.

J. I. G.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The Tribune should be commended for its part in the effort to dethrone race hatreds and prejudices that have long stood as a blight on community and national affairs.

When a paper like yours champions the cause of any minority group, as was done in the article "Negro Pilots," it is showing the true American spirit.

PAUL E. X. BROWN.

SOME LOST YEARS.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Instead of building national defenses as the Legion advocated war veterans and the young men of the country were put to boondoggling and raking leaves, when they could have built guns and ships the last 10 years. If that had been done with the billions spent then there would be no need now to put an additional tax on every pack of cigarets.

Plenty of money to spend making Red Cross pictures for the movies and appeals by radio for funds, but never a cent to spend to put men, especially war veterans, to work at worth-while tasks.

Lincoln said something about fooling the people. Most of us know it.

S. L. A.

"FUNNIER AND FUNNIER."

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Your cartoons get funnier and funnier. The one this morning implying the Democrats are planning a smear campaign is especially good, coming from The Tribune, which has constantly attempted to smear the President and everything connected with his administration.

I am sure the reaction against your rabid and probably mentally deranged hatred of Roosevelt has been an important factor in maintaining a Democratic majority in Cook county.

A TRIBUNE-MADE DEMOCRAT.

RED CROSS A BLESSING.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—I am nearing the four score milestone and have never rushed into print before, but I cannot let the letter signed "Hungry Family" and criticizing the Red Cross go unchallenged. Next to the church I think it is the grandest organization on earth today.

We have many groups for helping the worthy poor and I don't believe any child need go hungry in Chicago if the proper information is given in regard to the case.

GRANDMOTHER.

THE EAGLE AND THE BUZZARD.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Most of us have heard many times about the relative news values of the dog-bitten man and the man-bitten dog. Likewise, the manners and eating habits of the common buzzard are not news to most of us. We know that this bird is neither a fighter nor a killer. It was therefore front page news this week when we learned that the Lone Eagle had been attacked by the Florida Buzzard.

D'AR.

THE SOLDIERS AND VOTING.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—With the prospect of the National Guard being called to active duty as well as the thought of conscription, it occurs to me that these men who are of age and who are American citizens will have difficulty in voting at the coming elections.

As I understand the election laws, an absentee may vote, providing that he registers before leaving his home. How many will have the time or the thought during the hectic days prior to their mobilization to do this? Very few, I am sure.

I believe arrangements should be made thru legislation to allow these men to vote at the camp or mobilization point where they are stationed on election day.

I would appreciate your aid in advancing this thought before the proper authorities, as I believe you will agree that this is of great importance.

JAMES N. RAWLEIGH.

CHILDREN ARE CHILDREN.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Why are we so concerned about saving the British children when we sanction the food blockade, by England, which will mean starvation for the many children in Belgium, Holland, France, etc., who are not to blame for conditions in their respective countries any more than the British children are in England?

Children are children the world over. Why approve the starvation of some and the saving of others at the risk of our own children's lives, which we surely will do if we send our ships into the war zones? Is this another trick—by the administration—to get us into this awful war? Wake up, America, and send in your protests.

MRS. C. H. FIFER.

A BARKING DOG.

Chicago, July 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there a law to restrain people from putting their barking dogs between two houses after 10 and 11 p. m., and before 7 and 8 a. m.? At times our neighbors have a dog there for hours at a stretch during the day. He doesn't have the freedom of an animal in the zoo. Would this case merit investigation by the Humane society or the board of health?

N. R.

Section 98-42 of the New Municipal Code provides: "If it shall appear that any dog has in any manner disturbed the quiet of any person or caused an abrasion of the skin, or attempted to bite or snap at any person within the city, the owner or keeper shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $200." We suggest that you try complaining to the police.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TO REGAIN CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—What steps are necessary for a woman to take to regain her citizenship and her voting rights which were lost thru marriage to an alien? P. S.

Under an act of congress approved July 2, 1940, an American born woman who lost her citizenship by marriage to an alien prior to Sept. 22, 1922, may be repatriated as a citizen of the United States by taking the oath of allegiance prescribed by law, provided she has continued to reside in the United States since the date of such marriage. Further information in this regard may be obtained at the offices of the immigration and naturalization service, Postoffice building, Chicago. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT, District Director of Immigration and Naturalization.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 12, 1898

Peace protocol and armistice ending the Spanish-American war signed at Washington. News of the signing halted an attack by the Newark and other United States vessels against Manzanillo, begun the same day. By the treaty the following December, Spain lost the last fragments of her American empire, relinquishing Cuba and ceding Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Philippines to the United States outright. The United States agreed to pay Spain $20,000,000.

FEAR INCREASES AS MEXICO NEARS COUNT OF VOTES

Congressional Winners to Be Named This Week.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11 (AP).—Mexico, which counted some 50 deaths during presidential election disorders last month, looked forward with apprehension today to solution of that electoral struggle within the next three weeks.

This week, probably on Thursday, congress is to determine which candidates were voted into the new congress, which will take office on Sept. 1. The new congress, in turn, will announce the winner of the presidential campaign between Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, the administration candidate, and the independent, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan.

Each Side Claims Victory.

Both have claimed victory. Their followers have claimed victory in the congressional elections. The Almazanistas have declared repeatedly they would establish their own congress if declared losers of the elections.

Gen. Jesus Agustin Castro, minister of defense, said the army was under orders to crush any subversive activity or uprising.

Report Troops on Move.

Lending strength to rumors of impending trouble were reports from military quarters that several thousand additional troops were being moved into the capital for special patrol duty during the congressional session, and reports that 60,000 peasants and workers of the administration party would begin arriving here on Tuesday. They were said to be under instructions to guard congress and patrol the city.

Gen. Nicolas Rodriguez, former head of the Fascist Gold Shirts in Mexico, died late yesterday at Juarez. Exiled in 1936, he was permitted to reenter Mexico recently to die. The attorney general's office has filed charges of seditious activity against Ruben Romero Padres, present head of the Gold Shirts and head of the pro-Almazan national vanguard.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 27.

1. You would most likely find goobers in a Grocery Laundry Garage Hardware Store.
2. Which of the following colleges is exclusively for women Brigham Young Ohio Wesleyan Smith Loyola.
3. If you entered an automat to make a purchase, you would probably get An Automobile Medicine A Book Food.
4. Radio beams are most helpful to Building Contractors Aviators Auto Racers Plumbers.
5. Tapered lines are used in which of the following types of fishing Fly Casting Bait Casting Trolling Deep Sea Fishing.
6. Bill and Jim lived next door to each other but were having a feud. If a branch of Bill's shade tree extended over the fence, Jim would cut it off just for spite, and vice versa. One day Jim bought a beautiful peacock. That same night it got loose and invaded Bill's back yard. Jim hurried over to get it next morning. As he lifted it from the ground, he found a freshly laid egg under it. He hesitated momentarily; then seized the egg, too. But just then Bill strode out of the back door with a shotgun in his hand and told Jim he might take his peacock but not the egg. Jim argued that the egg was his, too, but Bill claimed the egg. Their row brought a policeman, who finally took them to court. To whom did the judge award the egg?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

MORE CANADIANS VOLUNTEER THAN CAN BE EQUIPPED

Navy Has Spectacular Growth in Power.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 11.—Canada, at war, still has not adopted compulsory overseas service. Nevertheless, with enlistment on a voluntary basis to serve abroad, more men are volunteering than can be fully equipped at present.

Home service is compulsory, and at the moment Canada—under parliament's act of June 20 giving the government broad war powers—is preparing to register on Aug. 19, 20, and 21 all the nation's adult man power.

Canada has 1,198,000 unmarried men between 18 and 44 years old, and it is expected that plans for home defense training can be fulfilled by calling up only single men from 21 to 35 years of age. The plan does not contemplate drafting any man for foreign service.

Monthly Waves of 30,000.

It is planned that, beginning Oct. 1, Canadians will be called up in monthly waves of about 30,000 men for 30 days' training and that within a year more than 300,000 will have been trained. Minister of Defense James L. Ralston said it was unlikely that married men would be called in 1940.

Canada has 163,000 men in the army, navy, and air force. This number is being increased at the rate of 1,200 daily, a rate commensurate with the present capacity of Canadian factories to provide uniforms and arms. Production, however, is expanding rapidly.

The number of Canadians now serving in England and at other overseas points has not been stated officially, but it is known that there are at least 35,000 Canadians in Great Britain who are fully trained and ready for battle. More troops are steadily being moved across the ocean. Not a single transport has been lost in this war or the last.

They're in Active Service.

Added to the troops in Britain, Canadians are on active service in Newfoundland, Iceland, and the West Indies and along the Canadian coasts.

Besides the Canadian active service force, there is the nonpermanent active militia—the National Guard of Canada. There are also an increasing number of civilian home guards.

Need Aviation Instructors.

Enlistment in the Canadian air force has to wait the training of instructors. There are more than 20,000 Canadians who have passed the tests and are waiting to be called.

The most spectacular increase in Canada's forces has been in the navy. When the war started there were only six destroyers and less than half a dozen other small vessels.

Now there are 112 ships of various sizes—not counting mosquito torpedo boats—on active service. The Canadian navy not only is patroling the dominion's coastal waters, but also is serving in the West Indies; patroling the Greenland, Newfoundland, and Iceland coasts, and has been in active service off England and France.

New Type of Ship.

One hundred more vessels will be put in active service soon. These include 54 corvettes, a new type of naval ship, larger than a patrol boat and designed for antisubmarine work.

Canadian shipyards are building the corvettes and a number of minesweepers for the Canadian navy and also 20 corvettes for the British navy.

Boats built in Canada for the British navy will be named after Canadian wildflowers. Thus, for the first time in history, the British navy will include an H. M. S. Mayflower, the flower of Nova Scotia.

Manning Canada's fleet of small naval ships—and some not so small when one includes the passenger liners that have been converted into auxiliary cruisers—are 10,000 officers and sailors. Thousands more are in training in the volunteer naval reserve.

Photographers in Uniforms.

Tho the dominion has not developed a naval tradition of its own, the naval service is increasingly popular. It may be the "silent service" in Britain, but here it is developing a flare for publicity, with Lieut. John Farrow, Hollywood movie director and husband of Actress Maureen O'Sullivan, in charge. Press photographers—appearing in their naval officers' uniforms as no press photographer ever appeared before—are being placed on each destroyer.

So many more recruits have come forward than are needed for Canada's ships that detachments have been sent on to the British navy. As a result, there are now twice as many Canadians serving as officers in the British navy as there were in the Canadian navy when the war started.

Walks 60 Miles to Join Army.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 11 (AP).—Henry Smith, 31, of Cooperstown, N. Y., who collapsed near here Friday after walking 60 miles to join the Canadian army, has recovered from exhaustion and hunger and soon will be able to leave a hospital, officials said tonight. Smith said his brother was overseas with the Canadian army. Unable to get work, he wanted to get into the Canadian army too. He said he had had no food for several days.

QUARRELS WITHIN OWN RANKS TRAP ARGENTINE NAZIS

Arms Exposure Seen as Serious Affair.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 11.—Petty squabbles between gauleiters [district leaders] and their rivals among Nazi circles appear to have been at the root of their trouble with Argentine authorities in Misiones territory, where an official investigation of German activities is still going on.

Fifty machine guns, 3,500 rifles, and several hundred thousand rounds of ammunition already have been uncovered.

The uncovering of an arms cache began the revelations. A number of plotters were arrested and little more might have been heard of the matter but for their mutual recriminations. They first feigned ignorance of the Spanish language, but a trap was laid for one of them and he broke into fluent Spanish to explain what he thought of the "treachery" of a brother gauleiter. It was not long before all were doing the same.

Bigger Caches Revealed.

The federal government sent Gen. Cassinelli of the national gendarmerie to investigate a charge that the men had been tortured into false confessions. He found no evidence to confirm the charge, but bigger collections of rifles and ammunition were found on the gauleiters' premises, and a large quantity of undated proclamations urging the Argentine people to overthrow the "worms who govern you at the behest of British and American plutocrats" came to light.

Beyond announcement of the discovery of the hidden arms and the proclamation, little has been disclosed regarding the progress of the inquiry. Nevertheless, the fact that the government detailed an officer of the rank of Gen. Cassinelli to investigate, coupled with the fact that the German ambassador has twice paid lengthy visits to the foreign office, has led to belief that the affair has taken on a serious aspect.

"Head of 3 Plots" Held.

Arnulf Fuhrmann, confessed author of a Nazi plan to seize Uruguay as a German colony, was arrested today by Argentine police at Concordia, in Entre Rios province. Concordia is across the Uruguay river from Salto, where Fuhrmann is district leader of a Nazi cell. Investigation by an Uruguayan congressional committee in June showed that Fuhrmann was in charge of three international plots. Uruguayan police say he is the leader of anti-Semitic agitation thruout South America, and leader of plans for armed action wherever desirable in South America.

Thirteen former warrant officers on the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee have been brought to Buenos Aires under arrest from Lake Nahuel Huapi in Patagonia, where they were trying to cross the frontier into Chile after escaping from the province of Cordoba, where they had been interned.

Graf Ex-Officer Seized.

A former officer of the Admiral Graf Spee is under arrest at Resistencia, in the territory of Chaco, on a charge of having photographed and charted ports on the upper Parana river.

The minister of the interior has issued an order for the deportation of Karl Arnold, 29 years old. The ministry charged Arnold, a gestapo [secret police] agent, with having made an extensive tour on which he checked on the activities of German agents and societies in Argentina.

Nazi activities in Argentina, which had been discreet, became more aggressive following the arrival in Buenos Aires of Count Luxburg. As German minister he acquired notoriety during the world war when he advised his government to sink Argentine ships without leaving a trace, for which he was expelled from the country. Why Count Luxburg returned and why he was permitted to enter the country are questions that have not been cleared up.

A humorous angle has been injected into the situation by a statement that an overcoat missing from the German club, one of the wealthiest clubs in the city, was of the best English cloth, as were the 40 or 50 overcoats hanging in the club when the garment disappeared. Nothing of erzatz [substitute] materials was to be seen.

SCALISE FACES COURT TODAY ON LARCENY CHARGE

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—George Scalise, who served a prison term for violation of the Mann act and subsequently hid his record behind a labor front, will go on trial tomorrow accused of stealing $60,087 from the treasury of the Building Service Employes' International union.

Scalise, a Brooklyn hoodlum who became president of the international thru his political and underworld connections, has been free in bail of $45,000. He will be tried in General Sessions court by a jury chosen for high qualifications. Judge Jacob Gould Schurman will preside.

There are 60 counts of grand larceny, embezzlement and forgery in the indictment on which Scalise will be tried. It is alleged that he looted the union treasury by withdrawing funds each month, ostensibly for legitimate union purposes.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey will attempt to show that Scalise obtained the money fraudulently, and instead of using it for salaries and organization expenses, put it into his pocket.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS

with syphilis have very little chance of giving birth to living, healthy children unless properly treated!

ACCORDING to the United States Public Health Service, the expectant mother with syphilis who is not properly treated during pregnancy has only a 17% chance of having a living, healthy child. In 83% of cases her baby will be born dead, or will come into the world in a sickly, deformed or feeble-minded condition!

But, on the other hand, the expectant mother with syphilis who is properly treated can be almost certain of having a baby entirely free from the disease. Such treatment must be started early in pregnancy, and must be continued right up to childbirth. At the same time, care must be taken to guard against gonorrhea, as its germs can get into an infant's eyes at birth and be the cause of total blindness!

So, if you are expecting a baby and have reason to believe that you have either syphilis or gonorrhea, don't wait until it's too late but arrange to get proper venereal disease attention at once! Such attention can be had very inexpensively from the Public Health Institute, whose physicians have given more than 5,300,000 examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea in the past 20 years!

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

Because the Public Health Institute was founded by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, its charges are remarkably low for the expert treatment given. A thorough examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, costs very little, while individual treatments are easily within the reach of every wage earner.

Furthermore, even those temporarily short of money can arrange to be treated without undergoing an embarrassing credit investigation or signing any papers whatsoever!

Best Oats Yield.

August 11, 1940.

THE best field of oats ever grown on the Du Page county farm was harvested this week, a nine acre field that made 30,660 pounds of grain, according to the manager's figures. Based on the standard weight of 32 pounds per bushel, this was a yield of 958 bushels, or 106.4 bushels per acre.

The measured yield probably would not have been that high because the grain is of exceptionally fine quality and is thought to weigh more than 32 pounds per bushel. It has not been tested for weight. Some oats in Illinois this year have tested 36 to 40 pounds per bushel.

All the oats at the farm this season are better than the crops of the last two or three years, but no exceptionally high yields have been recorded for any of the other fields harvested so far. A field of 5.1 acres made 263 bushels, or 51.5 bushels per acre, and a 5 acre field made 254 bushels, or 50.8 bushels per acre.

11 Pecks Sowed Per Acre.

The field that made the highest yield was broken out of alfalfa sod last fall. The oats were seeded at the rate of 11 pecks per acre on April 22 and made a good showing right from the start. They were Iowar, a medium early variety that has been a favorite at the farm in recent years.

Only nine acres of wheat were harvested at the farm this year. More was seeded last fall, but part of it was damaged during the winter and was used for pasture. The nine acres yielded 169 bushels, or 18.7 bushels per acre. While this was considered only a fair yield, the grain was of good quality, altho much of the wheat was knocked down by winds and rain about the time the grain heads were forming.

Seedings of alfalfa, clover, and timothy in the wheat and oat fields have been damaged severely by the dry weather, but the manager thinks the alfalfa may survive.

There still is some clover left, but it is doubtful whether the stands will be sufficient to leave for a hay crop next year. It is hard to tell about the timothy. There is little sign of any now, but timothy that is seeded with small grains in the spring seldom makes much showing until the second summer.

Farmers thruout the drier areas of the middle west have reported that alfalfa seedings are standing the drouth better than young clover. They attribute the difference to the deeper root systems of the alfalfa plants.

Stubble fields are relatively free from weeds this year. This may make it possible for seedings of grasses and legumes to survive the drouth because they have less competition than usual for the meager supplies of moisture in the surface soil.

DESTROY ON SIGHT DRIVE OPENED ON SLOT MACHINES

State Police Act to Block Seizure by Nitti Gang.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

State highway police were ordered yesterday to destroy on sight any slot machines found in operation in Cook county or downstate. The new policy was adopted to prevent the syndicate headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti—an outgrowth of the old Al Capone bootleg army—from recovering seized machines.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy and T. P. Sullivan, chief of the state bureau of investigation, said Chief Walter Williams of the state police gave the "destroy on sight" order as a result of opinions by former Attorney General Otto Kerner and later opinions by Cassidy.

Arrests of Owners Ordered.

"Chief Williams will confiscate no more machines," Sullivan said. "The state police are instructed to break them into bits and then arrest the person responsible for their operation."

The order will not be binding on Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, who is holding 500 seized machines in a vault in the county building, the officials said.

Chief Lester Laird of the county highway police said the coin devices brought in by his men are smashed periodically with sledge hammers. Among the contraband machines on hand now, he said, are many of expensive types, some, of the "poker" variety, worth $1,000.

Add to County Collection.

During the last week Chief Laird's policemen confiscated five slot machines and a number of pin ball devices which, after court cases are disposed of, will go into the county building vault to be added to Sheriff O'Brien's collection. The machines were taken from Lang's lunchroom, Joliet road near East avenue, in Lyons township; Lauderback's tavern, Roosevelt road, west of Cicero avenue; Hewitt's tavern, River road and Grand avenue, River Grove, and 3800 River road, River Grove.

No date has been set for a smashup party, Laird said. He asserted there is no danger of any of the 500 machines being recovered by the syndicate thru court action, or otherwise finding their way back into the possession of the Nitti forces.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Webb of Lake county yesterday seized five slot machines in a raid on a Round Lake resort operated by George Renehan. The machines were the first found in Lake county in about a year.

Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's office said he has supervised the wrecking of 800 machines in the last few years. He said the custom is to keep the machines seized by the state's attorney's police at the Criminal Courts building for a few months and then to set a crew of wreckers to work on them. Kelly said the scrap is thrown in the quarry adjacent to the Bridewell. As an after thought, he added that none of it is likely to wind up in the junkyard of William R. Skidmore, a mile away. Skidmore is reputed to be the payoff man for the Nitti gang.

None Found in Chicago.

No slot machines have been found in the city of Chicago, Cassidy and Sullivan agreed. Other authorities said it has been at least ten years since the coin boxes have done business in Chicago. The state police, therefore, have confined their raids to the suburban territory. Their reports have uncovered some of the history of the racket here.

In the old days it was the politicians who got fat on the sucker money. They decided who, when, where, why, and how much concerning the activities of the so called one armed bandits. It was from their moaning about the curse of the Nitti gang and what it has done to the slot machine industry that the state agents got most of their facts and figures.

"The Nitti mob spoiled everything with its rule or ruin policy," the agents were told. "Several years ago we were tolerated, and the profits went to hundreds of little fellows as well as a few big ones.

"Then the Nitti racketeers hogged the coin box business, just as they did the bookie joints. They made it big business—but for themselves only."

Once 2,500 in County.

In good times, it was estimated, 2,500 nickel, dime, and quarter slot machines were to be found in Cook county. Every roadhouse had them; every hamburger stand and gas station.

A machine's average "take" was said to be $300 a month, and the dealer was permitted to retain 50 per cent of the profits. The other 50 per cent went to the man who placed the machine and who, theoretically, owned it. Tavern owners rarely owned their own slot machines.

The slot machine business was regarded then as a perquisite of the favored political district leader of the party in power. In Chicago the ward committeemen awarded this concession or kept it for themselves; in the country towns precinct committeemen had this privilege. Each made his own arrangements with the higherups, it was said.

Heavy Graft Payments Made.

Investigators declared the racket in former days permitted graft payments of $1,000,000 a year in Cook county alone.

Then came the so-called muscle tactics. The followers of Capone, headed by Nitti, decided to take over the business of collecting the sucker money. There were a few killings, and opposition to the will of Nitti was no more. "The Boys" were in the slot machine business.

As the investigators have it, "the Boys" went in for efficiency in distribution and collections. The cut became 60-40 in their favor, instead of 50-50. The graft, or "giveup," was enormous, "the Boys" explained to the tavern owners.

Toll $750,000 a Month.

With 2,500 machines grinding in the money at the rate of $10 a day, or $300 a month, each, the Cook county toll was $750,000 a month. In a season of six months the gross was $4,500,000. And in some sections the illegal devices were going the year round. A conservative estimate of the gross for a year in Cook county was at least $5,000,000.

Of this sucker money, $2,000,000 went to the dealers, who used to say, "Those machines pay my rent every month." Assuming that the graft was 20 per cent, or $1,000,000 a year, the gang had $2,000,000 left at the end of the year for its trouble—if it could be called trouble.

The profit was at least that, the investigators learned, even taking into consideration the loss of 1,000 or so machines each year thru confiscation by the authorities. That $2,000,000 formerly had gone to the lesser political figures who did their own fixing, splitting, manipulating, and even muscling, it was asserted.

Nitti Investment Small.

When the Nitti syndicate went into the slot machine racket its investment was said to have been small. Many of the machines were acquired thru hijacking. In some instances the original operators were taken in as agents of the gang. Edward Vogel, main operator in the west and northwest portions of the county today, was formerly an independent, and became an agent, investigators declared.

Assuming that the syndicate was not predatory and actually bought all the machines, 2,500 machines could have been purchased at not more than $80 each, second hand, or at a total cost of $200,000. That was considered chicken feed in the days when "the Boys" were called beer barons.

Chicago concerns employ 30,000 persons to make slot machines and pinball games, which are sold all over the world but which are now anathema in the county of their origin.

The old style one-armed bandit cost about $100 new. There are said to be many thousands of used ones in storage hereabouts. They are being offered for sale at an average of $40 apiece. A new and smaller kind costs from $80 to $120, depending on whether it is bought at wholesale or retail or for cash or credit.

8 Murders Laid to Gangs.

When Chief Sullivan began his operations late in 1938 he said eight recent murders were traceable to slot machine gangs. Hijacking of machines, once a prevalent custom here as well as downstate, was ended in Cook county with the centralization of ownership, operation, authority, political fixing, and maneuvering, Sullivan stated. But it was not so downstate.

In 1939, under orders of Attorney General Cassidy, state police made dozens of raids in Cook county and confiscated or smashed about 200 slot machines. In the same year county highway police under Sheriff O'Brien and Chief Laird seized another 500 machines, and State's Attorney Courtney's office reported the seizure of another couple of hundred machines.

The syndicate has never resorted to court procedure to recover any seized machines, except on rare occasions, according to a survey.

In Hurricane Path

(Story in adjoining column.)

HURRICANE HITS COAST; CENTERS ON CHARLESTON

Georgetown, S. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—A 75 mile an hour hurricane out of the tropics, the worst to hit these shores since the turn of the century, appeared tonight to have veered inland after having loosed its fury from Savannah, Ga., to Georgetown, 60 miles up the coast from Charleston.

Of all the cities in the storm's path, Charleston appeared to be the worst hit. Cut off from communication and without electric power, the historic city of 75,000 population was in darkness tonight, many of its streets flooded by high tides. Power was not expected to be restored until tomorrow.

Report Six Dead at Beach.

At Charlotte, N. C., an amateur radio operator said tonight he had picked up a report from Folly Beach, S. C., saying that six persons had drowned there. He said his information came from a short wave station from the beach, near Charleston.

At Savannah, Ga., a Negro woman was struck by flying glass in the street and killed. Jesse Wallace, an industrial plant policeman, suffered a fatal heart attack when a tree crashed into his home. An unconfirmed report said two persons were electrocuted by a falling power line at Charleston.

Wires Down for Hours.

Communication with Charleston failed at noon and late tonight had not been restored. An Associated Press reporter telephoned an account of the Charleston storm over a shaky wire from St. George, S. C., 40 miles inland from Charleston.

Downtown streets of Charleston were flooded, waist deep in some places, and parts of the city were strewn with debris and tin roofs. Ancient trees were blown down. Hundreds of cars were stalled on the streets. The highway from Charleston to St. George was strewn with fallen trees.

The Charleston weather bureau reported the storm reached its full intensity about 2:30 p. m. [Chicago time].

The wind began diminishing and the barometer began rising about 4 p. m., when the Charleston weather bureau said "the worst appears over."

Believe Beaches Cleared.

There was no means of communication with outlying Charleston beach resorts, but it was believed they had been completely deserted before the storm hit.

Hurricane warnings were displayed south from Wilmington, N. C., to Savannah.

The highest wind to hit Savannah was estimated at 68 miles per hour. A fire at the big Savannah naval stores terminal, thought to have been caused by a falling power line, was brought under control.

Beaufort and other resort towns between Savannah and Charleston were cut off from communication.

Coast guard divisional headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla., dispatched two emergency communication trucks to the Savannah-Charleston storm area. The trucks house a complete power plant and short wave radio transmitting and receiving sets.

QUIZZED IN MYSTERY DEATH.

Central police yesterday investigated the death of Joseph Goyda, 44 years old, whose body was found in a vacant building at 827 South State street. William J. Bacon, 36, of 809 South State street was questioned after it was learned he was in a fist fight in that neighborhood Friday.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

If you go in for athletics at all, you'll be interested in the summer lotion that can be used for a bracing rubdown after sports. This was first launched in Europe as a de luxe item for men, but is now widely popular.

It is not perfumed. At least, what scent it has is not what you'd ordinarily classify as a perfume—it's a refreshing, herbal kind of a fragrance that is as suitable for men as for women.

The ideal way to use this, especially after sports, is to pour it over a piece or a mitt of terry cloth that has been wrung out in ice water. The rubdown should be vigorous. It will help the tired muscles to relax; in fact, the reaction after the rubdown will be extremely pleasant in every respect.

This lotion can be used as a refreshant whenever you are tired, whether from work or from play. The skin feels stimulated and smoothed after the friction rub and the restored sense of well being is well worth the effort.

We find a great many smart women use this after tennis or golf or skating. A rubdown with it in lieu of a shower or immediately following one is infinitely bracing and the delicate herbal fragrance of it does not conflict with other scents they may be wearing. One woman we know keeps her bottle in the ice box, preferring that it be stimulatingly cold when used.

Engagement of Miss Helen La Chance Told

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING romantic news has come from Glendora, Cal., where Mr. and Mrs. Leander H. La Chance, formerly of Chicago, entertained at a tea yesterday to announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Imogene, to Paul Van Deusen of Pasadena. He is a son of Julian Van Deusen of Los Angeles, formerly of New York, and a member of an old Dutch family.

Mr. and Mrs. La Chance and their daughter have been living in California for the last six years, but Miss La Chance frequently visits here, either with her brother, Donald, and his wife who live in Kenilworth, or with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Vail R. Bucklin of Astor street, who also have a home in Glendora. Miss La Chance is a member of the Junior league and of the Spinsters and the Assistance leagues, Pasadena organizations. She attended the University School for Girls here, and the French school in New York.

Mr. Van Deusen is a graduate of Leland Stanford university and president of the Ski Runs club, at which his romance with Miss La Chance began. The wedding will take place in October.

Dr. Arthur Bissell and Laura H. Smith to Wed.

A wedding in Pasadena in September that will also be of interest here is that of Dr. Arthur Bissell of Montecito, Cal., and Chicago, and Miss Laura Howell Smith of New York and Pasadena, whose engagement was announced recently. They are to be married on Sept. 16 in the Huntington Hotel bungalow where the bride's mother, Mrs. Albert L. Smith, and her uncle and aunt, the Geoffrey Smiths, all of New York, will stay during the festivities. The ceremony will be held at noon. Miss Smith is Mrs. Redmond Stephens Wright's step-sister. Mrs. Wright is the former Glee Louise Viles, of Chicago.

The marriage of Miss Hazel Farnsworth MacNair, daughter of Mrs. Dougald E. MacNair, to Gerald John Steiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Steiner of Guernsey, Channel Islands, took place at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Bond chapel on the University of Chicago campus.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Harley F. MacNair, was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. MacNair. Dr. Alan B. Cole of Redlands, Cal., was best man. The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the Woodlawn avenue home of Dr. and Mrs. MacNair. After Oct. 1 Mr. Steiner and his bride will be at home at 5531 Woodlawn avenue.

Miss Joanna Rogers Sets Her Wedding for Sept. 7.

Miss Joanna Bartlett Rogers and Philip Truesdale Stafford, son of Mrs. J. E. Stafford of Chicago, have decided to be married on Sept. 7. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at the Lake Forest Presbyterian church and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers of Lake Forest. After a wedding trip to the north woods Mr. Stafford and his bride will be at home on the south side.

Mr. and Mrs. Lefens Porter are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Linda Marie, yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Porter is the former Marjorie Walsh of Boston. The child's paternal grandmother is Mrs. Frank S. Porter.

Frederick H. Scott Jr. will combine pleasure with business when he goes to New York this week, for he will greet his new nephew, Edward W. Scott Jr., who was born last Friday to the former Nancy Haines Hanford at the Harkness Pavilion Medical center in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Scott Sr. are planning to go east in about 10 days. They are now at Charlevoix, where they are vaca-

Hinsdale Woman Competes in Show

Saddle and Cycle Club Tennis Matches Outwait the Showers

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Will it rain? Will it stop? were the questions of the day on Saturday at the Saddle and Cycle club, where the vagaries of the weather had the membership on tenterhooks. The last question was answered affirmatively long enough to permit the first of a series of exhibition tennis matches to be played, then the rain came down in torrents, driving disappointed tennis lovers indoors and postponing the remaining matches until yesterday morning.

"Tell me it won't rain," Mrs. Lincoln S. Harris, chairman of the woman's tennis committee, demanded of her friends as they arrived for luncheon Saturday.

"It's silly to make people sit in the rain to watch us," said Frederick J. Perry, one of the players, as William T. Tilden II. and Vincent Richards warmed up in a steady drizzle at 3 o'clock shortly before they were scheduled to start their match.

The stands were sparsely filled then with little clumps of umbrella-wielding spectators. The roof of a building across the street at 5240 Sheridan road was empty of its usual quota of "free" spectators. Nor were the south windows of the Edgewater Beach hotel, to the north of the exhibition court, especially crowded, tho some guests were giving tennis parties in their advantageusly located rooms.

A sudden shower drove all to cover just as the Tilden-Richards match was about to start. Saddle and Cycle guests spent the next hour around bridge or backgammon tables, peering at the sky and complaining about the weather.

The club's living room and north porch presented a cozy appearance. Stoop-shouldered, long armed Tilden indulged in a rubber or two of contract with Paul Bennett, Northwestern university's tennis coach, as his partner. Perry, in well cut gabardine and pipe, chatted with friends. The Earl Kribbens, the English Wallings, and Mrs. John Wentworth lingered over their luncheon table. The James Y. Meloys, the George W. Ryersons, Mrs. Ralph Hobart, Mrs. Sydney Waud, and Charles S. Freeman Jr. played bridge.

The junior James H. Douglases, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Woods Jr., the Winfield T. Durbins, Miss Josephine Carpenter, John T. Beatty, Daniel Ericourt, the pianist; the George B. Masseys, the Willard N. Boydens, the Charles Younggreens, the John Cromelins, Mrs. Frederick D. Corley, Miss Mary Louise Corley, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin II., Mrs. John C. Murphy, and others gossiped or kibitzed. It looked like a normal midwinter afternoon at the Saddle until Jack Macy, the tennis professional, gave the all clear signal and every one rushed to the new super-fast-drying tennis courts for a second time.

The weather was kinder yesterday, and Tilden's cries of "Well played, Vinny," and Perry's quips and antics were enjoyed in greater comfort, both at the morning session and at the afternoon matches. Ben Gorchakoff was the fourth exhibition player.

Guard Identity of Entrants in Fashion Contest

Entrants in The Tribune's American Fashions contest will be known to the judges only as numbers. After the 25 winning sketches have been selected the names of the contestants will be revealed for the first time.

This provision, guarding the anonymity of the entrants, is one of the most important of the American Fashions contest rules. The contest, which has as its principal goal the encouragement of American designing for American women, is open to both professional and amateur designers. It is important, therefore, that the entrant's status in the world of fashion should not be known to the judges. THE TRIBUNE is seeking ideas and originality, not mere artistry.

The entrant will submit his sketch unsigned, but with a sealed envelope pasted to the back of the sketch. The envelope will contain the entrant's name. Publication or exhibition by the entrant of his or her design, or any model made from it, will disqualify the entrant.

All sketches must be in Tribune Tower by Aug. 22, the deadline having been extended from Aug. 15 to accommodate entrants from remote cities. Designs must be sketched on illustration board, 14 by 20 inches in size. A sample of the fabric, or fabrics, to be used in the original model may be appended. A description of the materials will otherwise be accepted.

Entries must be securely wrapped, flat, and addressed to American Fashions, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 435 North Michigan avenue. Stamps for the return of the design may be inclosed in the entry blank and the envelope marked "Return postage inclosed." No responsibility will be assumed by THE TRIBUNE for the return of the sketches beyond reasonable care in wrapping and mailing.

Forty of the top ranking sketches submitted will be made into garments. These will be modeled at two style shows in W-G-N studio on Oct. 2 and the winning 25 will then be determined. Judging will be based on originality of design, ingenuity in the use of fabrics and suitability for introduction on the American market during the coming fall and winter season.

Cash prizes, totaling $7,500, will be awarded the 25 winners. There will be one prize of $3,000, one of $2,000, three of $500, and 20 of $50. A position as designer with Eisenberg & Sons, Chicago creators of women's apparel, will be given to the top ranking amateur among the first six winners.

Back in Chicago again and to picking up the threads of what's been going on—from a columnist's viewpoint—as relayed by faithful volunteer stooges: The announcer on WJJD who finished his commercial on life insurance by admonishing his listeners to be sure to send in a card naming their beneficiaries, then added, "And now we will play another of my favorites: It's All Over Now."

The annual pet show at Geneva, Ill., run by Miss Sue Egan, at which one of the three judges was the local dog catcher, George Williams . . .

The theater marquee signs advertising My Son, My Son, A Chump at Oxford. . . .

The advent of the Fifth Column cocktail at the Stevens hotel, made of absinthe, anisette, gin, lime juice, and the white of an egg. "It tastes swell, looks like something different, infiltrates slowly without your knowing it, and then hits you all of a sudden about an hour later," explained a bartender.

Hay Ride, Modern Style.

The saddest tale reported, as we return from a motor trip thru the farming land of New England, Pennsylvania, and Ohio and Indiana, concerns the two hay rack parties seen by Red Paul near Turkey Run. Mr. Paul, who was taking a few days' holiday from the city, went for a stroll after dinner one evening. Turning into a side road he saw two huge hay rack parties coming down the road. The wagons were filled with happy, laughing young people, and the floors of the wagons were covered with the traditional hay. But instead of dobbins pulling the wagons, there were two streamlined, Diesel driven tractors. We saw nothing like that in the east.

Straw Hat Theaters.

And the audience, if any, sticks to its seat,
Stock in the country lords its summer sway—

Berkshire Farewell.

We left the blue topped hills and green meadows of the Berkshires with a last survey of some of its points of interest. Herman Melville's house on Holmes road, where he wrote Moby Dick, now the property of Dwight Francis [one time husband of Movie Actress Kay Francis]. It was the grandfather of Oliver Wendell Holmes who bought the township in 1735, and there is Wendell avenue in Pittsfield to remind you. It was Clara E. Laughlin's So You're Seeing New England that brought it to our attention. You ought to take her book along if you're motoring in New England. We forgot our copy and wished for it frequently.

The village of Stockbridge, with elms arching over its main street, probably the same elms that were there when Jonathan Edwards came to preach to the Indians, is the setting for many of the scenes in Rachel Field's All This and Heaven Too, the movie version of which is now showing in the loop. The Field Chime tower in Stockbridge is a memorial to the Rev. Dudley Field, father of Henry M. Field, preacher and editor whose French wife is the heroine of Rachel Field's story.

Longfellow often visited in Stockbridge, and Hawthorne's home, Tanglewood, where the Berkshire Music festival now is held, was often visited by him, by Holmes and Melville.

"Up to this very road," wrote Walter Eaton, and is quoted by Miss Laughlin, "galloped the dashing Fanny Kemble, niece of Sarah Siddons, grandmother of Owen Wister, to tie her horse to a tree and talk with the shy, dark eyed novelist. Now lift your eyes and look southward. You see the same view that they did—a slope of pasture, a clump of pines, the lovely mirror of Stockbridge bowl; and far beyond that, in a gap of the hills, the blue dome of Mount Everett."

Murder Is Not Mute

By Audrey Newell

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Patrick Doyle of New York is vacationing in a small town when, while walking in the woods of the estate of Adolf Wunsch, ex-brewer, he stumbles on a skeleton. He reports to Truman Briault, Wunsch's brother-in-law, rejects the bribe Briault offers to keep the matter quiet, and goes to the police. Returning to the scene with Policeman Madden and Judge Blain, he finds the skeleton gone, but by trailing fresh footprints they find where it has been hastily buried. Dr. Blake, the coroner, says the skeleton is that of a teen age girl who was murdered. Doyle is asked to help solve the mystery. Further search of the Wunsch grounds near where the skeleton was first discovered results in finding blue yarn, a watch clasp, slipper heels, and a bullet. Doyle learns that beautiful Paula Briault married Wunsch for his money three years ago, and has led a miserable and lonely existence ever since. He has allowed her brother and mother to live with him, his 18 year old daughter, Texie, and his aged father but he dominates the household, giving Paula charge accounts but no money. Miss Doty, a trained nurse, cares for the elder Wunsch. Over a year ago Wunsch, realizing that Paula was trying to marry Truman to Texie to solve his financial problems, sent Texie to Europe for an extended tour, with Mrs Briault as chaperone. Lately Wunsch has been driving to town with Follins, his chauffeur, every night, and Paula, becoming suspicious, puts detectives on his trail. Helen Voss, Texie's best friend and companion, has not been heard of since Texie sailed. Doyle learns that the blue yarn came off a sweater belonging to Truman and that the watch clasp, identical with the clasp on the watch Wunsch gave Paula as a wedding gift, belonged to a watch Wunsch gave some one 13 months after his wedding. When Doyle tells Paula about the watch clasp she faints.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

Paula lay on the satin-striped empire daybed in her boudoir, where Wunsch had placed her when he carried her in from the golf course.

Dr. Blake had suggested moving her into her bedroom but she had opposed the idea so violently that he had given it up to spare Wunsch embarrassment.

For Paula and her husband shared the same bedroom. And Wunsch had flushed uncomfortably at Paula's frenzied refusal to be moved into it and at her brother's overwhelming support of her attitude.

Wunsch tried to cover the situation by hastily mumbling that it would be better for his wife to stay where she was because of the arrangement of their suite. He went on to explain that their bedroom was flanked on one side by his sitting room and dressing room, and on the other side by Mrs. Wunch's dressing room and boudoir. If Mrs. Wunsch remained in her boudoir she could not be disturbed by Wunsch's occupancy of his quarters.

The doctor gave Miss Doty her instructions for the administering of a sedative, should one be necessary during the night. It relieved him to see that Miss Doty was a capable young woman of the calm temperament essential in dealing with a nerve case. He prepared for departure with no qualms about leaving the patient in her care.

"What did you do to Mrs. Wunsch?" he asked the detective jocosely.

"She did it to herself," Doyle told him and added hopefully, "Can I see her now?"

Dr. Blake shook his head.

"Sorry. Nothing doing."

"Aw, hell. Have a heart."

"Where's yours? She's a very sick woman."

The best Doyle could do was to request another session with Adolf Wunsch, who led the detective into the library, set out whisky and soda, and then seated himself at the desk, staring out the window. The millionaire was apparently so deeply concerned over his wife's collapse that he looked ill himself—an appearance totally at variance with the impression Doyle had received of a marriage headed for the divorce courts.

"I don't know why I have so much trouble," Wunsch said heavily. "All my life it's been this way. Here's my wife with everything a woman could want. No worries, no work, nothing to drain her strength. But suddenly——" he spread his hands with a baffled gesture. "She is like a dead woman lying there. She won't open her eyes. She won't speak." He looked dully at Doyle. "I don't suppose you know what's upset her?"

Doyle found himself thinking, if this is an act it's a damn good one. He spoke sympathetically. "Maybe it's the heat. This weather is enough to get any one down."

"I suppose so." But there was little conviction in the ex-brewer's tone. Doyle changed the subject briskly. "I wish you'd do me a favor."

"I want to talk to Helen Voss," the detective said.

"Routine," Doyle explained. "Sooner or later I'll have to question every one who was living here at the time of the murder."

"But why Helen Voss?" Doyle could see that Wunsch was stalling for time—that his thoughts were racing and confused. "Why Helen Voss, of all people?"

"I can't tell you my reasons," the detective said.

"Why not?"

"You could cable your daughter for Miss Voss' address," Doyle suggested blandly.

"Now look here," Wunsch demurred angrily. "I'm not going to have my daughter mixed up in this. You leave her out of it."

"She'll be mixed up in it," Doyle countered, "if we have to search for Helen Voss over the radio and thru the press."

"But that's ridiculous," Wunsch blustered. "Do you mean to tell me only Helen Voss can answer your questions? What does she know? She's just an ignorant young girl—my daughter's protegée."

Wunsch hesitated a barely perceptible moment. "I put my foot down on that," he said. "Helen Voss is a penniless girl. She has her own way to make. No sense giving her a false idea of life—a craving for unsuitable luxury. After all, she has no claim on us."

"That isn't the way I heard it," Doyle said. "I heard you sent her to a business school."

"She isn't listed," he announced, and shoved the book across the desk. "I'll report her to the Missing Persons bureau. Listen in tomorrow at noon. You'll hear them broadcasting for her."

"I won't have it!" Wunsch shouted furiously. "You'll bring the damn reporters down on our heads. With my wife sick. And my father dying."

Doyle's voice cut dryly into his tirade. "Why did you tell me yesterday that Helen Voss was still living here?"

It took the breath out of the millionaire for a moment. Then explanation poured confusedly from him.

"I was just trying to give every bit of information I could think of. To put an end to your everlasting questioning. And as far as I'm concerned, this will always be Helen Voss' home. She's welcome here any time she wants to come back."

"Then bring her back now," Doyle snapped.

Alarm, defiance, indecision, cunning, made fleeting passage across the millionaire's countenance. "Give me time," he said finally. "I'll have the housekeeper ask among the servants. Some of them may know where she's living."

Doyle nodded, picked up his derby and crossed to the door. With his hand on the knob he turned and looked back at Wunsch, still seated behind his desk.

Doyle gratified Ellen by appearing early for dinner. And scored a bad mark by disappearing again as soon as dinner was over.

Standing on the bank steps with Officer Madden, the detective wanted to know if there was a local newspaper published in Beachville.

Madden told him proudly, "Sure thing. The Record. Out every Friday."

At Doyle's request, the officer took him around to The Record office and introduced him to Hal Tuthill, owner, editor, business manager, reporter, and printer's devil. And a nice, obliging old cuss, to boot, as Doyle soon discovered.

Tuthill dumped a dusty armful of back numbers of The Record on a table, and pushed over a stool for Doyle to sit on. If these weren't enough, let him know. And if there was a story behind all this poking into back issues, he'd take it for granted that The Record would get it in due time.

Going to Have Picture Taken? Here Are Hints About Makeup

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Both are right. Yet the woman who "takes" a poor picture could look much more beautiful in her photograph if she knew more about camera facts. There is art, and many tricks, to photographing well.

For one thing, if you want the camera to make you look your loveliest, find out what kind of film is being used. Nowadays most photographers use panchromatic film, and panchromatic film can do strange things to the wrong makeup.

It photographs blue as black, and doesn't take up the dark tones in red at all. Panchromatic film may make a blue eyed person have little black holes for eyes, but if her eyebrows and eyelashes are darkened, they keep the black eyes in proper balance. Mascara on lashes and brows will make a great difference.

With ordinary film, rouged cheeks will come out as hollows, but panchromatic rouge remedies this situation. It is well to question the photographer before you pose for your sitting.

Snappy College Clothes Luring Young Shopper

BY REA SEEGER.

College shops, just opened officially, are causing all records to be broken, not only for attendance but for the smoothest clothes that have ever been presented. You couldn't find more impeccably tailored clothes even in London; you wouldn't see brighter or more authentic plaids in Edinburgh and the masculine cut jackets and coats are so much like your dad's or big brother's pet models they'll probably accuse you of snitching the things right off their backs.

The biggest excitement in all the showings is first . . . the wrap-around or jumper dress. It comes in corduroy, velveteen, giddy Scotch wool plaids and in soft fine woolens like crêpe. It's as simple as a girl's apron. It fastens way at the side back and has a square cut top. It's new, young, and planned for speedy dressing. With it you wear snowy white blouses or contrasting colored shirts.

Then there is the longer length boy's jacket, straight, swanky and tailored expertly as to pockets, flawlessly fitted collar, and masculine cut sleeves. These jackets are ready for contrast or matching with simple skirts. Or you may find ensembles of skirt and jacket of the same material and color . . . you do the separating and achieve your own reputation as a clever color mixer.

Fabrics this year are grand, soft, fine, fleecy effects, smooth flannels, corduroy, the pet of any college wardrobe collector, and velveteens. Daytime dresses are going over big, from the simple classics of shirtwaist models to the more subtle things in inky black which you use for background for accessories, jewelry, and the like.

Date dresses are as smoothly sophisticated as anything ever cut. Black beauties are made of clinging crêpes, combinations of stiff faille and velvet and of woolens as fine as silk.

Details of shirrings, unusual sleeves, gathered necklines and waistline, and little frou frou trim make them superfinds for any money. So far brown is the favorite color, red next, and black third.

Convertible topcoats are going like mad, gabardine linings and wild, blazing plaids on the outside. Solid colors like denim blue, wine red, forest green also are teamed with gabardine.

Scotch plaid two piece suits also have established some sort of all time record for popularity. For shopping excitement and the important trends in college clothes see the college shops, but plan the trip early. All of them are filled to the doors with other shoppers and fascinating new clothes.

Summer squashes are fun. They are a delight to look at in color and shape. There are the little green cucumberlike zucchinis, or Italian squashes, the larger bright yellow crooknecks, which resemble gourds, and the beautiful, creamy white, scalloped squash, sometimes called pattypans or cymblings.

Young and tender summer squash, fresh from the garden, keeps its skin in cooking. When you find summer squash with peeling untender enough to require removal, you have a vegetable which is too old to make good eating.

HOW TO COOK SUMMER SQUASH.

Cook any summer squash in boiling salted water to cover, only long enough to become tender, no longer. Serve it with plenty of salt, pepper and butter.

As for preparing the squash for cooking, cut it in any attractive manner. The green skinned zucchinis may be sliced into halves lengthwise or sliced crosswise. The yellow crooknecks and pattypans, from which the seeds have been removed, may be diced or even cut into shapes with a fancy cookie cutter. Or they may be left in relatively large pieces of serving size.

I hold that salt, pepper and butter are the best dressing for any summer squash when brought to the table, but there are other ways of preparing the cooked vegetable attractively. One is to cover it with a medium white sauce and a topping of grated cheese. A few minutes under the broiler will melt the cheese and bring the sauce to bubbling, whereupon the squash is ready for the table.

FRIED ITALIAN SQUASH.

Cut the squash into thick slices and dip in seasoned flour. Fry in butter until tender. Or drop into deep hot fat for a minute or so, only long enough to brown the coating, after which time the vegetable will have sufficiently cooked.

SAUTEED SUMMER SQUASH.

Use any summer squash and cut it into pieces or slices. Put it into a skillet with melted butter, cover and let cook gently until squash is tender. Add salt and pepper and serve. Grated cheese may be added with the seasonings if desired.

Summer squash is good in combination with tomatoes or tomato sauce, too. But its flavor is so delicate that it is appreciated most when the vegetable is served alone.

M. Dutton Morehouses Are Parents of 2d Son.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Dutton Morehouse [Louise Lackner] of Lake Forest are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Alexander Gray, last Thursday at the Evanston hospital. The baby and his four year old brother, Merritt Dutton Jr., are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Lackner of Winnetka and of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt J. Morehouse of Mansfield, Ga.

Another baby who was welcomed at the Evanston hospital last week is Mary Stewart Arthur Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. C. W. Barber [Mary McElwain], who was born on Aug. 5. The baby, who has a little brother, Charles, was named for her mother and great-grandmother, Bishop Frank A. McElwain's mother. Bishop and Mrs. McElwain are in New Hampshire now, and will not see their granddaughter until they return to Minnesota in the fall. The baby's paternal grandmother is Mrs. Charles S. Barber of Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Strother Cary Jr. have named their daughter, born on Aug. 2 at St. Luke's hospital, Eliza, after Mr. Cary's grandmother. The former Barbara Fortune and her baby are going home from the hospital today.

Harold L. Stuart and his sister, Miss Elizabeth Stuart, will be among the fortunate travelers who will initiate the Clipper service to New Zealand this fall. Their plane is scheduled to leave San Francisco on Sept. 7 for a journey of about 12 days.

Classic Shirtwaist Dress

MISS' SHIRTWAIST DRESS.

Variable winds of fashion may blow styles on and off the horizon with great rapidity, but one tried and true fashion fortress always is unassailable—the shirtwaist dress. Women everywhere, of every age and figure type, appreciate this faithful mode. The model sketched today will appeal especially to the youthful. There are many ways to style it, two of which are illustrated. In plaid woolen, the version at the left has a contrasting shirtwaist collar and long sleeves. The version at the right utilizes stripes effectively, and uses only buttons and belt for contrast. The fabric may be woolen or silk.

Style No. 3458 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material for short-sleeved dress; 3 yards of 54 inch material for long-sleeved version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

BY CECIL SMITH.

If driving a truck over California roads at night sounds like dull routine, "They Drive by Night" will correct so erroneous an impression. Since George Raft is involved in the business, there naturally is not a moment without action or suspense. And with Ann Sheridan slinging coffee and hamburgers at Barney's roadside stand a garnish of rapid wisecracks embellishes his meals.

As Joe Fabrini, a strong but far from silent truck driver, Raft sets out in an independent enterprise with his brother, Paul [Humphrey Bogart]. They have tough going, for competition is keen and not always scrupulous, and they are behind in the instalments on their truck.

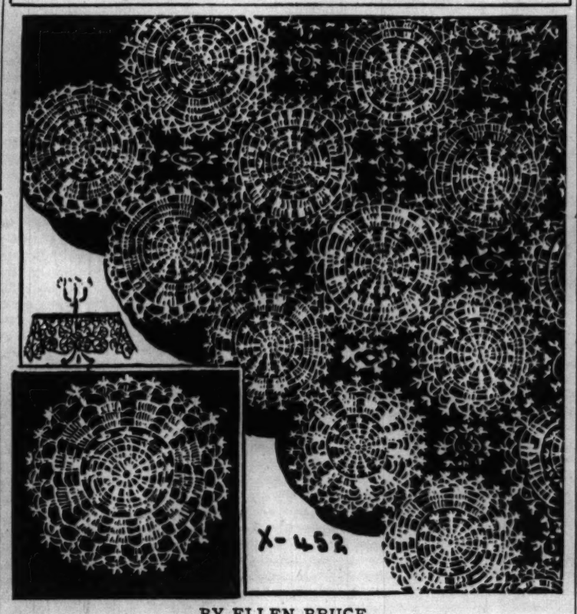
Because their own truck is finally wrecked, seriously injuring Paul, Joe Fabrini unwillingly gives up his dream of independence, and accepts a job from the head of a large trucking company. At this point Ida Lupino, in the form of the boss' wife, enters the situation. She has only one fixed idea—to get Joe for herself.

But all this time Ann Sheridan, whose flow of gags [good ones] hides a heart of purest gold, has been standing by ready for an emergency, and loving her Joe all the while. Toward the end the Sheridan-Raft-Lupino triangle gets into such a snarl that for a long time no solution seems possible.

The film is uniformly well acted. Raft, given a character with no impulse toward crime or delinquency, plays with force and integrity. Miss Sheridan is quite charming, and never should have been subjected to that phony "oomph" campaign—she is much nicer than that all sounded.

Miss Lupino handles her neurotic characterization with a good deal of resource. Her face and voice have individuality, and she may well become a good actress when she learns to overcome her present habit of doing everything in short takes.

Crochet of Rare Beauty



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Every once in a while we run across generous crochet workers who learned needlework in Europe many years ago. They are the possessors of rare and unusual patterns. The crocheted lace tablecloth illustrated today is made of medallions done in a combination of treble, picot, and chain stitches. These are joined by small medallions half the size of the completed one. Done accurately with No. 20 thread in ecru, there is no more beautiful cloth imaginable.

For instructions in crocheting the lace tablecloth, picot and chain stitches, No. X-452, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Just as good rhetoric involves a nice choice of words, so the language of bidding demands hair-splitting decisions on the road to the best final contract. In many hands a player will have to choose from among three or four possibilities, each of them fairly persuasive. The process of elimination is the only correct course in such cases.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's original pass and his correct response to the opening heart bid offered no difficulty, but when North rebid two diamonds South had to search for precisely the right bid. His spade void and Q-J-2 of hearts suggested that a game with hearts as trump was probable, but none of the various heart raises [two hearts, three hearts, or four hearts] suited South perfectly. Obviously, the first was out of the question. To bid two hearts over two diamonds would be merely "showing a preference" and would not come remotely close to indicating the playing strength of South's hand. Three hearts was much better, indicating better than a preference, but still would not paint a good picture. It was unlikely that North would be able to do anything but bid four hearts over three and, in that case, South would be "trapped"—he could not make another bid without pushing the contract into dangerous waters. Four hearts was discarded because North's suit might well be only four long, and a double raise by South would be unjustified except with four trumps. Since none of the heart raises was precisely correct, South used another device to describe his holding. Merely to rebid the clubs would suggest nothing but a long club suit, in other words, a sign-off. A jump in clubs, however, would suggest exactly what South had, namely, a long line of clubs plus outside values. Since South had passed originally, there was no fear of North's interpreting this jump as showing a profusion of honor tricks.

After the four club bid, North's job was easy. He merely used the four-five no trump convention, and when South again bid clubs North rightly assumed that his club queen would be a key card and raised to six.

Obviously, the hand was a laydown for twelve tricks with clubs as trump. And equally obviously, a six heart contract could have been defeated by the opening lead of the club ace and a second round ruff by West.

Society Owes Mothers Safe Confinements

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Did you know that there are 250,000 mothers each year who have their babies without the care of doctor or nurse?

"Some of these 250,000 are ministered to by dirty, ignorant, and entirely untrained women who have taken unto themselves the name of midwife, to which they really have no right or title. And when the fate of these women is discussed, it is dismissed by 'O, that is a midwife problem' or 'that is a medical problem.' But I tell you it is the problem of 250,000 women who have no other choice, no matter what their need may be. No, it is not a midwife problem and it is not a medical problem. The whole thing is a community problem of tremendous social importance.

"As we looked at this problem, we saw that other countries, notably Scandinavia, the Netherlands, and the British Isles had met this need by developing well trained midwives. So, we conceived the idea of training nurse-midwives to meet this need here in America.

"In 1932 we opened the first, and still the only, school for training nurse-midwives in America. Today we see graduates from our Lobenstine Midwifery school stepping into positions of leadership in remote as well as metropolitan sections of this country. And where these graduates go, go also the ideals of the Maternity Center.

"There is a vast difference between nurse-midwives and the 30,000 ignorant women who call themselves midwives. The latter are kind hearted souls who consider they've been called to serve de lawd in this capacity. The Lobenstine nurse-midwives are not like that. They are, first, graduate nurses from a recognized school of nursing. Then they take the course at the Lobenstine Midwifery clinic and school, where they get not only the theory of obstetrics, but actually deliver enough babies to make them safe and efficient accoucheurs. Here they work under the direct supervision of an obstetrician.

"The school has had a hard time making its way and has arrived at the point where it is recognized and accepted as an essential development in the plan for safe maternity care in America. There is need for more such schools, and we hope that schools patterned after the Lobenstine school will grow up in the south."

Universal Day—Ideas may be foggy today. Clear up points that are confusing, but don't undertake new commitments.

Wisdom—Is the keynote for a seven personal year. It is a period when one must listen to the still voice within, a time to study and dig deeper at the root of things. If you try to be too frivolous or seek personal gain you may find yourself blocked and things will seem to go wrong in the outward, material world. Turn your thoughts inward, seeking greater wisdom and understanding. You may even find some loss or sad event will sober your thoughts.

Hurry! Hurry! Sally Warns Boys and Girls

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Well, boys and girls, wasn't the announcement of our next party every bit as good as I promised it would be?

I know how much you enjoy Joe Penner, and in "The Boys from Syracuse" you'll see plenty of him, because he har a dual rôle and plays his own twin. His funny old duck isn't with him in this new film but just wait till you see him dressed up as a slave of ancient Grecian times!

All the cast will probably look funny to you in their costumes and I'm sure you'll get a shock when you see Charlie Butterworth with a wreath on his head, and Alan Mowbray and Eric Blore as Grecian tailors, fighting over their business.

On Aug. 21, 100 boys and girls will come with me to the R. K. O. Palace theater to see all these comedians plus Irene Hervey, Martha Raye, and Rosemary Lane and Allan Jones, who'll sing some new hit tunes. They'll also see an exciting new mystery film, "The Saint Takes Over."

I'm looking for genuine movie fans to enjoy this party with me, and if that description fits you, let me have a letter from you before next Thursday morning. Just tell me why you think you'd like this party, and if you write a good letter, maybe you'll win an invitation. When writing, you must be sure to tell me your full name, address, and your age, and remember to write your letter all by yourself.

These are the only rules we have, so if you're really enthusiastic about this party, get busy on that letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Looking at Hollywood by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11.—Clark Gable and Carole Lombard will become parents before the middle of 1941. . . . Carole Lombard and Clark Gable will adopt a baby right away. . . . Olivia De Havilland is secretly married. . . . Two major studios are on the verge of a merger. . . . Ginger Rogers will wed soon. . . . Bette Davis will become the wife of a non-pro. . . . Pat O'Brien will become a producer. . . . Universal was fated to be all washed out in the flood. . . . Ann Sheridan will fall in love with an older man, Mr. Brent.

So you think that was the lead paragraph of a gossip column? It wasn't. It was astrological predictions, partly from a Mrs. Louise Lochridge, who reads the cards and the stars of movie folk of both sexes while they are getting manicures and permanents at Westmore's. And it might average up pretty well. Mrs. Lochridge called the Carole Landis surprise marriage to the day, and was the one who told unknown Mary Martin she'd go to New York and be a stage hit and thus break into the movies in a big way.

This part of the country has more seers than it has leaders of religious cults, and the movie business is a fertile field for stargazers of the skyward variety. According to a serious minded authority, there are between 25 and 50 who are above the rank of charlatans. At the final banquet of the recent national convention of astrologers here there were 500 persons—and not a turban in the lot. This same serious minded authority ventures the opinion that three out of four of the top two dozen movie players govern their lives by horoscopes and astrological advice.

I wondered what the reason was and I got what sounds like a sensible theory. Life in the movies is a case of here today and gone before midnight. One bad picture and you're a bum. Two and you're thru. Contracts and options and the fickleness of a public which is far more erratic than any illiterate screwball of a magnate make a most uncertain life. A postman or a cop, being civil service, knows that all he has to do is to keep his nose clean and he'll retire on a pension in 20 years, like a gentleman. An actor has no such comfort. And astrology, which says that everything is all fixed in advance if you know how to play it right, offers an immovable foundation that the movie game itself sadly lacks.

Mrs. Lochridge, one of the many horoscopers, has read for 5,000 persons during her two and a half years at the beauty shop. A thousand might be called celebs or near celebs. Brenda Frazier was in for a hairdo the other day but Mrs. L. missed her. There would have been a scoop!

She is wide eyed, gentle spoken, this star reader. Born under a veil when her mother was 55. From childhood was psychic, had the power to prophesy. Married once—but she wouldn't tell an interviewer about herself. Last January she knocked off a set of predictions for a fan magazine, among them the Joan Bennett-Walter Wanger wedding and the opinion that a number of movie folk would become involved in a scandal and a long court action. Well, the Dies committee's Red hunt, and the more recent local witch sniffing by District Attorney Fitts might handily be the answer to this one.

However, on Jan. 1, the prophetess opined that, toward the middle of the year, Hedy Lamarr and Gene Markey would become the subjects of a lot of nasty talk, but there would be no separation. The middle of the year comes around on schedule, being governed by the sun and stars, and Markey goes home to his father. The prediction was also made that Loretta Young would marry a man who had been married before. Well, Miss Young did wed, but she became Mrs. Tom Lewis No. 1.

Prominent in the Taurus-to-Pisces-and-not-to-chance profession is Bianca Holmes, wife of Actor Stuart Holmes. This lady has a number of Hollywood's most noted clients, but she said she wouldn't talk unless she were the only astrologer mentioned in an article. Unable to give her top and exclusive billing, I had to give up the thought of an interview. I must have been born under the wrong conjunction.

Interesting in this same top notch set is a chap named Manly Hall, who looks like something out of Dick Tracy and who is highly respected as superethical and extraordinarily well versed in sky lore. A student more than a practicing consultant, perhaps, he will not talk about whatever clients he may have; but he did tell about studio horoscopes. Studios, as well as individuals, are influenced by the stars. Metro was born under the sign of Leo, the Lion, and darned if it doesn't have Leo the Lion for a trademark. It is also quite the most regal studio in Hollywood.

The Warner plant began under the sign of Gemini—and, according to Hall, its successes have been true to Gemini character. Action and crime. Universal is Pisces—fish—and every flood menaces or damages the property. Pisces also governs the mysterious, the weird and music, and Universal makes money with horror pictures and Deanna Durbin. Twentieth Century-Fox is a Scorpio baby and Scorpio is good for biography. The Fox biographical films—newest of which is "Brigham Young"—are normally successful and well done.

ANDERSON SENDS ALL-STARS THRU OPENING PRACTICE

PLANS TO INVITE PRO CARDINALS TO SCRIMMAGE

Double Workouts Ordered for Week.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-American football players of 1939, who will be the Green Bay Packers' opponents in the seventh annual All-Star game in Soldiers' field Aug. 29, assembled yesterday afternoon in Dyche stadium.

The squad reported at 2 o'clock and a half hour later was uniformed and on the practice field. With few exceptions the list of 67 players was complete last evening, altho several of the late comers didn't arrive at the Hinman house on the Northwestern university campus until after the afternoon drill.

Coach Eddie Anderson of Iowa and Tad Wieman of Princeton greeted early arrivals yesterday morning. With Anderson were his Iowa assistants, Jim Harris, line coach, and Frank Carideo, back field coach, who will aid in the development of the All-Star squad.

Two Practices Scheduled.

Two practices are scheduled today. The boys will report at 9 o'clock and again at 2:30 this afternoon. The double practice program, Anderson said, will be continued this week, barring inclement weather.

At the earliest opportunity Anderson expects to extend an invitation to the Chicago Cardinals of the National Pro league to scrimmage against the All-Stars.

"While this is an innovation," Anderson said in explaining his proposition, "I see no reason why the Cardinals shouldn't accept. Scrimmaging the All-Stars will help Jimmy Conzelman get his men ready for the pro campaign. This practice also will be ideal for the All-Stars, who will play harder against outsiders than in intra-squad games and will get more good out of the scrimmage, since the Cardinals have no knowledge of our plays.

Suggests Game Aug. 24.

"Intrasquad scrimmages will be held, of course," Anderson continued, "but defensively the All-Stars, like any other squad, will be inclined to play formations and signals. This will be eliminated if the Cardinals accept our invitation. I am going to suggest to Conzelman and to Charley Bidwill [owner of the Cardinals] that a practice game be played on Saturday, Aug. 24, as the conclusion to our scrimmages."

The Cardinals scrimmaged against the New York Giants, who played the All-Stars last year, when the two pro elevens were in training in Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis. It has been reported that the Cardinals already have agreed to assist the Green Bay Packers this year by working with them in a practice game. The Cardinals, who are drilling at Morgan Park Military academy, will travel to Green Bay for the game with the Packers.

Anderson an Ex-Cardinal.

Sending the All-Stars against the Cardinals also will be something of a sentimental gesture in tribute to Anderson. The former Notre Dame star played with the Cardinals for several seasons, and was at left end for the team in 1925 when the Cards, then owned by Chris O'Brien, won the National league championship. Anderson that season played in the game against the Bears in which Red Grange made his first professional appearance. The Bears and Cardinals played a scoreless tie on Thanksgiving day in Wrigley field. Previously in that season the Cardinals had defeated the Bears, 9 to 0.

John Haman of Northwestern, Archie Kodros of Michigan, and Mike Kopcha of Chattanooga university, all centers, received an extra amount of work in the first practice, since the drill was built around passing and kicking. Almost without exception the players reported in fine condition. Many said they had been working to that end since notification of their election to the All-Star squad. Others, such as Bob Kellogg, Tulane half back, have been at summer camps. Floyd [Buzz] Dean, Iowa right half, has been an instructor

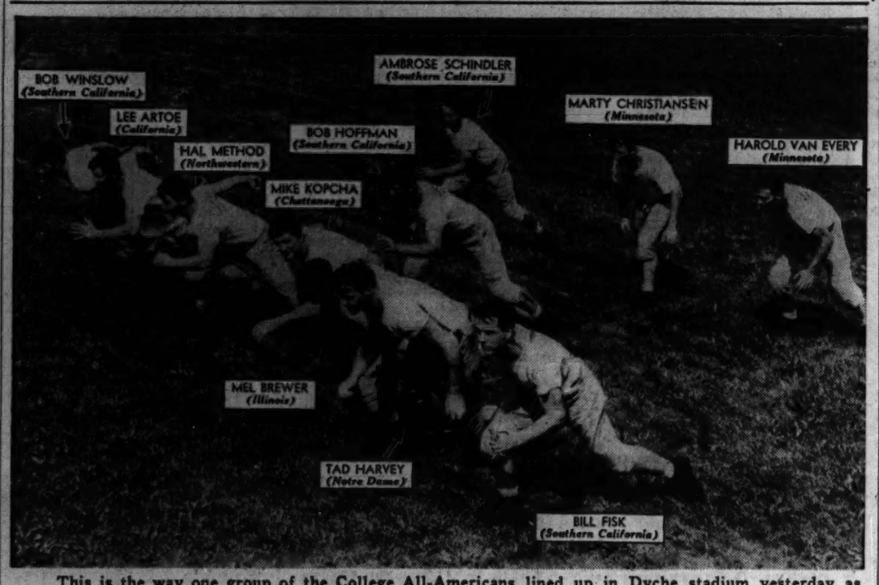
All-Stars Dig In for Battle with Packers



This is the way one group of the College All-Americans lined up in Dyche stadium yesterday as Head Coach Eddie Anderson of Iowa sent his charges thru opening practice for the game with the Green Bay Packers on Soldiers' field Aug. 29. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. Anderson (arrow at right) tells the All-Stars his training plans for their battle with the Packers.

Two Rivers Backs Faith in Packers with Offer of Camp

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 11.—The Green Bay Packers' participation in the Chicago All-Star game on Aug. 29 has ceased to be a local matter. Two Rivers, a lakeside neighbor, today sent over a one man delegation to declare itself in.

Duke Bridges, sports editor of the Two Rivers Reporter, representing the Chamber of Commerce and the school board, offered the Packers Two Rivers' exceptional training facilities for the All-Star game and made arrangements for the famous Hamilton band, a prize winning musical organization, to attend all Packer games in Wisconsin.

A Wisconsin Institution.

"The Packers," Bridges said, "have become more than a Green Bay team. They are a Wisconsin institution and we are anxious to do what we can to keep them foremost in the football parade. Situated as we are on Lake Michigan between two rivers, the temperature in Two Rivers is more suited for the conditioning of a football team than nearly any other place in the state. Our high school has the most complete locker room facilities in the middle west and our field is in better shape right now than Camp Randall field in Madison or the Packers' own stadium. These facilities are all at the Packers' disposal."

Pittsburgh's Steelers trained at Two Rivers last year. They were unable to return this summer because of previous commitments. Columbus of the American league is planning to train there, but Bridges said the Bullies would be moved to other headquarters any time Coach Curley Lambeau wants to bring the Packers to town. It is only a forty minute drive from Green Bay to Two Rivers and Lambeau said he would accept Bridges' offer if Green Bay suffered a protracted heat wave.

Packers Their Team.

"We send about 500 persons on an average over to Green Bay for every Packer game," Bridges said, "and there probably will be 50 or 100 follow them to Chicago on Aug. 29 if tickets are available. We, like every one else in Wisconsin, long have looked on the Packers as our team. While there is almost a unanimous belief that they will defeat the All-Stars, a belief that may be too unanimous to be healthy, there is also a more overwhelming belief that an All-Star victory this year will be injurious to Wisconsin football prestige.

"All Packer fans are hero worshipers, of course, and we are always willing to give the boys one more

Bachelor Picks Six Winners to Capture $5,000

Fred Schmicker, 4954 North Keeler avenue, 57 years old, won the $5,000 award in the Patrons' handicapping contest at Washington Park Saturday, track officials revealed yesterday. He named six of the first seven winners, missing only when Sirocco ran second to Mioland in the American Derby.

Schmicker, who admits he leans to long shots, picked Alcinous in the first race at $25.80; Anti Air in the second at $52.20; Flying Streak in the third at $8.40; Wicket in the fourth at $11; Court Dance in the fifth at $5.20, and Cheick Rama in the seventh at $5.40.

Fred Schmicker.

The sixth-place finish of his top selection, Sure Swift, in the eighth race, which is used in the contest only when a tie exists, got the decision for him over two other contestants who also had six winners but were eliminated when their first pick, Blind Barney, in the eighth, was a late scratch.

Schmicker, who has been following horse racing keenly ever since the 1902 American Derby, will receive his award at the track today from President Walter L. Gregory of the Washington Park Jockey club. He is a bachelor, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and resides with a married sister. His business is buying precious metals.

"Today the contest prize will be $1,000, which will go to the person picking seven consecutive winners.

PIRATES MAKE CUBS WALK THE PLANK, 7-3, 5-1

Chicago Errs Six Times in 1st Game; Drops to 5th.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 11.—The Cubs, grievously weighted down by the lead in their pants, today sank a game and a half into the second division of the National league when they dropped both games of a double header to the Pirates, 7 to 3 and 5 to 1.

In the first game Bill Lee, who pitched seven innings under all kinds of obstacles; Ken Raffensberger, who lost without seeing a putout, and Charley Root, who labored in the final inning, were supported by a six error defense. The six errors all were of a serenely sloppy variety, three of them coming in an unbelievably bad eighth inning after the Cubs had aroused themselves sufficiently to tie the score in their half.

Passeau Suffers, Too.

Claude Passeau, who perhaps had become a little balmy watching Lee, Raffensberger, and Root suffer in the first game, was knocked out with five straight hits before a putout in the third inning. These five straight hits, on top of a 1 to 1 tie, brought the game to its final status, 5 to 1. The Cubs made four hits in this game, one a double by Vance Page, who replaced Passeau. Dick Lanahan went all the way against the tired Chicagoans.

Thus the Cubs ended a long trip by losing 10 and winning 9. The only time they showed any spark was in taking three out of four from the Dodgers, and here yesterday, when Vern Olsen and Dom Dallessandro executed a 1 to 0 victory. They announced before the Brooklyn series that they were going to hustle against the Dodgers because they were angry at Manager Leo Durocher's fellows.

The Cubs, in addition to being plunged into the second division, were reduced to even .500. They can go much lower than that if they play like they did to entertain 28,968 Pirate enthusiasts here today.

FIRST GAME

Scoring in the first game started in the Pirate second inning, a session which brought the second and third Cub errors of the game. Fletcher singled and, as Van Robays fanned, Elbie stole second and went on to third when Todd threw the ball many feet over second base. Fletcher got home when Herman fumbled Gustine's bouncer.

The Cubs tied the score in the fourth. Leiber walked, went to third on Dallessandro's single to right and scored as Todd and Dallessandro were going down in a double play.

The Pirates went ahead, 2 to 1, in the sixth. L. Waner's grounder took a crazy bounce away from Warstler, then P. Waner doubled to right center, L. Waner stopping at third. Herman knocked down Garms' drive toward right, but it went for a hit, scoring L. Waner. Vaughan and Fletcher then fouled out and Van Robays fanned.

The score became 3 to 1 in the Pirate seventh. Gustine opened with a single and scored on Lopez's double to left center.

Cubs Tie Score in 8th.

Church Sociable.

Each day bringing something new,
Inventions, improvements, and whatnots,
Confusing at times, it is true;
But back down the trail of memory
Are milestones that nothing can shake,
Like the annual church lawn sociable
With its homemade ice cream and cake.

Old friends sittting beneath the trees
The happy cries of the children
Scamp'ring up and down the walk;
The mixed quartet from the village choir
Singing "Sweet Genevieve";
What tender recollections
Those far-off memories leave.

The glittering lights of the city,
The Gay White Way and the rest
May all possess their glamor,
But the memory I love best
Is the flickering Japanese lanterns
With the stars playing put-and-take,
Back home at the old church sociable

LYONS WINS 1ST WITH DOUBLE IN 8TH INNING

Wright Accounts for All Runs in 2d.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

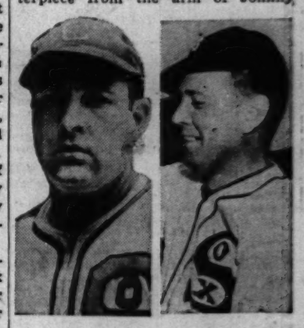
The White Sox, working heavy on the dramatic side, roared forth again yesterday from their fourth place perch to inform Detroit's Tigers that the American league pennant race remains under the heading of unfinished business. Piloted by Ted Lyons, the old man of the mound, Jimmy Dykes' battlers upset their guests, 4 to 3, in the front half of a double header. Not satisfied with breaking an eighth inning tie to win that decision the Sox turned loose another explosive eighth in the second game to nose out their enemies by the same score and turn a Comiskey park crowd of 32,032 into a batch of whooping, paper and hat tossing fanatics.

The defeats dropped Detroit into a first place tie with Cleveland.

In the first game the Sox spent most of their time wielding war sticks against Buck Newsom, the big I Am man, but didn't enjoy the thrill of pasting a defeat on the large sized boy's impressive record of 14 victories against two setbacks. Babbling Buck, after being nicked for a homer by Joe Kuhel in the seventh, was yanked for a pinch hitter in the eighth when the Tigers knocked Lyons back into a 3 to 3 tie. With Buck gone, the pitching was entrusted to Freddy Hutchinson, who promptly succumbed to a single by Mike Tresh with one out and a double to center by Lyons after two were gone.

Rigney Routed in Seventh.

The second game moved on until it began to look like a pitching masterpiece from the arm of Johnny



Taft Wright. Ted Lyons.

Rigney, but he set too swift a pace for himself. His associates, notably Taft Wright, fixed him comfortably with a two run lead off Tommy Bridges in six innings, during which the Tigers produced only one safe clout. But the seventh marked the end of Rigney's endurance. Before he had retired anybody two had singled. Mixed with these were homers by Hank Greenberg and Rudy York, producing three runs and a 3 to 2 edge for the visitors. Clint Brown stopped all such activities, but his mates didn't stop.

For seven innings the Sox could show only five hits against Bridges, one of the two runs scoring because of the graciousness of Dickie Bartell. And they didn't even start maneuvering to beat the little curve ball expert until two were gone in the eighth. At that point, Kuhel walked and dashed to third on a single slammed into center by Appling. Wright did the rest. He didn't like the first pitch, but the second was suitable. Derby Plunges Turf Situation Into Confusion

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Now that the outcome of the American Derby has plunged the 3 year old horse racing situation into thoro confusion, Washington Park will turn its attention to the juveniles and the older horses. The Futurity a week from Saturday and the Washington Park Handicap on Labor day are the two most important events left on a summer schedule which has been attracting the country's best horses to Chicago.

The victory of Mioland over Sirocco, Gallahadion and others in the American Derby was the final touch necessary to bring about chaos. The 3 year division now has four horses which have won major stakes and in doing so they have been beating one another with regularity. Mioland, Sirocco, Bimelech and Gallahadion have divided the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, the Belmont, the Arlington Classic and the American Derby among them—and the best horse seems to be the one which feels most like running on any particular day in question.

First 1940 Stake in Rain.

It was unfortunate, indeed, that after weeks of clear, dry weather, a rain squall had to sweep Washington Park just an hour and a half before post time for the Derby. As had been expected, this led to the prompt scratching of Bimelech, thus striking an important factor from the field.

This was the first of the major 3 year old stakes that has been decided on a sloppy track. Some of the previous events had been run in dull going, but never before had the winner been called upon to demonstrate his ability to slither thru a marsh the way Mioland did on Saturday.

Incidentally, the change in track conditions complicated the worries of the betters tremendously. With the scratching of Bimelech, they began shopping around intensely for a horse at good odds to beat Sirocco and Gallahadion. Many of them scanned Mioland's record closely but could find no evidence in his past performances of an ability to run in the mud. For this reason, a few of the fans passed him up after they had been all ready to bet on him if the going had been dry.

Gallahadion Disappoints.

In that case, of course, the result might or might not have been entirely different. Sirocco is known to have a definite preference for dry footing, tho he is able to run in the slop. Gallahadion, which finished fourth, was a particular disappointment to his followers who had seen him run so well at Churchill Downs and Arlington Park. In all probability, however, it wasn't the mud that stopped him. He may have been having just another one of his dull days.

The stake event coming up next Saturday will be for fillies and mares. Distance runners will resume their struggle in the regular Wednesday marathons. Hirsch Jacob's Misrule won the first of these at a mile and a half and Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put scored in last Wednesday's 2¼ miles event. This week the distance runners will be called upon to go 2¾ miles. On Aug. 21 they will step up the route to 3⅛ miles and will climax their program with a gallop of four miles for a $3,500 purse on Aug. 28.

LEONARD LEADS EAST IN NEGRO ALL-STAR POLL

Buck Leonard, one of the all-time greats of Negro baseball, will lead an east squad to Comiskey park Sunday afternoon for the eighth annual all-star Negro baseball game against the west. Personnel of the east squad, comprising the pick of the Negro National league, was announced yesterday following a nation-wide poll of fans.

The west squad, made up of players from the Negro American league, holds a 4 to 3 edge in victories as a result of a 4 to 2 triumph in the Sox park last August.

Leonard, first baseman of the Pittsburgh Homestead Grays, topped the eastern poll with 150,223, followed by Ray Brown, star pitcher of the same team; Martinez, New York Cubans' shortstop; Mule Suttles, Newark Eagles' outfielder, and Bizzy Mackey, Newark catcher.

Vic Harris, Pittsburgh Homestead Grays' manager, topped the voting among the pilots and will direct the east. The east squad follows:

Lefty Grove Loses Duel to Senators' Rookie.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Young Sid Hudson, sensational Senator rookie from the Florida State league, set the Boston Red Sox down with five hits today while his mates touched Lefty Grove for 11 and a 2 to 1 victory. It was Hudson's 11th triumph. Hudson himself singled over the Senators' first run in the second inning.

George Case opened the eighth for Washington by beating out a hit to Joe Cronin and took second when Cronin threw wild. Cecil Travis singled into center field and Case scored the winning run. Score:

YANKEES, 7; A's, 6.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Yankees swept their three game series with the Philadelphia Athletics today when Joe Gordon hit his 21st home run in the 11th inning for a 7 to 6 victory.

The Mackmen apparently had sewed up the contest with a four run rally in the ninth, featured by home runs by Joe Gantenbein and Sam Chapman, but the Yanks came back in their half to count twice and send the game into extra innings.

When Frank Hayes hit a homer for the Athletics' first run in the fifth he broke a scoreless streak for his team that had extended thru 22 innings.

INDIANS, 12-6; BROWNS, 4-7.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 11 (AP).—Cleveland regained a share of the American league lead today by dividing two games with the St. Louis Browns, losing the second game, 7 to 6, after pounding out a 12 to 4 victory in the opener. The even break put the Indians on the same level as the Detroit Tigers who started the day with a full game advantage, but lost a pair of 4 to 3 games to the Chicago White Sox.

A single by Pinch Hitter Chet Laabs in the sixth inning of the second game broke a 3 to 3 tie and sent Cleveland on the way to its downfall, altho the Tribe pushed across two runs in the ninth and had the tying run on second when Relief Pitcher Roxie Lawson turned back the threat.

Walter Judnich hit his 22d homer and Harland Clift his 14th for the Browns in the second game and Hal Trosky got his 20th for Cleveland in the same game. Scores:

Reds Beaten Twice, 3-2, 3-1, by Cardinals

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals ended a five game losing streak today by winning a double header, 3 to 2 and 3 to 1, from the league leading Cincinnati Reds. Effective pitching by Morton Cooper and Lon Warneke turned the trick and enabled the Cardinals to split the four game series.

Lon Warneke.

Cooper, the 26 year old sophomore yielded only two hits in the opener. Bill Werber singled in the fourth, after which Mike and Frank McCormick walked. Then Ernie Lombardi singled to score Werber and McCormick.

The defeat put Cincinnati five games ahead of the second place Dodgers as Brooklyn split a double header with the Bees. Scores:

MILLS WIN TWO; SPENCER COALS BEATEN TWICE

The Mills won a double header from the Birmingham Barons in Mills stadium and the Spencer Coals lost two games to the Palmer House All-Stars in Spencer field in semi-pro baseball games yesterday.

The Mills' scores were 12 to 10 and 7 to 1. The Palmer House nine stopped the Coals' winning streak, 9 to 2, and 6 to 0.

Lake Forest, Winnetka Win 12th Cricket Victories

White Sox Win Double Header from Tigers

across by the ex-Senator, who scored the other one personally.

FIRST GAME

The bombastic Newsom wasn't so hot in the first inning of the first game, but the Sox went on one of their periodical base running adventures. Kreevich singled with one out and immediately went out stealing, a maneuver that didn't look very good when Kuhel and Appling walked. Kuhel was picked off second by Newsom, causing more distress to the Chicagoans.

Higgins singled in between a pair of outs in the second inning and Lyons did the unusual—for Lyons—by committing a wild pitch on which Higgins advanced. He covered the rest of the distance to the plate on Sullivan's two bagger to right. The Sox tied it in the same inning on Wright's single, a hit of similar length by Tresh and one by Kennedy, who immediately took a nap. He was awakened by being tagged while off base.

Lyons was unusual again in the third. Fox singled and McCosky got a single on a short fly to center. After fanning Greenberg, Lyons' ordinarily perfect aim deserted him and both York and Higgins walked, forcing Fox to score.

Bartell Penalized for Tripping.

The Sox climbed back into a tie in the fourth with the aid of Greenberg and Bartell. Rosenthal singled to left with one out and went to third on Tresh's single to left. When Greenberg's throw to third went wild, Rosenthal leaped up and started for the plate, but after taking a couple steps was tripped by Bartell. Umpire Cal Hubbard observed Bartell's trickery and waved Rosenthal home.

The Sox spurned their big chance in the sixth. Newsom walked Wright and Rosenthal and after Sullivan's bad throw to second had allowed the two runners to advance, Tresh was purposely passed. It filled the bags with none out but taps by Kennedy and Lyons resulted in forceouts at the plate and Webb grounded to Higgins. The crowd didn't feel so bad about this fadeout when Kuhel notched his 20th homer to right to put the Sox ahead, 3 to 2, in the seventh.

But the joy was short lived. Meyer led off in the eighth with a single and moved to third on Sullivan's single. Campbell, batting for Newsom, walked to fill the bases. Averill did Bartell's batting and dispatched a fly to Rosenthal, scoring Meyer with the tying run. Then Fox lined into Appling's hands and Sullivan was doubled off second. Shortly after this the bats of Tresh and Lyons did their work and Lyons then finished the job by setting down McCosky, Greenberg, and York in order in the ninth.

SECOND GAME

Bartell was a very handy man for the Sox in the second inning, when they scored the first run of the battle. After Appling had lined out to McCosky, Wright singled to left. As Rosenthal fanned, Wright darted for second, and made it easily because Bartell, thinking Rosenthal's strikeout was the end of the inning, was busy throwing his glove away instead of covering the base. Then to complete his act, Bartell let Turner's grounder seep past his shoes and Wright sprinted home.

A 7,200 POUND BLUSH GREETS STORK SHOWER

40,000 Zoo Visitors Call on Demure Nancy.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Ziggy, the 10,000 pound male elephant at Brookfield zoo, thought it was a lot of feminine foolishness. But Nancy, his mate, was a mountain of demureness.

Dressed in a gigantic bed jacket of baby blue and white—which was made by a tent and awning manufacturer—Nancy received 40,000 persons yesterday at a surprise stork shower for her in the elephant house. Nancy, who has gained approximately 700 pounds during the last 19 months and now weighs 7,200 pounds, is "expecting" during the next three months. If her baby lives she will be the first successful elephant mother in an American zoo.

The shower took Nancy completely by surprise. She was in her bath and hadn't expected guests. She was as upset as any housewife because the clothes line on which hung her huge nightgown had not been taken down before company arrived. It was so embarrassing that Nancy kept her face to the wall most of the day.

An Elephantine Layette.

Every now and then, however, she peeked at the big pink and blue platform on which her visitors kept piling gifts. Her heavy eyes were suspiciously moist, altho that may have been because she had left her bath so hastily. There was everything on the platform to make a baby elephant the biggest bundle of joy that a stork ever tackled.

There was a nursing bottle that would hold 400 gallons of milk, a gift of the National Dairy council. Tony Frolik, the park carpenter, had built a crib that could rock a good slice of the world. Two bushel baskets of fruit, arranged like bouquets, were the gift of another Tony who likes elephants. Bales of choice hay and crates of peanuts were tender tidbits from other friends.

Three of Nancy's elephant relatives, Waddy, Hazel, and Dutch from the Boston zoo, sent boxes of toy animals by airplane. There was even a little plush elephant which Nancy fondled with her trunk.

Memory Book, Too.

The modern mother nowadays keeps a memory book of the first antics of her child. Karl Knecht, an Evansville, Ind., cartoonist, supplied a giant baby book to record the blessed event.

No shower is complete without a cake. A baker contributed it. The cake was 30 inches round and 40 inches high and was decorated with three quizzical storks and a fat baby elephant. Drawings of Nancy and her prospective baby also decorated a folder of elephant safety pins, the gift of another friend.

The shower was sponsored by the Elephant Society of the United States —an exclusive organization composed of 96 zoo elephants—and by members of the Chicago Zoölogical society and directors of Brookfield zoo. All in all it was a great occasion. Even if Nancy weren't an elephant, she wouldn't be likely to forget it.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

STANDARD OIL (IND.) REPORTS RISE IN PROFITS

Six Month Earnings $1.34 a Share.

Net earnings of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for the first six months of 1940 totaled $20,497,222, equivalent to $1.34 a share on 15,272,014 shares outstanding June 30, Edward G. Seubert, president, announced yesterday.

Edward G. Seubert.

Net earnings for the first half of 1939 amounted to $14,979,693, equal to 98 cents a share on the 15,272,022 shares outstanding June 30 that year.

Seubert attributed the larger earnings in 1940 to the increased volume of sales which was sufficient to more than offset declines in unit prices.

Texas Gulf Earns More.

Texas Gulf Producing company, crude oil producer, issued a quarterly pamphlet report showing an increase in its profits for the six months ended June 30 and a 12 per cent gain in production compared with the first half of last year. Profit was $340,303, equal to 38 cents a share after all charges and federal taxes, compared with $267,324, or 30 cents a share, in the 1939 period.

The company produced 921,715 barrels of crude oil in the first half of 1940, for which it received $960,233. Nearly all of its oil is sold to Atlantic Petroleum Purchasing corporation, a subsidiary of Atlantic Refining company, at average posted prices.

Financing Firm Gains.

Associates Investment company, South Bend, Ind., a financing company which handles automobile paper, announced its 1940 half year profit was $1,459,690, equal to $2.76 a common share, compared with $1,116,133, or $2.31 a share, in the first six months of 1939.

E. M. Morris, president of the company, said that its total assets as of June 30, 1940, were $83,987,061, the largest on record. He said notes receivable also reached an all-time high mark of $80,671,232 on June 30.

Central Electric and Telephone company, which operates in several midwestern states and in North Carolina and West Virginia, reported consolidated profit of $214,222 for the first half of this year, against $183,752 in the corresponding 1939 period.

RUBBER IMPORTS RISE AS RESULT OF DEFENSE PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special.]—Reflecting the current heavy defense purchases of crude rubber from the far east, the department of commerce's report today showed that 69,474 of long tons of crude rubber were imported in July compared with only 37,372 tons in July, 1939. In June imports were 53,889 tons.

In the first seven months of 1940 crude rubber imports totaled 420,378 long tons compared with only 263,496 tons in the corresponding period of 1939.

Domestic stocks of rubber held under the British-American cotton-rubber agreement increased by 5,650 tons from June 29 to Aug. 3.

Steel Output Likely to Hold Near Capacity

Growing automotive needs and the increasing requirements of the national defense program are likely to carry the steel industry to the close of the year with near-capacity production, the magazine Steel said yesterday.

Exports recently have taken 15 to 20 per cent of output and war developments will decide how long this proportion will be maintained, the publication said. Even if British and Canadian demands decrease, domestic requirements appear likely to expand, it said.

The national production average held at 90½ per cent of theoretical capacity last week. Chicago output increased half a point to 96½ per cent.

Deliveries Are Delayed.

"Heavy shipments lately have been without effect on mill backlogs of many products, and deliveries on some items have become further delayed," the publication said. "Buyers generally are protected on current needs, either by previous commitments now being filled or by stocks on hand. Consequently, the supply situation so far has been without serious inconveniences."

More extended delivery delays by fall are likely, the study said. Automobile production was described "at or near the season's ebb," but railroad equipment orders were found to be continuing at a "fairly active" rate.

Several large orders for line pipe have swelled recent business in tubular products. Railroad equipment orders continue fairly active.

Use of Steel Scrap Rises.

Domestic consumption of iron and steel scrap in July totaled 3,526,000 gross tons, only a shade under the 1940 monthly high of 3,581,000 tons reached in January, the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel estimated. Use in July last year amounted to 2,247,000 tons.

The institute said indications were that 1940 consumption would threaten the previous record of 38,006,000 tons established in 1937.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The federal reserve board estimated today that about a million persons were taken off the unemployment lists last year. Because the growth of population put more persons on the jobless rolls, however, the board added that the net decline in unemployment probably had been around half a million.

In its monthly bulletin, the board rated July industrial production at about 121 per cent of the 1935-'39 average. With this calculation, in inaugurated a drastically revised index of factory output. The board's former index, under which the July figure would have been 117, was based on 1923-'25 as a comparative period.

The American Federation of Labor today predicted a 23 per cent rise in 1940 industrial profits.

NEW YORK CITY TRAFFIC GAINS 2.3 PER CENT IN 1939

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—Rapid transit, street cars, and bus lines operating within the New York City limits carried 3,150,700,000 passengers in the year ended Dec. 31, 1939, or 69,500,000 more than in 1938, the transit commission reported today. The increase was 2.3 per cent.

At least 31,000,000 of the additional passengers were traced to the World's Fair of 1939. The total gain did not take into account about 15,700,000 passengers carried to and from the fair by the Long Island railroad and a number of bus companies not reporting to the commission.

The total traffic was larger than in 1938 in each of the three categories. Rapid transit traffic was up 1.29 per cent, street railways 0.97 per cent, and buses 6.85 per cent.

Retail Merchants Invited to Defense Plan Parley

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The National Defense commission announced today that retail merchants had been invited to confer here Aug. 29 with Miss Harriet Elliott, the commission's consumer adviser, to discuss coöperation of retailers with the commission's consumer division.

SUPPLY OF CORN AMPLE DESPITE HEAT, DROUTH

Crop Estimate Cut by Damage.

An ample supply of corn is in sight for this season despite damage done to the present crop by drouth and heat, Chicago grain statisticians said yesterday after release of the crop estimate of the department of agriculture. The department forecast a yield of 2,248,000,000 bushels, indicating that damage in the last month had cut 167,700,000 bushels from the prospective harvest.

However, it was observed that large reserves of corn have been piling up in recent years and that the amount of the grain available for consumption is much in excess of domestic disappearance. Another factor cited by grain men was that the pig crop had been cut about 10 per cent, indicating a smaller corn demand in that quarter.

Oats and Barley Plentiful.

Liberal supplies of oats and barley are on hand this season to supplement the corn crop, experts said. They asserted that recent rains in Iowa, Minnesota, and other states would probably more than offset any deterioration that had occurred since Aug. 1 in other parts of the main corn producing area.

Corn prices strengthened last week and went into new high ground for about two months. Shortage of supplies of cash grain at terminal markets accounted for the substantial premium which prevailed for the September delivery, brokers said.

A winter wheat crop of 556,000,000 bushels was harvested this season, the department of agriculture estimated. The crop was estimated at 399,000,000 bushels on Dec. 1, 1939.

PLAN TAX, LOAN TO CUT STOCK EXCHANGE SEATS

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—Plans for retiring New York Stock exchange memberships, to be discussed by the board of governors on Wednesday, are understood to be based on a "transaction tax" on

In the slack times prices of stock exchange seats are set by those who don't need them any more and sell them. Hundreds of members have been embarrassed by the drop in prices. Much of the demand for seat reduction is due to a desire to create buying in the seat market rather than a desire to reduce the number of seats to a figure consonant with business conditions.
